MAIN STREET — The time was about 1900 to 1915, Reservoir Hill (on which no reservoir has ever existed) loomed beyond the eastern extremity of Grant Avenue, Novato's main street, as it does today. The old dance hall, that tall building with peaked roof on the right, and now Johnson's Redbarn Warehouse, stood at the corner of Sherman and Grant, as it does today. Druid's Hall, barely visible, a few buildings up the avenue, stood at Reichert and Grant, as it does today. And two-way traffic of a kind plied the avenue, as it does today. But much physical change has been wrought. . . and much more change in the way of life. The flavor of that earlier time was brought to life yesterday for the Novato Chamber of Commerce by the reminiscences of former supervisor William A. Gnoss.

Kissinger Remains Hopeful For Israeli-Syrian Accord

Mideast's Peacemaker Admits Task Difficult

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger said yesterday he was hopeful of getting an agreement on Israeli-Syrian disengagement in his sixth mediation trip to the Middle East starting next week — or in subsequent visits.

But he made clear once again it was going to be more difficult to arrange the Golan Heights disengagement than it had been to reach agreement on the Israeli-Egyptian front.

The secretary, in an apparent effort to spur Syrian agreement, said it was possible that Damascus could qualify for $100 million in U.S. economic aid once it had committed itself to peace and military disengagement.

In response to a question, Kissinger said he was hopeful that the Soviet Union would "play a constructive role" in the forthcoming discussions on separating Syrian and Israeli forces on the Golan front.

At a news conference, Kissinger rejected a suggestion that the Soviet Union had not been backing up his military disengagement efforts because of its continued military supplies to Syria and some of the aspects of the negotiations.

He said that Soviet actions simply reflected Moscow's "close cooperation with several countries" including Syria and that Moscow's "interesting participation at various stages of the negotiation" was understandable.

Kissinger's new trip is expected to last 15 days.

Kissinger leaves Sunday on his trip, stopping first in Geneva to confer with Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko Monday. This meeting is designed to tie in Russia more closely with the American effort to separate Syrian and Israeli forces.

Officials have said the hope is that Russia will pressure Syria, which receives large scale military aid from the Kremlin, to consider favorably a U.S. compromise proposal for disengagement of forces.

Kissinger emphasized he wanted to talk with Gromyko also about the current state of the Strategic Arms Limitations Talks (SALT), which deals primarily with limiting and possibly reducing offensive nuclear weapons.

Kissinger said he had a "lengthy meeting" on the subject earlier today with Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash.

Jackson has said that the administration is looking for a "quick fix" to get a partial arms limitations agreement in time for President Nixon to sign it as his scheduled summit trip to Moscow in June.

Kissinger rejected any suggestion that the administration would accept any sort of a dangerous agreement, making undue concessions, simply in order to have a pact for Nixon to sign.

Speaking rather emotionally and noting that the SALT discussions involved the possible destruction of the world by either or both of the nuclear superpowers, Kissinger said, "We will not try to speed a SALT agreement just to have it at the summit."

SEVEN SALOONS, NO DOCTOR

A Nostalgic Look At Old Novato

By FRANK FARRARA

Former Marin County Supervisor William A. Gnoss reached into his memory bank yesterday and brought forth the small town Novato of the early 1900s.

Reminiscences of Fourth of July parades, Sunday night at the railroad station and the swimming hole spilled forth at a Novato Chamber of Commerce luncheon at which he was guest speaker.

The Gnoss family arrived in Novato in 1905 and Gnoss was one of seven boys in the family. "We were very fortunate to get 50 acres at $100 an acre, including the house and well and everything."

On arrival, he said, he stopped at a roadhouse at South Novato Boulevard and Diablo Avenue and a man named Sutton asked where he was going.

"We said out on Olive Avenue, the Rose Ranch, and he said three families had lived there and all had gone broke farming," Gnoss recalled.

"All you could see to the west and from Ignacio to the county line was owned by the Novato Land Co. and this area was known as the largest orchard in California, maybe in the U.S. Grapes were growing as far as you could see, and pears, apricots, peaches, prunes and apples.

Gnoss said there were three cheese factories in the area and "I got a job making cheese boxes, 35 cents a hundred, and on Saturdays I made $1.05."

Novato had nine saloons, a livery stable, two stores, but no doctor, he said.

"You wonder why a small town, only 400 people, had so many saloons, well, there were a lot of people working in the area. There were a lot of Chinese. I can remember hundreds of Chinese coming into Novato and on Saturday night cowboys came into town and gambled," he said.

On Saturday night a flatbed wagon from the Novato Land Co. "would come into town and the cowboys and milkers would come into town," he said.

After drinking, many land company workers weren't in shape to return to their quarters that night "so the railroad always had a cattle car on a side track by the depot. Those who were hard to handle went into the cattle car and the next morning at 11 a.m. the flatbed wagon would pick them up," Gnoss said.

The town had a constable and a judge," but really not very much trouble," he said. The constable used to carry a six-shooter "but I don't think he even knew how to load it."

Novato had a weekly paper, a dramatic club with shows every three to four months, a baseball team, and a band, "so a small town did have a lot of opportunities," Gnoss said. "I joined the fire department. We all helped one another and everyone knew one another."

Gnoss, who played French horn in the band, recalled that one of the biggest events was the Fourth of July celebration with parade, pit barbecue and horse races.

The horse races would be along Grant Avenue from what is now the Novato Downtown Shopping Center to Druid's Hall.

Gnoss also recalled that Sunday night at the Northwestern Pacific Railroad depot "was quite an occasion . . . a regular going-away party."

Residents who worked in San Francisco and were home only on weekends would be leaving to go back to work, and people who had been visiting and those who had been hunting in the area also filled the station.

The Novato Land Co. sold out in 1910 and that's why they subdivided and sold 20-acre parcels, Gnoss recalled, noting the change in the area from the large open ranches that were flourishing when he arrived.

Trade Balance On Deficit Side

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Despite record dollar volume exports, higher priced petroleum sent the U. S. balance of trade into deficit in March for the first time in nine months, the Commerce Department reported today.

The United States exported goods worth $7,673.9 million, but imported $7,845.2 million for a deficit of $171.3 million.

Petroleum imports totaled $1,666.3 million last month. The first quarter import value of $4,451.9 million for petroleum products was nearly triple the value of the first quarter of 1973.

Another Commerce report said its composite index of leading indicators continued to rise in March despite negative growth in the Gross National Product.

The index traditionally has been used to foretell whether the economy will expand or decline.

The deficit in the balance of trade was the first for any month since June 1973.

The merchandise trade figure is part of the balance of payments, which includes the value of services as well as goods. The balance of payments has been favorable for the United States since the second devaluation of the dollar.

Commerce said March exports exceeded the previous record dollar value set in February by $68.4 million.

For the first quarter of 1974, exports on a seasonally adjusted annual basis increased 27 per cent above the first quarter of 1973 to $89,562 million. Imports were valued at $86,819 million, about 26 per cent higher than the first quarter last year.

The index of leading indicators increased 1.7 per cent in March from February. Five of the eight indicators gained and three lost.

Some Agencies Get Word—No Financing

Representatives from various social service agencies in Marin were told yesterday that the county administrator's office will not support most of their requests for county funding.

County Administrator John F. Barrows told the Marin Council of Agencies he will recommend $175,000 to be allocated to "a few" programs. Requests totaling $669,000 were received.

The county board of supervisors will make the final decision during budget hearings, slated to begin June 12.

Barrows' comments came as he outlined how the county's multimillion dollar budget is prepared and how some $1.3 million in federal revenue sharing must be used.

The county administrator said he would not support their requests because his job is "to play the role of a fiscal conservative." While final figures are not yet available, he said his recommended budget will total about $50 million for next fiscal year. (This year's approved budget totals $50.3 million.)

Agencies and programs which will not be supported by Barrows include the Novato Human Needs Center, $26,579; Ecumenical Housing Association, $24,000; Single Mothers of Marin, $29,051; and La Familia de Marin, $46,397, and Marin Community Workshop, $33,000.

Also, Marin Catholic Social Services, $5,000; Suicide Prevention Center, $28,113; Marin Aid to Retarded Children, $18,292; the Free Medical Clinic $19,864; Marin Emergency Housing, $25,000, and Marin City Auto Training Program, $10,000.

Sharing in the $175,000 recommended for funding are the Head Start Preschool Program, the Senior Coordinating Council, Marin City Boys Club, Marin City Community Services District, Legal Aid Society, handicapped recreation and the supplemental food program. Few are recommended to receive as much money as they requested.

Council representative agreed to meet next Thursday at noon to discuss Barrows' position and to plan their appeal to the board of supervisors. The meeting will be held in the planning commission chambers at Civic Center.

Judge Rules Girls Can Bat Again

Eleven-year-old Jenny Fulle of Tamalpais Valley may continue to play Little League baseball, and three West Marin girls will be allowed to play in a Little League game tomorrow.

That was the outcome of two hearings yesterday in Marin Superior Court.

In the first, Judge Henry J. Broderick took under submission a move by attorneys for Jenny to continue a court order under which she is playing for the Bears in the Mill Valley American Little League.

Broderick let stand a temporary order signed two weeks ago by another judge. Both that order and the preliminary injunction sought yesterday prohibit the Little League from keeping Jenny from playing, and bar Little League Baseball Inc., headquartered in Pennsylvania, from withdrawing the Mill Valley league's charter.

If Broderick grants the injunction, Jenny may play until a suit filed on her behalf by the American Civil Liberties Union goes to trial.

Earlier yesterday, Judge Charles Read Best signed an order similar to the one under which Jenny plays, this one on behalf of three West Marin girls.

The three — Marie Norman, 9, Lisa Divito, 10, and Mariah Beebe, 12 — played the opening game of the season with the Inverness Merchants' team last week, then were booted when a coach from another team threatened to tell the national organization about the girls.

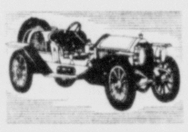

Best's order will allow the Inverness team, with the Girls aboard, to play the Woodacre Woody Woodchippers tomorrow in San Geronimo.

Clear Skies Due —Weatherman

The mild, spring storm which continued to linger in Marin today will clear tonight, the weatherman predicted. He said tomorrow will be fair.

Rainfall reported in various sections of the county in the 24-hour period ending at 8 a.m. today included Sausalito, .08 of an inch; Bolinas, .33; Mill Valley, .13; Tamalpais Valley, .12; Woodacre, .11; San Anselmo, .01.and Novato, .92.

AUTO EDITION IN TODAY'S I-J

Today's Independent-Journal includes a special spring auto section highlighted by photos of new cars and models attired in the latest spring fashions from Strawberry Town and Country Village.

The auto edition calls attention to the annual I-J auto show at Town and Country Village with autos furnished by Marin County dealers, classic cars and specialty cars.

Western Music To Top Weekend

The Golden State Country Bluegrass Festival, three nights of country music and folk arts, will draw lovers of this type of entertainment from all over Northern California to the Marin County Fairgrounds at the Civic Center in San Rafael this weekend.

The event, put on by Jewell Productions of Portola Valley, features more than 20 top bluegrass artists for the three-day event.

These include Doc and Merle Watson, Vassar Clements, Jim and Jesse McReynolds, Buck White and Down Home Folks, Doug Dillard and the Greenbriar Boys with Frank Wakefield, and many others.

Concerts will be from 7 to 11 p.m. today; from noon to midnight tomorrow and from noon to 11 p.m. Sunday.

Special preparations for the concerts, expected to attract 8,000 people, include installation of 30 portable toilets and 20 water coolers, and special guards. There will be limited overnight camping at the fairgrounds site.

Other special events scheduled are:

Nixon Will Scrutinize Transcripts Of Tapes

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Transcripts have been completed of tapes of President Nixon's Watergate-related conversations under subpoena by the House Judiciary Committee, and will be intensively reviewed this weekend by the President, officials said today.

The transcripts will be submitted to the impeachment panel by the new Tuesday deadline and are "complete in their integrity," the officials said.

But they said profanities, vulgarities and irrelevancies which cropped up in the conversations by Nixon with his top aides had been deleted.

According to the officials, tapes of 36 conversations out of 42 which the committee requested were transcribed by a team under the direction of presidential counsel J. Fred Buzhardt.

They said the other conversations were never recorded.

There were strong indications by the officials that Nixon would not turn over to the impeachment panel the actual tapes.

Several administration aides have read the transcripts over the past few days. Some said they felt "much better now" and were convinced Nixon could prove his innocence of any participation in the Watergate cover-up.

Rep. Peter Rodino, D-N.J., Judiciary Committee chairman, and other committee members have made it plain that transcripts alone will not be satisfactory to them.

Nixon is to respond to the subpoena by Tuesday at 10 a.m. EDT.

It was learned that Nixon is seriously considering a televised address to the nation Monday, but officials said no decision has been made.

The President planned to go to Camp David later today to contemplate his final decisions on dealing with subpoenas and to review the voluminous records.

Officials said a "white paper" also was being prepared by presidential aides to be made public at the time the documents are sent to Congress.

The Judiciary Committee has been attempting to avoid partisan wrangling, and now has a taste of what it can be like as it weighs the evidence which will either impeach or exonerate the President.

Rep. Wiley Mayne, an Iowa Republican, demanded to know at yesterday's meeting how Congress could consider condemning President Nixon for his dealings with milk producers when, he said, public records showed $2 million in milk money flowed into congressional campaign chests since 1970.

Simon Supported By Senate Panel

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate Finance Committee voted unanimously today in favor of the nomination of William E. Simon as new Treasury secretary. The full Senate is expected to confirm him next week.

Simon, nominated to replace George P. Shultz who is resigning, appeared briefly at a closed meeting of the committee. Within 10 minutes, after Simon left, Chairman Russell B& Long, D-La., emerged to announce the unanimous vote.

Simon, former head of the Federal Energy Office and assistant Treasury secretary, stirred little controversy during hearings by the committee this week.

RED CARPET, REALTORS®
Counsel Corner

Dear Counsellor:

Ten years ago we purchased a 16 year old home with 3 bedrooms. We had 2 children then, we now have 5 children and our home is simply too small for us. We love our home and enjoy the neighborhood. The question is . . . would we be wise to add on or should we buy another larger home?

WIRE NEWS BRIEFS From Everywhere

Jobert Backing Chaban-Delmas

PARIS (UPI) — Foreign Minister Michel Jobert threw his support today to Jacques Chaban-Delmas, official Gaullist candidate for the presidency of France.

Jobert

Jobert told a news conference he backed the 59-year-old ex-prime minister because he worked in close cooperation with the late President Georges Pompidou and "he is the candidate of the majority which President Pompidou grouped around him."

Chaban-Delmas presently is running third in the battle for Pompidou's mantle, following Communist-backed Francois Mitterrand, who is leading the field, and Finance Minister Valery Giscard d'Estaing, the current runner-up.

Postal Pact

OTTAWA (UPI) — Negotiators for the Canadian Post Office Department and striking mail workers today reached an agreement which left basic issues unresolved but apparently ended two weeks of nationwide work stoppages.

Mediator Eric Taylor emerged from an all-night session to tell newsmen, "The postal strike is over." He said the agreement included establishment of a special committee to settle the underlying issues once the postal workers have returned to the job.

He said the problem at issue, that of classifying manual mail sorters and lower paid employees using automated postal coding equipment, will be referred to the special settlement committee, which he will chair.

Plight Of Jews

NEW YORK (UPI) — Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., back home today after a six-day journey to the Soviet Union, reported he had a "moving" talk just before he left Moscow yesterday with a group of Jews who want to emigrate to Israel.

Kennedy said his talk with the group indicated to him there is no change in Soviet policy toward Jewish emigration.

In Moscow, the Jews, who made a recording of the meeting, quoted Kennedy as saying, "I will do everything I can to help because the issue is of great importance to the U.S. people and Congress."

Commando Raid

SAIGON (UPI) — Military sources said today Viet Cong commandos disguised in government uniforms apparently launched grenades into a military classroom filled with South Vietnamese recruits, ripping apart the auditorium and causing heavy casualties.

The five explosions, at first thought to be mortars, killed 17 draftees and wounded 118 others at the Lai Thieu training center nine miles north of Saigon, the South Vietnamese high command said today.

Many of the wounded were said to be in serious condition.

Rebel Losses

PHNOM PENH (UPI) — Sixty-seven Communist rebels were killed in three separate clashes yesterday with government forces the Cambodian high command said today.

Spokesmen said 10 Communist soldiers were slain in fighting at Kampot, in a fight near Takeo, two in a fight north of Phume Kruos.

Arms Cache

CHICAGO (UPI) — Police yesterday raided a Black Panther Party headquarters and seized more than 6,000 rounds of ammunition, 12 gas masks and 27 military manuals.

No one was injured in the raid.

Authorities said the raid came after pilfering youths in the Southside neighborhood apparently had beaten them to the arsenal and carried off many weapons, including machine guns, rifles and hand-guns.

Four youths were arrested and one said he and some of his friends broke into the building and carried off weapons including six machine guns.

View On Troops

BELFAST (UPI) — The Irish Republican Army has said the withdrawal of British troops from Northern Ireland would bring "real understanding" to the province's Protestants and Roman Catholics.

"A British commitment to a phased withdrawal of their forces is the only realistic approach to the problem," the IRA said.

The IRA reported "a real understanding among all traditions" in Northern Ireland during the past few months and said the feeling would be "multiplied a thousand-fold" as soon as British troops withdrew.

Nixon Avoids His Problems During Talk

JACKSON, MISS. (UPI) — President Nixon, beset by troubles of his own, told a hospitable Southern audience yesterday of a young farmer who in the face of great adversity had said, "I am going to see it through."

More than 30 times during his 41-minute address to the Mississippi Economic Council, the audience of 12,000 that jammed the Coliseum in Jackson broke into applause.

Nixon, who faces due dates next week of subpoenas by both Special Prosecutor Leon Jaworski and the House Judiciary Committee for his Watergate tape recordings, did not refer specifically to his own problems.

But as he neared the end of his address about the economy and peace, Nixon told of a young Mississippi farmer he had met in 1969 when Hurricane Camille devastated the Gulf coast. The young farmer had lost his home, barn, car and tractor.

Nixon said the farmer told him:

"But I've got my wife, I've got my little girl, and I love my country and I love my state and I'm going to see it through. We are going to come back."

Nixon added, "That's the spirit that made America."

Nixon was away from Washington only six hours for his trip to Jackson. Sen. John R. Stennis, D-Miss., who urged Nixon "to tough it out" during the President's last visit to Mississippi almost one year ago at the peak of the Watergate revelations, said he had told him during lunch on the presidential plane to get out and speak more.

Nixon will spend the weekend at Camp David, Md., presumably to make final decisions on how he will respond to the subpoenas next week. He will speak next Friday in Phoenix, Ariz., and Saturday in Spokane, Wash.

Nixon had dinner last night aboard the presidential yacht Sequoia with his chief of staff, Gen. Alexander M. Haig, the third time in a week he has gone for a cruise.

At the Jackson airport just prior to his departure, Nixon met privately with about 300 Mississippi Republicans. One said later that Nixon had told them: "The Republican and Democratic parties both have been down at times, but they have come back ... I have been down before."

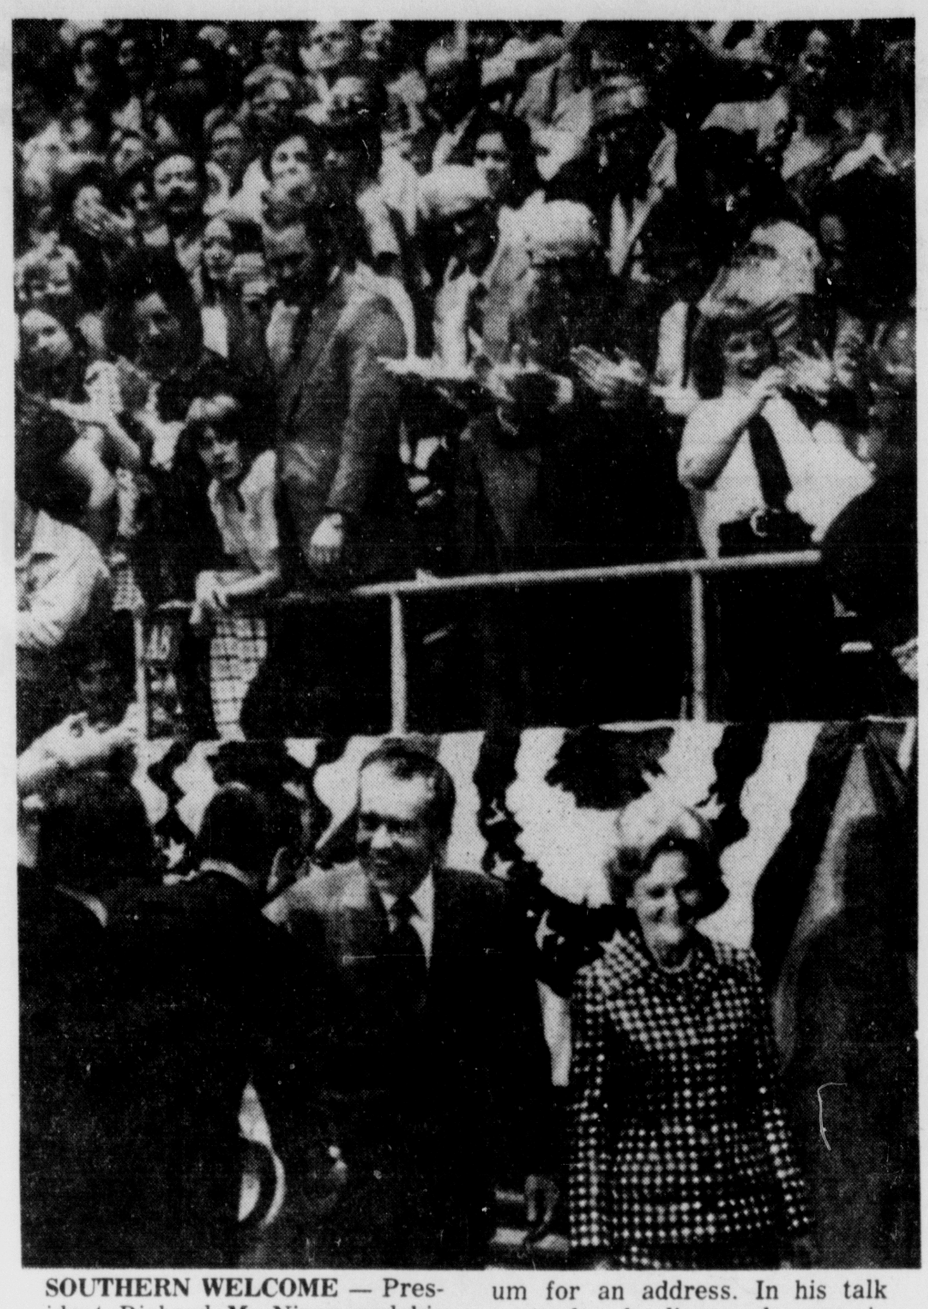

As Nixon's motorcade arrived at the Coliseum about 150 demonstrators, mostly college students, began chanting "impeach, impeach." But the chanting was drowned out by loud cheering and applause when Nixon alighted from his limousine.

Nixon said the downturn in the economy would level off in this quarter and the economy would move forward in the last half of the year.

And he said he hoped a president would stand on the same spot 25 years from now and say of his era:

"They did not fail when the going was very tough and American leadership was so important to the world."

He said that if the nation meets its present challenges, the three-to four-billion persons inhabiting the world a quarter century from now will look back and say: "God Bless America."

Election Chest Surplus To GOP

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Republican National Committee will get whatever surplus money is left from the President Nixon's reelection committee after it pays its big Watergate legal expenses, GOP Chairman George Bush said today.

The Finance Committee to Reelect the President (FRCP) reported a $3.57 million surplus before it disbanded earlier this year. The money was turned over to a trust headed by former Sen. Charles Potter, R-Mich., and former ambassador to Denmark Guilford Dudley.

But they have said the surplus will be used first to defray legal expenses arising out of lawsuits filed against the committee and to pay the legal costs of former campaign officials acquitted of charges. In addition, the fund may also be used to pay expenses of those convicted of misdemeanors.

FCRP has already spent $1 million in court costs and faces a $775,000 settlement of the Democrats' damage suit stemming from the 1972 burglary of its offices by CRP operatives.

"It is appropriate that any surplus come to the RNC," Bush said in a speech prepared for a party meeting. "We have picked up the deficits in the past, and therefore any surplus after settling all claims should properly come to the RNC.

"... Not one cent of money from the RNC is going to settle any CRP suit, nor pay any losses resulting from the Watergate-related activities," Bush said.

CRP, many of whose officials have been indicted or convicted for Watergate-connected crimes, ran Nixon's campaign, leaving the Republican committee responsibility for the 1972 congressional and gubernatorial races.

Bush dwelt on the need for a strong party with an improved image, one that in the future would run presidential campaigns.

He also said he agrees with Vice President Gerald R. Ford's denunciation of CRP last month as "an arrogant and elite guard of political adolescents" who bypassed the regular party to "dictate terms of a national election."

Bush, however, praised the "great, loyal and honest Republicans" who worked for CRP and said "they should not feel dishonored because of the illegal actions and abysmal judgment of the few."

Bush said that to win the midterm elections this year, the GOP must take credit "for the many positive accomplishments of the Nixon adminstration" and the Republican governors.

He suggested a campaign theme blaming Democrats, who hold a sizable majority in both houses, for the public's perception of Congress as "an institutional failure" and warning voters that a "veto-proof" Congress would be a "disaster for the country."

Reagan Bypasses Marler For Appeal Court Slot

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Gov. Ronald Reagan yesterday nominated two Superior Court judges, both Democrats, to the 3rd District Court of Appeal, bypassing a Republican senator backed by other GOP lawmakers.

The nominations brought an immediate denunciation from two Republican senators and threats of legislative trouble for Reagan administration bills and other appointments.

The dispute centered on Reagan's decision not to nominate Sen. Fred W. Marler Jr. of Redding. Marler earlier decided not to seek reelection because of reapportionment changes in his district and had hoped for the nomination.

In a statement from his office, Reagan announced the nominations of Sacramento Superior Court Judges George E. Paras, 49, and Robert K. Puglia, 44.

"This is the kind of thing that takes the guts out of the party," said Sen. H. L. Richardson, R-Arcadia. "People expect loyality in the party. It's as much as saying 'we don't have any Republicans qualified.' "

Sen. John Stull, R-Leucadia, said, "Two Democrats? I'm astounded. I don't know what kind of deal was made but it was a great mistake."

Senate Republicans have been engaged in a quiet struggle with Reagan the past two weeks over the judicial nomination.

As a result of the struggle, Senate confirmation of Reagan's appointees has been blocked in the Rules Committee. About 40 appointees are involved.

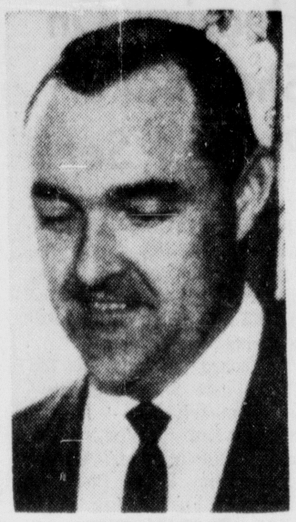

Sen. Robert S. Stevens, R-Los Angeles, a rules committee member, said earlier he moved to put the appointments on a backburner "to get the attention" of the governor's office concerning the sentiments of legislators regarding Marler's possible nomination.

Stevens said there was "great respect" for Marler, R-Redding, who he described as an "extremely able attorney."

The annual salary for an appellate court judgeship is $45,139. The nominations of Paras and Puglia must be confirmed by the State Commission on Judicial Appointments, made of us Supreme Court Justice Donald Wright, Attorney General Evelle Younger and Justice Frank Richardson of the 3rd Appellate District.

Rabin Assumes Job Of Forming Cabinet

JERUSALEM (UPI) — President Ephraim Katzir today formally named Yitzhak Rabin as prime minister-designate, asking him to take over from Golda Meir and form a new government within 21 days.

Rabin, 52 and labor minister in Mrs. Meir's government, said he will try to form a new coalition along the lines of the outgoing one.

He is expected to quickly enter into hard bargaining with the ruling Labor party's two main coalition partners, the National Religious Party (NRP) and the Independent Liberal Party (ILP).

Mrs. Meir resigned April 12, saying she had no more strength to keep her precarious coalition together.

"I'm happy to announce that Mr. Rabin has answered my request positively and has taken upon himself the task of forming the next government," Katzir said after he met for nearly two hours with Rabin in his booklined office.

If Rabin is successful, Israel will not have to hold a new election, something favored by protest movements and a minority in the ruling Labor party.

"I'm going to try my best to form the new government in the shortest time possible," Rabin said.

A public opinion poll published in the newspaper Yedioth Ahronoth said 51 per cent of those asked favored a new election, 37 per cent did not want one and 12 per cent were undecided.

The same poll, conducted by Hebrew University, said 57 per cent thought Rabin more qualified for the post of prime minister than his Labor party opponent for the job, Information Minister Shimon Peres. He received 29 per cent approval.

Austrians Are Upset By Plans To Harness Power Of Danube

By ERIC BOURNE
The Christian Science Monitor News Service

VIENNA — Few things move an Austrian audience to joy as do the strains of the Johann Strauss "waltz about the "beautiful, blue Danube." It is their second national anthem.

And few things move Austrians to protest more quickly than a threat to the natural beauties that grace Europe's largest waterway on its 250-mile course through their country.

Such a threat — in the form of a dam and hydroelectric plant — has now brought the environmentalists and the tourist trade (Austria's biggest industry) into alliance with the local residents to protect what is generally acknowledged to be one of the river's loveliest regions — the gracious stretch of the Danube in lower Austria known as the Wachau.

Some 60 miles upstream from Vienna, the Wachau cherishes some of the country's finest examples of baroque architecture — including many churches and abbeys rich in works of art — as well as romantic remnants of castles perched on heights above the river.

There are picturesque towns such as Melk and Krems, bustling with business but lovingly guarded against urban vulgarity. And there is the showpiece village of Durnstein.

Daily through spring and summer, big river paddle cruisers carry thousands of Austrians and foreign tourists to that area, where wooded slopes are covered with apricot orchards and fruitful vineyards tended by local families for generations.

Many of the visitors climb the thousand feet to the ruins of the castle of Durnstein, where England's Richard the Lionhearted was held prisoner for ransom 800 years ago. The exertion is amply rewarded by one of the Danube's most inspiring views.

All this, the local burgomasters and population are protesting, is now in jeopardy from the power project in which Wachau's 20-odd miles of Danube are to be dammed up for the requirements of international cargo shipping and the feeding of a new hydroelectric plant.

Their valley, they say, will be ruined, and the "blue Danube" (which still is remarkably clean as far as Vienna) will be reduced to a "foul, stagnant backwater" gravely injurious to the region's environment and ecology.

At the moment, the Danube at Wachau is lined with delightful villages offering tranquility and some of the best cooking in Austria. There is also the spectacle of ships, bearing the flags of every nation from the USSR to West Germany, moving up and down the proud river.

The region as such has no future, the conservationists say, if the damming of the river goes ahead. Not only will these towns and villages be robbed of their waterfront by the building of dikes and canals, but also the creation of an immense static expanse of water, in place of the present swift-flowing current, will lead to serious pollution and have damaging climatic effects for the local husbandry.

Severe frosts will be inevitable, it is said, which will not only destroy vines and orchards, but in time denude the whole valley.

The project is an old one, predating the European energy crisis. It is not primarily concerned with electric power, since Austria has more prolific sources in Alpine rivers. Chancellor Bruno Kreisky recently brought some comfort to the protesters by saying that though the country now must develop its hydroelectric potential as well, Wachau should be spared.

Austria, however — whether this particular plant is built or not — is still committed to an agreement with other Danubian countries to make its section of the river fully navigable as part of the Rhine-Main-Danube canal scheme. Involved is the assurance of a uniform depth of eight to nine feet required for bigger traffic and the barge of the future which will have a six-foot draft.

A respite at least has been won by a recent government call for further environmental and ecological studies in the region. Construction is in abeyance pending the experts' report at the end of this year.

But the outlook for conservationists remains bleak. Frederich Hermann, chief of Austria's Danube power enterprise (which since the 1950s has built five of ten power stations scheduled), says the country is bound by its commitments to the Rhine-Main-Danube canal as a member of the Danube Commission.

And no one, he says, has come up with "a feasible alternative" for raising the river to the required level and keeping it there.

To which the local spokesmen reply there is no alternative for them either, if the scheme goes through, but to "sell off our vineyards and shut down our hotels — there will be nothing left for us."

Suspected Burglars Arrested

Two persons were arrested early today in San Rafael on suspicion of burglary and possession of stolen property, according to San Rafael deputy police chief L. R. Kelly.

Steven Joseph O'Brien, 25, of 22 Oak Springs Drive, San Anselmo and Kathleen Lee Hart, 19, of 123 Lomita Drive, Mill Valley were booked into Marin County Jail and held without bail to appear today in Marin Municipal Court.

Police reported that the two were identified by a local coin dealer as selling rare coins thought to have been stolen.

San Rafael, San Anselmo and Mill Valley police searched the two's residence starting at 3:30 a.m. today. Approximately 50 items were taken from the two homes by the police.

Police identified coin collections taken in the search. The other items — ranging from sterling silver to oil paintings — have not yet been dusted for finger prints and checked against items known to have been taken in many past residential burglaries. Police said they could estimate the value of the haul.

A Family Spat Leads To Police Chief's Removal

NITRO, W. Va. (UPI) — Dana Johnston and his wife got into a squabble in public recently, and, as a result, Johnston no longer is police chief of this southwestern West Virginia town.

Johnston, under fire since the row with his spouse, officially turned in his badge yesterday.

Mayor William Gibson defended Johnston's ability to serve the town as police chief, saying, "If I hadn't had a lot of faith in this man, he wouldn't be in this job."

But on the subject of Johnston's marital discord, the mayor asked:

"Do you think that's any way for a man in his position to act in public?"

As for the vacancy, Gibson added, "I'll be the chief."

Black Is Given Klan's Backing

HOUSTON (UPI) — The Texas Fiery Knights of the Ku Klux Klan yesterday endorsed a black man for justice of the peace in the May 4 primary, imperial Wizard Scott Nelson said.

"We just felt he was the best of the four," Nelson said of Jack Terry, whom the group endorsed in precinct 6. "He's running against a white man and two Chicanos.

"I don't feel like the black man is the problem in this country," he added, "and the precinct is probably over half black and therefore he will be acceptable to most everybody if he's elected. This is the first time I've ever known of the Klan to endorse a black man for office."

Butz Says Beef Now A Good Buy

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Agriculture Secretary Earl L. Butz said yesterday food prices will go up just "a bit more" this year but that now is a good time to stock up on beef.

Butz noted that local supermarkets were featuring bargains on some beef cuts.

"Prices are down. This is a good time to stock your freezer with beef," he said.

Butz made the observation during a question-and-answer session following a speech at the National Press Club.

Hearing On Shellmaker Project Set

I-J Special Report

SANTA ROSA — A large yachting facility near the mouth of the Petaluma River will be considered May 9 by the Sonoma Board of Zoning Adjustments.

The board yesterday set the hearing date for the proposal by Shellmaker, Inc., a marine dredging firm located on the Sonoma side of the river just across from Black Point in Marin.

Shellmaker plans to use 118 acres there as the site for two 200-boat marinas, a bulk sand depot, a marine hardware store, yacht sales area, boat repair yard, boat storage area and seafood restaurant.

The project would be at 250 Sears Point Road on land bearing Sonoma County's "unclassified" zoning designation.

County planning officials said the facility, if approved, will be required to have its own sewage treatment and water purification plants.

Due to the development's location, the firm also must have approval from the Army Corps of Engineers and the Bay Conservation and Development Commission.

Night Scheduled For Candidates

A candidates' night for the June 4 election for the Fifth Division seat on the Marin Municipal Water District board of directors will be held at 8 p.m. Monday in the multipurpose room at Del Mar School in Tiburon.

Candidates seeking to fill the seat vacated by Dr. Ronald T. Stafford are Dorothy E. Gibson, Robert Lee Grant, Polly O. Smith and Ben A. Farlatti. Willard A. Hall has dropped from the race.

Division Five includes most of Sausalito, Tamalpais Valley, Marin City, Tiburon and Belvedere. The political meeting is being sponsored by the League of Women Voters of Southern Marin and the Marin Municipal Water District.

Officers Arrest Drug Suspect

A 28-year-old Novato man was arrested yesterday on suspicion of sale of dangerous drugs after reportedly making sales to an undercover officer during the past two months.

Officers arrested William Edward Rosser Jr., of 1508 Hill Road, at 1:28 p.m. at his apartment.

Police said Rosser sold a white powder, believed to be methamphetamine to an undercover officer on Feb. 15, Feb. 21 and March 6 at his apartment.

He was booked on suspicion of sale of dangerous drugs and possession of dangerous drugs, marijuana and narcotics paraphernalia. Bail was set at $5,000 and he was to appear in Marin Municipal Court today.

OBITUARIES

Edward J. Hennessy Dies At 49

Edward J. Hennessy of Kentfield, a San Francisco stockbroker, died yesterday in a San Francisco hospital after a short illness. He was 49.

Hennessy was born and reared in San Francisco and was a graduate of the University of San Francisco.

He had lived in Marin for more than 20 years. The family home is at 107 Laurel Grove Avenue.

Hennessy was associated with the firm of Paine, Webber, Jackson and Curtis Inc. in San Francisco.

In Marin, he was past president of the Redwood High School Boosters Club and had served on citizens' committees in the Tamalpais High School District.

He is survived by his wife, Helen; four sons, Brian Timothy, Neil and Liam and two daughters, Loretta and Helen, all of the family home; his mother, Mrs. Daniel Hennessy of San Francisco, and his sister, Mrs. Genevieve Chapman of Tiburon.

Mass of the Christian Burial will be celebrated at 10 a.m. Monday at St. Sebastian's Church in Greenbrae. Burial will be in Mount Olivet Cemetery.

The Rosary will be recited at 7 p.m. Sunday at St. Sebastian's Church.

JOHN R. MAYER

Private funeral for John R. Mayer of Kentfield was held today in San Rafael.

Mayer, 56, of 16 Hillside Drive, died yesterday at his home, apparently of a heart attack.

He was born in West Point, N.Y., where his father, F. C. Mayer, was organist and choirmaster at the United States Military Academy for 45 years.

Mayer enlised in the Marine Corps in 1936 and served during World War II. He retired as a lieutenant colonel after the war. He was a Silver Star holder.

Since World War II, he worked in the advertising business and for 15 years was in market research for Crown Zellerbach Corp., retiring from there eight years ago.

He is survived by his wife, Dorothy Mayer, of the family home; a son, Fredrick C. Mayer of San Jose; a daughter, Elizabeth Mayer of Belmont; a sister, Mrs. Elizabeth Johnstone of Geneva, Switzerland, and a brother, Robert W. Mayer of Jensen Beach, Fla.

Inurnment was at Mount Tamalpais Cemetery, San Rafael.

Memorial contributions to the F. C. Mayer Memorial Fund at the United States Military Academy, West Point, N.Y., would be preferred by the family.

VIOLA WHEELER

Viola Wheeler of Stockton, mother of Robert O. Wheeler of Novato, died at a local hospital early today after a brief illness.

Mrs. Wheeler, 86, had been staying at the home of her son at 1444 Buchanan Street, recuperating from a previous illness. She apparently suffered a stroke yesterday and was taken to the hospital, according to the coroner's office.

She was the widow of William E. Wheeler, a contracting superintendent. She was a native of Oregon and had been a resident of Stockton since 1921.

Surviving besides her son Robert are a son, Donald Wheeler of Burbank; a daughter, Beth Santoro of Novato, five grandchildren and seven great-grandchildren.

Funeral will be at 1:30 p.m. Monday at the B. C. Wallace and Son Mortuary, Stockton. Burial will be at Parkview Cemetery, Stockton.

THOMAS BUSHORE

Thomas A. Bushore, longtime teacher at St. Vincent's School for Boys, died unexpectedly at the school yesterday.

Bushore, 66, was found dead in his room by a nurse who went to check when he failed to show up for a class. He had a history of heart disease, according to the coroner's office.

Bushore, who had taught eighth grade at the school since 1953, was affectionately known as "Mr. B" to the boys in his classes, and many of the youths continued to correspond with Bushore through the years after they left the school.

Bushore was born in Indiana, became a Xaverian brother in his early years. He taught in the brothers' schools for some years and then left the order and taught in public schools in Chicago. He came to Marin 21 years ago.

He is survived by a brother, John Henry Bushore of Bristol, Tenn.

A memorial Mass will be celebrated at St. Vincent's Chapel at 9 a.m. Monday.

There also will be services in Valparaiso, Ind., Monday, with burial there.

Americans Lose Turkish Drug Term Appeal

ANKARA, Turkey (AP) — A five-judge criminal appeals court today upheld a lower court decision sentencing three Americans to life terms on conviction of conspiring to smuggle drugs into Turkey.

The verdict of the Turkish court virtually exhausted all legal means for a reversal of the sentence of Katherine Zenz, 28, of Lancaster, Wis.; Joann McDaniel, 29, of Coos Bay, Ore., and Robert E. Hubbard, 23, of San Diego.

The decision of the appeals court makes the sentence final except for a slim chance that a request for retrial by the defense may be granted, legal authorities said.

Devil's Kitchen

Devil's Kitchen in California's Mount Lassen National Park, according to the National Automobile Club, has such interesting features as geysers and hot springs.

—PROPOSED FRONTAGE ROAD
• EXISTING ROAD TO BE CLOSED

The proposed improvement will provide for a 1.6 mile section of two-lane frontage road along the east side of Route 101 connecting Airport Road to the nearest freeway interchange at Atherton Avenue. The project will eliminate two local road connections on Route 101, each with a railroad grade crossing and median crossovers on Route 101. Prior to the hearing, maps and other information, will be available for inspection from 8:00 AM to 4:00 PM Mondays through Fridays at the Department of Transportation, 150 Oak Street, San Francisco.

Prior to the public hearing, a map display will be held on Monday, April 29, 1974 from 3:30 PM to 9:00 PM in the Community House at the above address, at which time representatives of the Department of Transportation will be on hand to answer your questions.

Environmental documents have been prepared with no significant impact having been found. These documents are available for inspection from 8:00 AM to 4:00 PM, Mondays through Fridays at the California Department of Transportation, 150 Oak Street, San Francisco. Copies of these documents may also be obtained at the Map Display and Public Hearing, or by writing Mr. T.R. Lammers at the address listed below.

Written and oral statements from any interested person or group will be received at the hearing for entry into the official transcript. Hearing records will be kept open after the public hearing until Monday, May 20, 1974. During this period, letters or statements may be included in the record by writing to:

Constitutional Rights Of Prisoners Affirmed

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — A federal appeals court yesterday affirmed the right of San Quentin convicts to have constitutional protections during prison disciplinary hearings.

The U.S. Court of Appeals for the Ninth Circuit agreed with a 1971 district court ruling that the state prison had to provide counsel for inmates and grant them due process and equal protection.

The ruling came in a case brought by inmate John Wesle Clutchette, now paroled from the prison, and others, against the California State prison system.

U.S. District Judge Alfonso J. Zirpoli ruled in June 1971, that prison disciplinary hearings must be conducted more like regular courts then they had been in the past. He ordered the state to present new rules for such hearings.

Prison authorities appealed. The higher court agreed with Zirpoli. It said the district judge was not required to call a three-judge court to hear the matter.

The appeals court also ruled that convicts retained rights to protection under the due process clause.

"We conclude that, except in emergency situations, the inmate's interest in preserving his slight liberty and his property, and the public interest in reaching the rehabilitative ends of corrections, outweigh any competing interest that could be promoted by preserving summary proceedings," said the opinion written by Judge Shirley Hufstedler.

JOHN CLUTCHETTE
Victor against system

The appellate court specifically noted that inmates in all prison disciplinary proceedings must have specific notice of the charges against them, the right to be heard and to present witnesses, confrontation and cross-examination, a hearing by a "neutral and detached" hearing body and a decision based on the evidence presented.

It also ruled that inmates had the right to counsel, but added: "... we cannot now specify precisely when legal assistance is required and when, if required, it must be rendered by a qualified attorney" but said the inmate "must be afforded counsel and not merely counsel-substitute when he is required to appear before a prison disciplinary committee for violation of a prison rule which may also be punishable by state authorities."

Talk Scheduled On Soviet Union

Dr. Aron Katsenelinborgin, former director of economic sciences for the Russian Academy of Science at Moscow, will speak on "the problems of morality, responsibility and freedom in the Soviet Union" at 4 p.m. Wednesday in Room 78 of Ives Hall at Sonoma State College.

The speaker is a permanent resident of the United States who has been named visiting research economist at the University of California Institute of International Studies at Berkeley.

The free lecture is sponsored by the Sonoma State European studies program.

Bicentennial Group Honors Mamie, Hope

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — The Pittsburgh Committee of '76, a group of business, labor and civic leaders coordinating the Bicentennial observance, made patriotic awards last night to Mrs. Mamie Eisenhower and comedian Bob Hope.

Mrs. Eisenhower's Molly Pitcher Award was accepted on her behalf by Maj. Gen. Fred Davison, commander of the Army district for the District of Columbia. It was given for her dedication to American ideals, exemplifying "the true spirit of the early American patriot."

Hope, who noted that "our country needs a bicentennial observance to get us back on the track," received the New Constellation Award. The presentation was made for his "courageous and selfless spirit which exemplifies the best tradition of our ever-new New Constellation."

Portugal's New Leader Pledges Quick Reforms

LISBON (UPI) — Gen. Antonio de Spinola, head of the seven-man military junta that seized power in an almost bloodless coup yesterday promised today to free political prisoners, end press censorship and call elections "in the shortest possible time."

Deposed President Americo Thomaz and Premier Marcelo Caetano were flown today by military plane to exile in the Ritz Hotel on the Atlantic holiday island of Madeira, leaving behind 40 years of right-wing dictatorship. Two other ministers were exiled to the equally luxurious Palace Hotel on the island.

Portugal was returning to near normal, but in Lisbon an angry crowd shouting "murderers! murderers!" pressed forward trying to get at the policemen who were surrendering to the army at the downtown headquarters of security police (DGS). Members of the opposition under the Thomaz-Caetano regime repeatedly accused the dreaded DGS of using torture on political prisoners.

The headquarters surrendered only this morning after the army threatened that the 1st Infantry regiment which had surrounded the building would storm it.

An estimated 500 policemen inside the building were disarmed by the army and hauled off in trucks. Military personnel on the scene said they would be taken to prisons, and that the junta had given orders to round up 1,300 police agents and informers throughout the country.

Dressed in the uniform of a cavalry general, complete with white gloves and wearing a monocle, Spinola told newsmen: "I am well but a bit tired."

He said that all political prisoners would be released "except those who committed other crimes." A military spokesman later explained this meant that left-wing "subversive prisoners who have used violence will continue to be held."

Within three weeks, Spinola said, a provisional government will be set up with one of the members of the junta as provisional president until Portugal can pick a chief of state in a free election.

Spinola said the provisional government will be composed of civilians of different political tendencies. He also said secret police will be disbanded except where it was needed for military intelligence functions in guerrilla areas in Portugal's African territories.

In a television address to the nation the 63-year-old general also promised free elections for a new parliament and a president of the Republic. Asked at the news conference whether a date had been set yet, Spinola said elections for parliament will be held in a year, followed by presidential elections.

Spinola left junta headquarters, where the news conference was held, at noon. He was escorted by two armored cars and five jeeploads of troops.

A military spokesman at the headquarters said Portuguese airports and seaports would remain closed today.

Portugal also closed its only land border —with Spain —and long queues of vehicles began forming on the highway checkpoints between the two countries. The crack TER expres between Madrid and Lisbon was not allowed to proceed into Portugal, railway official said. Spanish officials said they did not know what prompted Portuguese customs police to seal the borders.

GEORGE ZENOVICH
Declares bill dead

Liquor Tax Boost Is Defeated

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — A measure proposing higher liquor taxes and more money to rehabilitate California alcoholics went down to defeat yesterday when a Senate committee voted to take no action on the bill.

The governmental Organization Committee voted 10-0 to approve a subcommittee recommendation to hold the measure. Members of the subcommittee Tuesday voted 5-0 to delay the bill after holding a 1½-hour hearing during which tempers flared.

Subcommittee chairman George Zenovich, D-Fresno, said following the committee vote that the bill was "dead," at least during this session.

The bill called for a doubling of the state excise tax on liquor and the repeal of the "fair trade" law, which allows the state to control the price of liquor.

The measure also called for $25 million for alcohol rehabilitation programs to be administered by local governments.

Both Gov. Ronald Reagan and Assembly Speaker Bob Moretti, D-Van Nuys, opposed the "alcohol reform" measure (SB 1497) by Sen. Arlen Gregorio, D-San Mateo.

Proponents of the measure said by freeing the price controls on alcohol the price would go down and then taxes could be raised for rehabilitation programs without affecting liquor prices.

Representatives of the liquor and beer industry testified that they opposed the measure because it would force small "mom and pop" liquor retailers out of business because it would decrease operating profits.

During a hearing Tuesday, San Francisco psychiatrist Dr. Joel Fort accused legislators of being financed by liquor lobbyists and in turn voting with them.

He said the liquor industry uses "well financed lobbyists of the industry who pay for the campaigns of many legislators . . . ply them with free booze, food and women, and they tell them how to vote if they want to keep getting these favors."

Sen. Donald L. Grunsky, R-Aptos, angered by the statement, told Fort he was a publicity seeker and told him to make his statements and "then go home and watch them on TV."

PENNIES TOO DEAR FOR SEAL DRIVE

Patty Bullock (left) and Abi Carter, students at Terra Linda High School, drop money raised at the school for the Easter Seal drive into a large container at United California Bank in San Rafael. The Easter Seal Society first planned to raise one million pennies for work with crippled children and adults, and an expert in volumes figured that a container for that number should be just this size. But since then the value of copper has risen so that the government is considering reducing, or even eliminating the copper in pennies. The result has been a hoarding of pennies and limits on their availability from banks. The drive will now be aimed at gathering one million coins — of any denomination.

Auto Crash Kills San Rafael Man

A 39-year-old auto salesman was killed early today when his small, foreign car crashed into a guard rail on northbound highway 101 near San Rafael.

William Brose of 125 Merrydale Road, San Rafael, died from massive head injuries suffered in the 12:45 a.m. accident, according to the California Highway Patrol.

A passenger, Mary Ann Wilhelm, 27, of 182 Corte Anita, Greenbrae, was reported in satisfactory condition today at Marin General Hospital with a dislocated pelvis and a broken arm.

The highway patrol had no details of the accident.

Survivors include his mother, Aileen Brose, and a sister, Maxine Brose, both of San Rafael.

Funeral arrangements are pending at Keaton's Mortuary.

Brose is Marin's seventh traffic fatality for 1974 as compared to six highway deaths for the same period last year.

Five Perish In Sacramento Fire

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Five members of a Sacramento family died today when their fashionable residential home burst into flames and burned.

Killed in the early morning blaze were Jack E. Forsberg, 43, his wife, Edith, 41, and children, Steve, 14, Mitchell, 12, and Christine, 10.

Forsberg's parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Forsberg, of Los Angeles, managed to escape the flames by kicking a rear window out of the home. The elder Forsbergs were visiting their son when the fire broke out.

In Hospital

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, D-Minn., has entered Bethesda Naval Hospital to undergo an evaluation of previous treatments for a tiny bladder tumor.

Board Picks New Chief For Hospital

Charles E. Cowen, 37-year-old associate administrator of El Camino Hospital in Mountain View, was selected yesterday as administrator of Hillcrest Hospital in Petaluma.

Cowen told Independent-Independnet-Journal today that "chances are good" he will accept the position.

He plans to bring his wife to Southern Sonoma this weekend to look the area over, he said, and he will give his decision to hospital directors Monday.

Dr. Hamza I. Munib, vice president of the Hillcrest directors, said the decision to hire Cowen was made after he was interviewed yesterday along with three other applicants.

Cowen received a master's degree in hospital administration from the University of California at Berkeley in 1965.

He then became an administrative resident at Mt. Zion Hospital in San Francisco, and then was assistant director of the Stanford University Hospital for three years. He has been at the Mountain View facility the last five years.

In 1971 he was awarded one of six fellowships from the federal Department of Health, Education and Welfare to study health care administration in Michigan and in Washington, D.C., for a year.

Cowen and his wife, Diane, have a 2-year-old son, Bradley.

Hillcrest administrator Joseph M. Horner resigned last month to take a post in a Scottsdale, Ariz., hospital after four years in Petaluma.

Las Gallinas Board Delays Project Study

Las Gallinas Valley Sanitary District board last night postponed consideration of sewerage hookups for an 18-unit project proposed on Merrydale Road.

The board, saying it wanted more information, will consider the proposal at 7:30 p.m. next Thursday, according to managing engineer Edward Tibetts.

The board is especially interested in whether county agencies have approved plans for the project by developers Kaehler-Timmer, he said.

In other action last night, the board adopted garbage rate boosts as proposed by Marin Sanitary Service, and granted a hookup for a Bubble Machine car wash on Merrydale Road.

The board next meets at 7:30 p.m. next Thursday in the district plant on Smith Ranch Road.

PHONE BOOTH

This telephone booth at 850 Fourth Street is among three recently erected booths that jut from the sidewalk along the downtown street. The booths went up due to popular demand from residents, customers and merchants, according to Jack Eddy, telephone company spokesman. Permits were issued by the city Department of Public Works.

Facility For Retarded Is Approved

A permit for a residential facility for up to 10 retarded adults was approved unanimously last night by the Rohnert Park Planning Commission despite opposition from neighbors.

About 100 persons were on hand at the meeting in city hall, and most of them indicated they supported the project.

At the commission's April 12 meeting, when the request was introduced, several letters from property owners in the area were read.

They questioned whether children would be safe in a neighborhood, where retarded persons live.

The Petaluma Association for the Retarded, which sought the permit, has leased a four-unit apartment building in the Country Club Garden Estates area near city hall.

Secretary Sandra Faus said the commission also requested that Elda, Inc., submit a new application for a use permit to allow construction of a 64-unit apartment building on Avram Avenue. The new application was requested because of changes in the developer's plans for the building, she said.

Successor To Agnew Leaves As Criminal

TOWSON, Md. (UPI) — N. Dale Anderson, a former auto parts stock clerk who became one of the most powerful Democrats in Maryland as Baltimore County executive, left office at noon today a convicted felon.

Anderson, 57, a former National Democratic Committeeman, is the second politician to have his career ended by the federal investigation of Maryland political corruption.

The first was the Republican he succeeded as county executive in 1966, Spiro T. Agnew, forced to resign as vice president Oct. 10 after pleading no contest to a negotiated charge of federal income tax evasion.

Anderson was convicted last month on a number of charges of evading nearly $59,000 in federal income taxes and extorting nearly $38,000 from engineers and architects in return for county contracts.

Anderson, who will be sentenced May 1, could receive a maximum term of 580 years in jail and a fine of $320,000. He announced his resignation Wednesday, saying he was innocent but that he had to step down because the county charter requires him to, due to the pending sentencing.

"I will not defy that law," he told a packed news conference.

County Council Chairman Harry Bartenfelder called Anderson "one of the best county executives we've had. He worked hard to improve the county. The way I feel, and how I think the public feels, is, 'Yes, Dale Anderson, you must resign, but we hate to see you go.'

"I think he was a victim of the system," he said.

Anderson, son of an Illinois sawmill worker, came to Baltimore County in 1937 at the age of 21 to be a stock clerk at his uncle's auto parts store.

He started a homebuilding business in 1950 and in 1962 returned to school and received a law degree.

Prior Zoning For Parcels Is Supported

Three parcels erroneously rezoned by the Fairfax Town Council in 1972 should be returned to their previous zoning designations, the town planning commission recommended last night.

The parcels off Sir Francis Drake Boulevard owned by Anthony Trevellick and Aldo Simi were improperly rezoned from high density residential to multiple-family residential when the town council rezoned the nearby Buon Gusto restaurant site.

The planning commission last night said the parcels should be zoned back to high density residential.

Opponents of a controversial proposal to develop the Buon Gusto parcel with apartment units have cited the error as casting a legal shadow over the rezoning of the restaurant site itself.

The town council has said the error is the result of a clerical mistake.

The commission next meets at 8 p.m. May 30 in the Fairfax Women's Club.

Montgomery Opposes Making Secretary's Post Nonpartisan

Michael B. Montgomery, candidate for the Republican nomination for secretary of state, yesterday declared his opposition to a proposal by Gov. Ronald Reagan that the office be made nonpartisan.

The proposal "was just overreacting to (Edmund G.) Brown (Jr.)," Montgomery said, adding "Jerry Brown would have destroyed any office he was in." (Brown is seeking the Democratic nomination for governor.)

Montgomery, a 37-year-old South Pasadena attorney, said making the office nonpartisan would only provide a cloak to hide candidates' philosophies. Voters have the right to full exposure of candidates' views, he said, and the present partisan designation of the office gives voters "a better opportunity" to understand what candidates stand for.

Montgomery, in a visit to the Independent-Journal, said that before Brown was elected to the post four years ago the state "had 41 years of good, fair operations under the Jordans." (Frank C. Jordan and his son, Frank M. Jordan, were Republicans.)

The candidate said he was qualified for the job because of experience as a special counsel for public agencies and corporations, activities that often fall under the jurisdiction of the secretary of state.

He said he also was experienced in election law, noting the secretary of state is the "guardian of the elections." But Montgomery opposed Proposition 9 on the June ballot, an initiative to limit campaign spending and lobbyists' expenditures.

The proposition, he said, would create "a $1-million-a-year bureaucracy," set excessively low spending limits for candidates and improperly limit financing of initiative campaigns. The initiative is the citizens' right, "and I don't want limits of any kind on that right," he said.

Also seeking the GOP nomination for the post are: Willard Fonda, Pebble Beach businessman; Wendell Handy, Compton businessman; James Shinn, Lake County clerk, and Brian Van Camp, Sacramento attorney.

A LITTLE HELP FOR PUFF

Puff takes a puff of oxygen from Newport Beach firemen Jerry Strom (left) and Ken Flessel. Puff puffed too much smoke during a $19,000 fire at the Corona Del Mar home of his owner, Kalman Spelletich. Firemen treated the dog for smoke inhalation. Puff was reported on the recovery road today following the fire on Wednesday. (UPI Telephoto)

Legal Action Asked On Group Households

The Tiburon Planning Commission has asked the city attorney to study the possibility of legal action against group households where more than two unrelated people live together.

Planning director Robert E. Fosnot said the commission heard a report Wednesday from the city attorney on how to define the word "family" in the city zoning ordinances. Fosnot said that because of a recent court decision on the East Coast, the city attorney interprets the word "family" to mean that no more than two unrelated persons can live together in one housing unit.

There have been recent complaints from some areas of the city about large households of unrelated people.

The planning commission also asked Fosnot to compare the city's building, subdivision and other permit fees with those of other cities to see if they should be raised.

Fosnot said the commission also decided to hold a special meeting with the city council to discuss planning for 1974-75 on May 6 at 7:30 p.m. at city hall.

An Old Method

MELBOURNE (UPI) — The Austin Hospital here has decided that sometimes old ways of doing things are better than new. After trying various new materials and methods it has gone back to using sheepskins to reduce the incidence of bedsores in patients.

Bourbon Tanker Ties Up Traffic

BENTLEYVILLE, Pa. (UPI) — A tanker truck carrying 10,000 gallons of bourbon whisky upset on Interstate 70 near this southwestern Pennsylvania community yesterday, but little of the spirits was spilled.

State Police closed two eastbound lanes of the highway for more than 12 hours until another tanker arrived and picked up the cargo.

The driver of the upset truck, Daniel Brewster, 23, Bloomington, Ill., was treated for minor injuries.

Hub Trustees Set Round On Future Of Cook School

The San Anselmo School District board, noting that Isabel Cook School is to be phased out over a three-year period, last night said possible future uses of the building will be discussed at 7:30 p.m. May 9.

Trustees set the discussion after learning the city planning commission will consider rezoning a portion of the site from single-family residential to commercial-professional at 8 p.m. May 6, according to Supt. Frank R. Elliott.

Elliott, saying the rezoning is needed to ease sale of the parcel, said a delegation of district officials will attend the meeting.

The San Anselmo School District Board Also:

SENIORITY — Approved a seniority list for 60 classified employees.

COLLECTIVE BARGAINING — After a lengthy discussion, failed to take a position on collective bargaining.

FUNDS — Announced the district is applying for $86,500 in federal and state funds for early childhood education and reading programs.

YOLANSDALE SCHOOL — Said Yolansdale School fourth graders will attend Isabel Cook School next year.

EARLY RETIREMENT — Said it will study a proposal for an early retirement incentive program.

EXPENSE — Approved $484 to continue the College for Kids program and $325 to fund the Boyd Museum program.

ADJOURNMENT — Adjourned to 7:30 p.m. Tuesday for a joint meeting with the master plan survey committee.

HOPE OF FUTURE

Fish Farms May Feed The World

By PAUL CANE

The biggest fish story around these days isn't about "the one that got away."

The biggest story, biologists agree, is the fact that Americans will want to eat 3.5 billion pounds of seafood per year by 1980, an increase of more than 70 per cent over the present level.

How to get the ocean to produce that much is the task of John B. Glude of Seattle, a deputy director of the National Marine Fisheries Service of the Department of Commerce.

Glude, responsible for a long-range study for a presidential commission on increasing ocean productivity — the science of aquaculture — is charged with applying new research in the field of marine biology to the eminently practical goal of feeding the burgeoning world population.

"Salmon farms," for example, are becoming common in the Pacific Northwest. The day is nearly over that the hatcheries would release millions of finger-length salmon to the streams, and wait patiently to harvest the fish when they return to spawn more than three years later.

For one thing, it's inefficient and slow. It takes a long time for them to come, and even when they do come, the number of returning fish is only about 1 per cent of the number of fingerlings sent out. Most are victims of disease or predators.

The solution, Glude said, is never send them to the ocean at all. Now, small salmon are placed in offshore netted pens, approximately 40 feet square, and carefully attended, fed, and watched for disease. Only seven months later, you have edible, pan-sized fish.

No longer does an oyster farmer harvest only from the ocean bottom — that's wasting space. Now he suspends rows and rows of young oysters in apartment-like layers from sea floor to surface, using all three dimensions for growing, thus increasing productivity thousands of per cent.

Glude, in Marin County for a Lobster Culture Workshop at Bodega Bay this week, stayed in Greenbrae at the home of Dr. Victor L. Loosanoff, himself a renowned marine biologist. In fact, Glude and Loosanoff are longtime colleagues, having studied under the same biology professor as undergraduates at the University of Washington.

Agriculture, farming on land, is "reaching the point of diminishing returns," Glude noted. The potential for increasing food supply, he said, "lies in the ocean — there we have at least 200 years of catching up to do."

Loosanoff said "Many people have an idea of biologists as fellows who sit behind desks dissecting frogs. But we're involved in some of the most important projects of science — feeding people."

Oyster and clam farming, Glude said, now use extensive new techniques to speed growth rates. Salmon-raising technology is rapidly changing, too.

Still in the future, he continued, are "mass production" of lobsters or crabs. The problem with putting these carnivores in close quarters with other members of the species is that they will snap one another's claws off in a death struggle for territory.

Salmon, on the other hand, are "very sociable. They don't mind rubbing noses with each other," Glude said.

Sealife raised in artificial conditions is often subjected to environmental change as a means of stimulating growth. One way to do this for many creatures is to raise water temperatures.

Oysters, for example, grow up to three times faster in a slightly warmer environment, Loosanoff said. The warmer water increases chances of disease for the oysters, but Loosanoff said that problem could usually be controlled by administering antibiotics to the shellfish to keep them healthy.

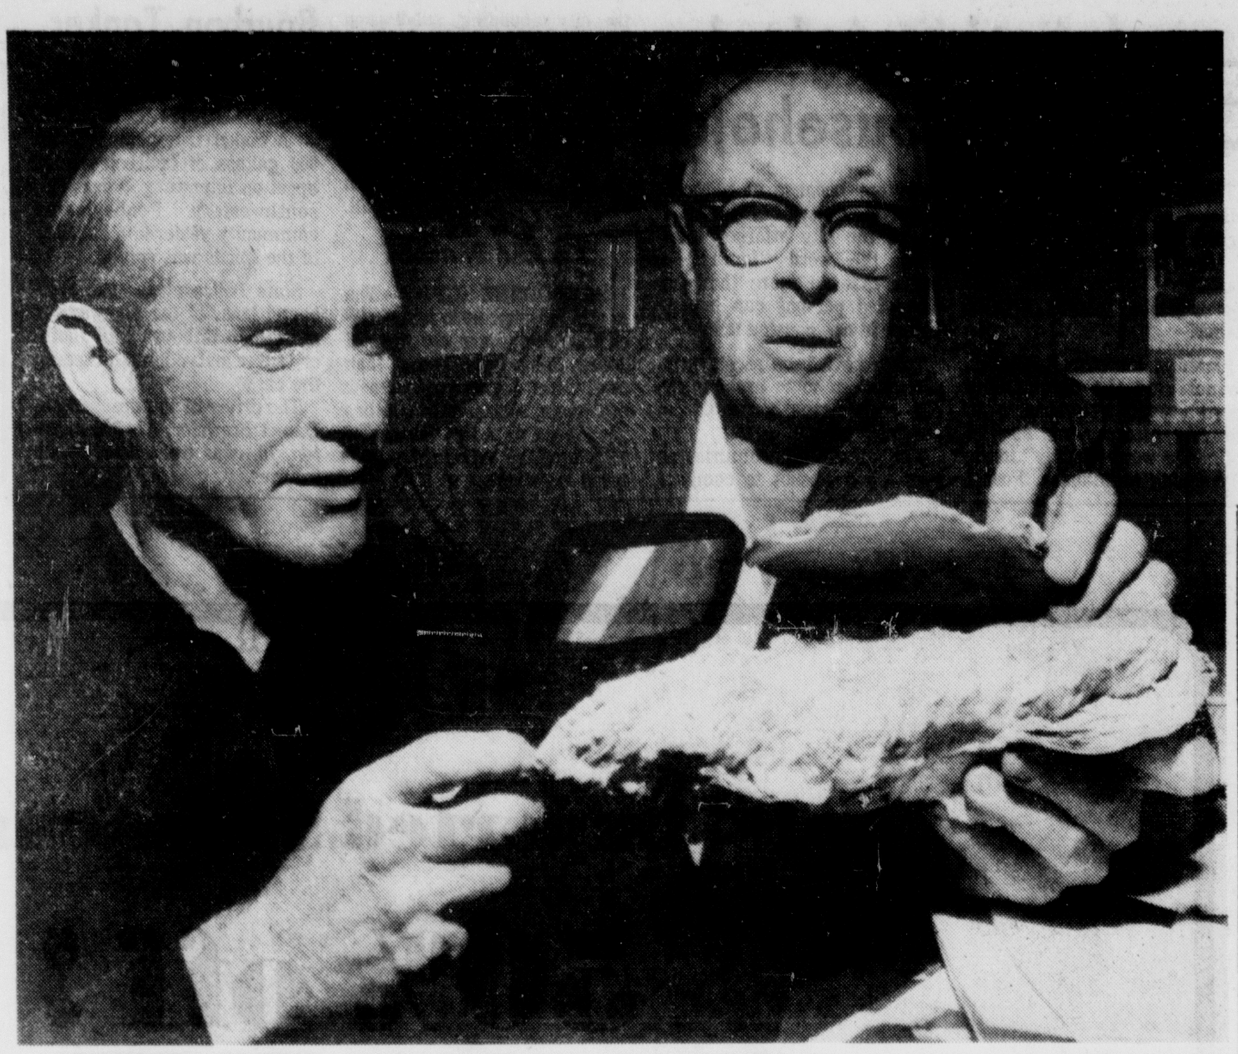

The warm water used in one oyster farm, near New York, was provided by a Consolidated Edison Corp. generator coolant. Intelligent use of industrial wastes such as these can benefit, rather than harm the fisheries, Loosanoff asserted.

Under controlled growth conditions, food is scientifically prepared for sea life for maximum nutrition. The Purina Corp., best known for its cat foods, also makes high-protein food pellets for salmon in captivity.

A major problem when it comes to feeding the American people, Glude said, are foreign countries taking fish from just outside the U.S. legal limits. The Soviet Union and Japan, particularly, having fished out the waters along their own coastlines, take fish regularly from just outside the 12-mile limit off the Pacific Coast. Glude said an upcoming international fisheries meeting might raise the offshore limit to 200 miles to combat this pilfering.

Pollution, both scientists agree, should be only a temporary problem for waters, especially if the polluting is stopped. Effects of highly publicized oil spills off Santa Barbara and England have been temporary, and wildlife has nearly completely been regenerated in the formerly blighted areas, Glude said.

"Nature is tough to overcome — give her a chance, and she'll bounce back from almost anything," he said.

MAMMOTH OYSTER — John B. Glude of Seattle and Dr. Victor L. Loosanoff of Greenbrae use a magnifying glass to take a close look at the inside shell of a Crassostrea gigas ("Gigantic Oyster") in the study of Loosanoff's home. Oysters such as this one can sometimes be grown more quickly in a warm-water environment, the marine biologists report.

S. Vietnam Eases Visa Restrictions

SAIGON (UPI) — In an attempt to lure more tourists to South Vietnam, the government has eased visa restrictions imposed in 1968 to keep out foreign anti-war militants.

Beginning late last year, airport immigration officers were authorized to grant seven-day visas to anyone with a valid passport.

Proxmire Seeks Ethyl Alcohol Study As A Fuel

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., urged the Federal Energy Office today to consider ethyl alcohol as a possible automobile fuel.

Proxmire said the government has developed a low-cost method for producing the alcohol, known as ethanol, which he said could reduce the price of the fuel by as much as 20 cents per gallon during the next few years.

In a letter to Acting Director John C. Sawhill, Proxmire said researchers at an Army laboratory at Natick, Mass., had developed a process by which ethanol can be made cheaply from organic waste.

"This process can cut the cost of ethanol from $1 a gallon to 20 cents a gallon," Proxmire wrote.

NOT CONVINCED — Steven Weed said yesterday Patricia Hearst's rejection of him and her family doesn't mean a thing as long as she is in the custody of the Symbionese Liberation Army.
(UPI Telephoto)

Weed Still Maintains Patricia Brainwashed

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Patricia Hearst's fiance said last night that her rejection of him and her family "doesn't mean a damn thing" as long as she is being held by the Symbionese Liberation Army.

Steven Weed, 26, a University of California graduate student, told CBS News that Miss Hearst was "victimized" when kidnaped by the SLA Feb. 4 and the "situation has not changed by now."

In a tape recorded message received Wednesday Miss Hearst ridiculed Weed and her father, Randolph A. Hearst, president and editor of The San Francisco Examiner. She called them "clowns" and "pigs." She also reaffirmed her allegiance to the SLA.

Asked whether he still loved her, Weed said: "Yes, of course. It would be absolutely foolish of me to take that kind of rejection in a personal way, and the same goes for her family."

He repeated his belief that Miss Hearst had been brainwashed by her captors.

Miss Hearst also said in her message that she willingly joined eight other SLA members in their $10,600 robbery of a Hibernia Bank branch in the quiet Sunset District April 15. She said the loot would be used by "the people."

Weed told reporters outside the Hearst mansion in Hillsborough that he thought the SLA would pull off another crime in a week or two. "It might be murder," he said. "I think they'll most likely try to shoot someone and involve Patty in it or Patty will involve herself."

House Approves Extra Funds For Space Program

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The House has voted to give the space program $13 million more than the administration asked for, although it changed some priorities around.

On a 341-37 roll call vote, the House sent a $3.26 billion space budget to the Senate.

The measure includes $820 million for continued development of a space shuttle craft, which the National Aeronautics and Space Administration said it hoped would be ready for a test orbital flight in the summer of 1979.

AEC Chairman Sees Approval Of Energy Bill

LOS ALAMOS, N.M. (UPI) — Dr. Dixy Lee Ray said yesterday she believed a pending energy research and development bill would be approved by Congress shortly. The bill would divide the Atomic Energy Commission into sections, one for research the other for regulatory duties.

In answer to reported plans to resign her post as head of the AEC and become president of Portland State University, Dr. Ray said she planned to stay in her job as long as President Nixon wanted her. "...As long as the President so pleases, I will be happy to remain on the commission."

Dr. Ray was in Los Alamos for the dedication of a new facility to be used in controlled thermonuclear reaction experiments.

Cairo Says Overthrow Plotters All Arrested

CAIRO (UPI) — Cairo newspapers reported today that Egyptian authorities have arrested all 75 members of an underground organization that sought to overthrow President Anwar Sadat. And without directly linking Libyan leader Moammar Khadafy to the plot, the newspaper Al Akhbar attacked him personally.

Official statements and local newspapers pointed an accusing finger against Libya earlier, charging that the organization's leader, Saleh Sariya, visited Tripoli last June and met Khadafy, chairman of the Libyan revolution council.

Today a widely-read Egyptian writer likened Khadafy to "a black gun dripping with hate" and pointed at Egypt's heart.

The attack came in the form of a six-line poem, using the pun technique, by the satirical writer Ahmed Ragab in Al Akhbar.

It was the strongest personal blast at Khadafy growing out of the Egyptian-Libyan crisis which has been deepened by Egyptian charges of Libyan complicity in a terrorist attack on the technical military academy in Cairo April 18, as a prelude to overthrowing the government of President Anwar Sadat.

Fonda Better

NEW YORK (UPI) — Actor Henry Fonda is scheduled to leave Lenox Hill Hospital today after recuperating there since Tuesday night from "total exhaustion," hospital officials said.

'Zebra' Search Is Ruled Unconstitutional, Ends

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Police halted their "stop and question" search for the "Zebra" killers today on orders of a federal judge who ruled the dragnet unconstitutional.

They already had modified the widespread questioning of black males resembling a drawing of one suspect, saying the widespread search had been "unproductive and ineffective."

U.S. District Judge Alfonso J. Zirpoli issued an injunction against the city yesterday barring indiscriminate stopping of citizens because the "danger of repetition has not been removed."

He said the city's "simple good faith is not enough," despite the softening of the controversial tactic, and that the city was "mistaken on the constitutionality of the program."

The National Association for the Advancement of Colored People and the American Civil Liberties Union filed the suits. They said black men were being stopped on the streets and questioned solely because they resembled a police artist's drawing of a "Zebra" suspect.

The most recent "Zebra" victim was Nelson T. Shields, a young, white man killed 11 days ago. He was the 12th white person slain by a black killer who approached his targets silently and fired at point blank range. Six others were wounded.

Nearly 600 blacks had been halted in the "stop and question" search before the program was curtailed.

Two Women Quizzed About Link To SLA

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Two militant women said little yesterday during an appearance before a federal grand jury investigating murder, robbery and kidnap by the Symbionese Liberation Army.

Cynthia Garvey, and Janet Cooper, both 27, were subpoenaed by the grand jury, which yesterday opened its investigation of an April 15 bank robbery allegedly conducted by members of the SLA along with kidnaped newspaper heiress Patricia Hearst.

Miss Garvey said she refused to answer some questions under the protective guaranty of the Fifth Amendment. Miss Cooper, a one-time student activist at Stanford, demanded she be permitted to see her attorney each time U.S. Attorney James Browning asked her a question.

A driver's license belonging to Miss Rooper was used by the SLA to rent four automobiles in the $10,960 robbery of the Hibernia Bank. She said she reported the license lost or stolen last October. A police report was filed the same day the license became missing, she said.

As a graduate student at Stanford, Miss Cooper took part in heckling Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge, who was invited to the campus in the mid-1960s. She was barred from the campus following the incident.

Miss Garvey has been active in anti-war activities and worked on the Chino Defense Committee.

Investigators say Emily Harris, 29, identified as a member of the SLA, was also active in the Chino Defense Committee. Mrs. Harris is the wife of William Taylor Harris, 31, who authorities say is also a member of the SLA, possibly the man identified as "Teko" in the latest tape recorded message from the terrorists. Both Harrises are at large.

S. Vietnam Sees Oil As Hope

SAIGON (UPI) — Much of South Vietnam's hope for the future rests on the belief oil lies under its offshore waters.

Three American and one Canadian company have been awarded contracts to search for the black gold, and other contracts are expected to be awarded later this year.

Oil experts, however, have predicted it will be at least five years before a drop of petroleum is harvested, if indeed any is found.

Until then, South Vietnam is expected to continue its dependence on foreign aid to survive inflation currently running at 65 per cent a year.

Cala Slayer Gets Life In Prison

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Van Wesley Purcell, 29, has been sentenced to life imprisonment for the Janaury slaying of market owner Anthony Cala during a holdup.

Superior Court Judge William Mullins yesterday also sentenced Purcell to consecutive terms of 10 years to life on seven counts of first degree robbe y, consecutive terms of five to life on two counts of attempted robbery and one to 15 years on a gun charge.

Purcell was convicted by a jury on April 9.

Police said Purcell shot Cala when the owner swung a bag of coins at him during the robbery.

He was not sentenced to death because the jury felt the slaying was not premeditated.

House Vote Bans Fetus Test Funds

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The House on a 281-58 vote moved yesterday to outlaw use of government funds for research or experimentation on live human fetuses.

The ban was tacked on a bill authorizing $788.2 million for the National Science Foundation (NSF) in fiscal 1975.

Rep. Angelo Roncallo, R-N.Y., author of the amendment, said the measure was identical to a ban he sponsored last year on legislation funding the National Institutes of Health (NIH).

NIH has conducted research on aborted fetuses, but the NSF says it has never carried out such research and does not intend to.

Attorney Lands In Trouble, Too

VAN NUYS (UPI) — Lawyer Jack Schmidt defended Donald Lee Bledsoe last year on a charge of auto theft. Bledsoe was convicted.

Yesterday, Schmidt was too.

A superior court jury found the attorney guilty of accepting a stolen car from Bledsoe to cover his legal fee. The judge scheduled sentencing for June 6.

Auto Production Is Up This Week

DETROIT, (UPI) — The U.S. auto industry will build 171,422 cars this week, a 7 per cent increase over last week and the best performance of the year.

The effects of the winter-long slump in sales and production will be shown today by General Motors Corp. when it releases finanacial results for the first three months of the year. The world's largest auto company is expected to show a substantial drop from the record $817 million it earned in the first three months of 1973.

The increased production is another sign the industry is beginning to pull itself out of the deepest slump since the 1958 recession. About 105,000 hourly workers one-seventh of the total industry work force — remain on indefinite layoffs although some are beginning to trickle back to their jobs.

The trade publication Automotive News said today the industry probably will exceed its production target of 638,000 cars in April which would be 24.3 per cent below last April. Through tomorrow, production will total 2,397,877 cars this year, a drop of 31.7 per cent from 3,511,514 in the comparable period of 1973.

Only one plant was on temporary shutdown this week — Chrysler's St. Louis facility that builds intermediate-size models. Closed until midsummer is GM's South Gate, Calif., plant which is being converted from big-car production to turning out the subcompact Chevrolet Vega.

To reach this week's output of 171,422 cars, 20.4 per cent below the comparable week last year, the industry scheduled nine plants to work overtime — two at GM, six at Ford Motor Co.'s plants and American Motors' Kenosha, Wis., plant.

Production schedules in the coming months are expected to top previous estimates with GM now planning to add 24,000 intermediate and full-size models to its 1974 model run. The additions will mean the recall of 2,300 workers from indefinite layoffs.

While building some of the extra cars for the market, observers noted that GM had to build some of the cars because it has the parts that couldn't be used on any other cars.

Driving Count

California, reports the National Automobile Club, has 12.6 million drivers-license records.

Graham Sees No Tax Fraud

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (UPI) — Rev. Billy Graham, President Nixon's friend of long standing, yesterday voiced his belief that fraud is not involved in the President's income tax controversy.

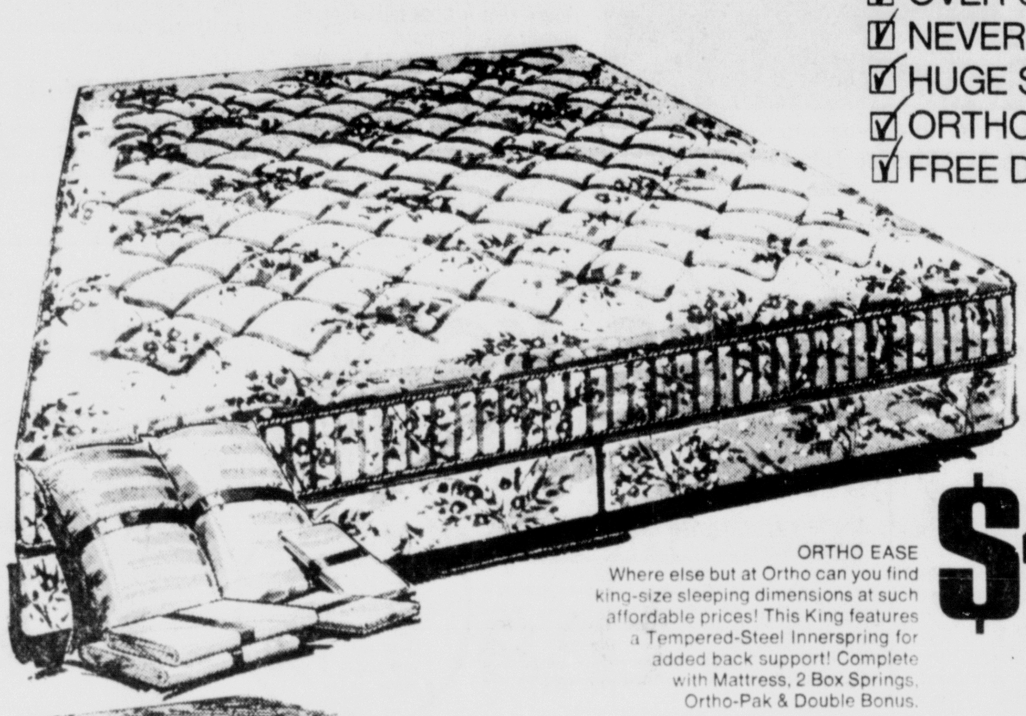

Speaking to the student and faculty at Southern Baptist Seminary, he said:

"I do not believe the full report is out, but I don't believe he was ever involved in fraud.

Graham also denied rumors that he intended to retire. He said he was going to Los Angeles soon to mark the 25th anniversary of his first crusade.

Moretti Calls Liquor Lobby Favors Baloney

SACRAMENTO (UPI) -- Assembly Speaker Bob Moretti said yesterday the accusation that liquor lobbyists are "supplying women" and other favors to legislators was "a bunch of baloney."

"Those days are almost totally gone in Sacramento to the best of my knowledge," Moretti told newsmen when asked about the charge by Dr. Joel Fort, a San Francisco author.

"Nobody walks around and says, 'Hey, Bob, do you want a woman Thursday night," said Moretti, a Democratic gubernatorial contender.

When asked whether his "almost totally gone" remark meant some shady tactics existed, Moretti replied: "I don't make absolutist statements where I can avoid them. How do I know it didn't happen once last year or something like that. But I just know it's not any general policy."

The allegation by Fort, a drug expert, came during a news conference when he was seeking support for a bill to double liquor taxes and remove state protections against competition in the liquor industry. He cited no specific cases of legislators being "supplied women."

"At least the man should have had the intelligence to present some information as evidence," Moretti said. Liquor lobbyists also have denied the charge and threatened to sue.

Moretti also said that recent polls on the governor's race indicate that he will overtake Secretary of State Edmund G. Brown Jr. before the June 4 primary.

"People are not going to elect him (Brown) just on the basis that he is the son of a governor," Moretti said.

Recent polls have shown Brown's early lead dwindling although he still is ahead of Moretti and the rest of the Democratic field. Moretti, meantime, has advanced to second in the race.

Restaurant Design Given Approval

The exterior design for a sukiyaki restaurant which is moving into a doctor's office on Caledonia Street has been approved by the Sausalito Community Appearances Advisory Board, according to Norman Wohlschlaeger, director of public works.

The board Wednesday agreed to the plans submitted for the Japanese style wooden exterior for the building at 45 Caledonia to be operated by Hal Neilson.

Students Protest Cafeteria Food

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (UPI) — Students at North Syracuse Central High School held a sit-in yesterday to protest the quality of food served in the school cafeteria.

The students blocked traffic, boycotted classes and rejected a request by Principal Richard May to go indoors to hear the superintendent of schools.

One student complained to a newsman that pizza served in the cafeteria was "hard enough to crack a table, the fish was uncooked, the milk was sour, and there were maggots in the rice."

Candidates In Support Of Prop. 1

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — California's eight major candidates for governor — both Democrat and Republican — have endorsed Proposition 1, the $250 million measure to expand and improve state park and recreational facilities.

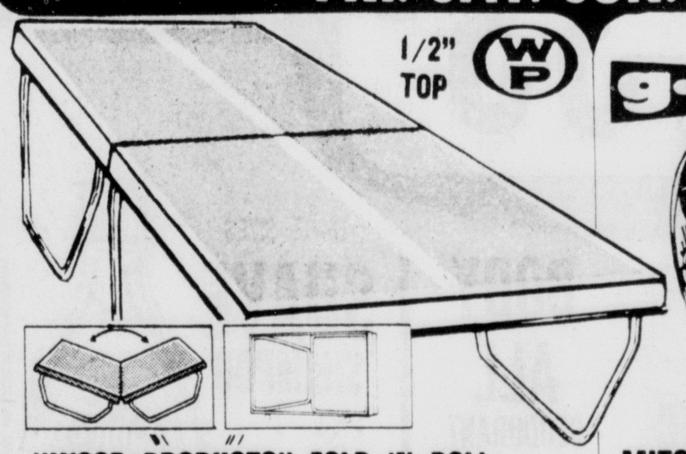

Democrats Joseph L. Alioto, Edmund G. Brown, Jr., Herb Hafif, Bob Moretti, William Matson Roth of Ross, and Jerome Waldie, plus Republicans Houston Flournoy and Ed Reinecke said they supported the State Beach, Park, Recreational, and Historical Facilities Bond Act on the June allot.

If Proposition 1 is passed, city, county and regional parks districts would receive $90 million to improve and expand facilities. The other $160 million would be used for acquisition and development of state park, beach, wildlife and historical facilities.

Billboard Booted

PORTLAND, Ore. (UPI) — Billboards have been removed along Oregon's highways in a step to return the state to its natural look, and this has prompted a new method for businesses to get their messages to travelers.

AN UNUSUAL doll house constructed by Thomas Gildersleeve for the Sausalito Nursery School is admired by Patricia Gildersleeve, 2, with her mother, Mrs. Gildersleeve. It will be on display throughout Marin County until May 11, when the doll house will be featured at the Sausalito Nursery School's Arts and Crafts Faire. Mrs. Gildersleeve did the miniature interior decorating.

FOUR-CITY TOUR

Doll House Built With Care

By BETTY FROST

An enchanting doll house, designed and constructed by Thomas Gildersleeve of Sausalito and decorated by his wife, Peg, with miniature antique-style furnishings, will be on display at business establishments in Larkspur, Greenbrae, Mill Valley and Sausalito until May 11.

Gildersleeve made the house for the Sausalito Nursery School, and it will be on view during the two-day Arts and Crafts Faire May 11 and 12 in downtown Sausalito. It will be awarded at the conclusion of the event sponsored by the Sausalito Nursery School.

The style of architecture was adapted by the builder from illustrations in the popular children's books by Richard Scarry. Gildersleeve, an engineer who works for Standard Oil Co. of California in the employee relations division of the personnel department in San Francisco, did a full set of plans before beginning the construction.

The little house took 72 hours in the building. Gildersleeve made hundreds of tiny redwood shingles, one inch square with scalloped edges, a realistic chimney, a view window, and the exterior is stucco finished. There is a completely furnished living room, kitchen, bath, two bedrooms, a balcony with outside furniture, and a realistic attic-sewing room.

Mrs. Gildersleeve credits community cooperation for the complete furnishings. Bits of wallpaper, tiny lamps, clocks, stoves, chairs and other accoutrements were donated by friends of the nursery school who were intrigued with the project.

"The furnishings alone cost about $300," she said.

Mrs. Donald Holbrook, Faire chairman, said that she insured the doll house for $600.

The Gildersleeve children, Brinker, 4, and Patricia, 2, have watched their parents complete the doll house at the family home in Sausalito. They are so intrigued with it that they hate to let it go.

It looks as though the next project for Gildersleeve, a member of the Sausalito Planning Commission, will be to build a second doll house for his own children.

Marin Women

OFFICIAL DEBUT

Betty Ford Invades The South

By LOUISE SWEENEY
The Christian Science Monitor News Service

ATLANTA — Cameras flashed as the woman in the lemon knit evening dress glided down a winding staircase straight out of "Gone With the Wind."

Betty Ford, ex-Martha Graham dancer, mother of four, rose grower, and wife of the vice president of the United States, was making her official debut as second lady." The setting was a reception in her honor at the governor's mansion in Atlanta before she launched a train full of art — "Artrain" — on its Southeastern tour.

But the crowd was not there to talk about Rembrandt and Picasso. Gov. Jimmy Carter, ardent Democrat and peanut farmer, had invited some of his choicest political friends and even some Georgia Republicans for the bash.

They moved through the tall, stately rooms full of crystal chandeliers, antebellum antiques, cherry silk, and fresh flowers, waiting their turn in the reception line. They were as curious about Mrs. Ford as about visiting royalty. And there were murmurs, over the silver platters heaped with roast beef and artichokes and petit fours, about whether Mrs. Ford would someday become First Lady.

SHE WOULD rather not talk about that subject, thanks. But Mrs. Ford did talk about her own life and attitudes, including how she feels about being the focus of all those photographers in her new role.

"I'm not uncomfortable with it," she says. "Of course Jerry and I have been married 25 years and he's been in Congress 25 years and it really hasn't made a tremendous difference in my life."

What about the sort of polite limelight she's in on her official trip to Georgia? "It's a happy experience. I feel very proud of my husband, and consequently I try to appear at my best to compliment him."

This self-effacing woman moves with a dancer's grace. She is small-boned with hazel eyes and hair somewhere between the color of copper and gingersnaps. She talks in a careful, measured, often noncommittal way, in a voice that mixes the tang of Grand Rapids, Mich., with a bit of Southern languor.

On the role of the political wife, she says:

"I think we have to be supportive. I also think we have to be a sounding board for him. My husband had also said . . . that I'm his toughest and best critic but sometimes I regret it."

WHEN PRESSED she will talk impersonally about the qualities any first lady needs: "To enjoy people, to relate to people. I think, too, that you have to be very generous with your time, try to give the impression people would like as the wife of the president or vice-president or maybe any man would want of his wife."

She parried a question about the role of the activist first lady: "I think that's great if you can do it, but we're not all channeled in the same direction. I knew very little about politics until I married my husband . . . I still don't know very much," she smiles.

Mrs. Ford hopes as wife of the vice president to be active in the support of the arts. The "Artrain" which she launched in Georgia had originated in her native Michigan and was sponsored on its tour of six Southeastern states by the National Endowment for the Arts and the Southern Growth Policies Board.

"Artrain" docked in Dalton, Ga., where the whole town turned out for a glimpse of Mrs. Ford . . . as well as a parade, speech, and tour of the train.

At the official ceremony, Mrs. Ford said, "Art is nonpolitical. It is in the arts that we are all brought together." Her special interest in the arts is the dance.

BETTY FORD, who began taking dance lessons at eight back in Grand Rapids, eventually went on to dance with Martha Graham's company. Looking back on that experience she says, "It was a great inspiration to me. Martha Graham had a great effect on my life and life style because of the discipline she really demanded of her dancers."

Betty Ford says, "I couldn't afford to go to college and I really wasn't interested." She had been modeling since she was 14 in Michigan, and went to New York to study dance at 20. She supported herself by becoming one of the John Robert Powers models, carrying one of "those round black patent leather hatboxes." She also had studied for two summers at a school of the dance at Bennington (Vt.) College, and after she had succeeded with the Graham troupe had decided to devote herself to dancing as a career.

BETTY FORD
Not uncomfortable

But her mother urged her to go back to Grand Rapids to think over this decision for six months. "After I got home I started my own group and started working. Of course I had to work, became a fashion coordinator, and was able to take out the frustrations about dancing by the group I'd formed at night."

SHE STAYED in Grand Rapids, and one day got a phone call from a fellow she'd often watched play football at the University of Michigan. Jerry Ford, just out of the Navy, was practicing law and back home in Grand Rapids. They'd known each other since childhood.

Mrs. Ford was asked about a report that her husband had promised her to retire from politics. "Yes," she said, admitting it was true. "It would have meant he'd run for one more term. I had hoped that if he were back in the law practice we would have more time to play golf which he loves to do and perhaps we'd have more time together. By retirement I didn't expect him to come home and retire, I just meant he'd only have the one office."

Would Mrs. Ford hold her husband to his promise if the Republican convention were deadlocked in 1976, the only condition under which the Vice-President has said he would consider running for the presidency?

"I THINK it's too far in advance to make any statement, because I really don't know how I feel about that," she said.

In an interview Mrs. Ford is polite and to use a word her friends invariably use to describe her, "gracious." But she is often reluctant to go beyond general remarks, to voice her specific views.

Reporters traveling with Mrs. Ford were surprised that there are no Secret Service agents assigned to guard her outside the house. She has a car and driver provided by the Senate, but none of the protection which has been traditional for vice-presidents' wives recently.

Therapists Explore Life Of Families

"In the past families were task oriented, with each family member contributing to the survival of the whole family, "Lothar Salin told an audience of 40 in the Consumer Resource Center of Tamalpais High School yesterday.

Salin and his associate, Jean Hayes, are therapists with offices in Sausalito and conduct courses and do counseling. They joined forces at yesterday's session to explore the question, "Are Families Necessary?"

Miss Hayes pointed out that "while the task-oriented family worked together, the individual's feelings and wishes were not given much consideration. Historically parents made the rules, and if the children had different ideas, the family sturcture could break down. Now we work to incorporate new ideas within the family structure."

"IN THE Puritan ethic a child was told he was bad so that he could do better. Now we need to encourage young people so they will have a sense of self-worth," Salin said. "As adults we need to learn more about communicating with other family members. Listening is the place to start."

In answer to the question "What are families good for?" Salin responded that one theory is that they are a "people-making factory" if "people making" means not only the birth of children, but the development of individuals and the recognition of their rights and needs.

He also said reaction to change was an indication of the health of family relationships. If parents freeze out any discussion of change, then great tensions will result. However, if parents can accept what is actually happening, sort out the circumstances and learn to work with change, a good framework can be achieved for family progress, he said.

Miss Hayes spoke of two kinds of rules. The explicit rules which everyone in a family understands, such as the time when meals are served and other routine activities, are easy to work with, she said. It is the implicit rules, reflecting attitudes, that are the hardest to change.

BOTH SPEAKERS discussed the traditional roles in the family, with father the strong breadwinner, mother the docile homemaker, and the obedient children assisting with designated chores. These stereotypes are breaking up, with women seeking vocations outside the home and father's helping more with the upbringing of the children, they explained. Women who are working at jobs they like achieve greater self-fulfillment and bring new values to all their relationships, they said.

Salin said that a small child needs "parenting", but it may be from either the mother or the father. From the age of 5 to early adolescence, sex role models are important to the child's development. Although such models need not be the child's own parents, he stated.

Salin spoke of the commune as one alternative to traditional family life.

"Reserach shows that within the commune interraction is very much like that of a family of relatives. Some of the adults will take responsibility for the children of the commune and family-style relationships will develop."

The speakers agreed that "families are not necessary as they used to be for survival, but a family structure is necessary for the growth of the individual within a close-knit unit."

The program was one of a series sponsored by the center as a service to Tamalpais High School students and the community. — B.F.

HELEN HELP US!

By HELEN BOTTEL

Adopted Child Wants To Know Identity Of Natural Parents

DEAR HELEN:

Recently, a TV movie brought up the question: should an adopted person have the right to know his or her real parentage? Currently, we adopteds must live in limbo, unless our "parents" happen to know the names of our natural parents. So often, it's all a big secret for the "protection" of the adults: the real mother mustn't know who chose her baby, and the adopting couple is only told about health and racial heritage of the baby.

But what about us — the ones who are adopted? I want to know my roots. I'd like to find my real mother and father, even if they didn't want me (or couldn't care for me).

I've tried, but like the young man in the movie, I've reached nothing but dead ends.

There probably isn't much hope that I'll ever find my natural parents (and maybe I'd be very disappointed if I did), but how about a push to get laws changed so that an adopted person can have a real family tree? — WANTS TO KNOW

DEAR WTK:

Though I'm not sure it would always be a good idea, I can sympathize with you adopteds who want to know your heritage. I can also see both the natural parents' and the foster parents' points of view. For them, secrecy is often better.

Because I'm ambivalent here, I can only say: if you want a law changed, write your congressman. I'm sure many other adopted persons will join you.

Meanwhile let's hear from readers who are personally involved in the problem. Do you think foster children have the right to know who and where their natural parents are? — H.

DEAR HELEN:

I can't understand how "Quietly Simmering" can possibly feed a family of five on less than $35 a week!

I live alone and cook all my meals at home except on Sundays when I go to a restaurant. I am a very light eater, but buy the best steaks and chops.

My food bills average $55 per month — for one — or about $13 per week. With three growing children and two hungry adults, how does she do it on $35? — JOHN M.

DEAR JOHN:

I don't know, but maybe "Q.S." will let us in on her secret if we ask her.

However, please recall, she wasn't at all happy about the food budget her stingy husband laid on her, so I doubt she'll do much bragging. — H.

DEAR HELEN:

I've been this man's best friend for three years, but nothing more than that. He, my 6-year-old son and I went almost everywhere together, but he dated other women and I also dated a few men. We were the best of pals.

Suddenly it happened. He decided he wanted to get married (after swearing he never would). He took me out to dinner, then broke the news that he was marrying a woman he went with three years ago.

She is a very nice person (we're friends), but I don't think she is for him. What I'm trying to say is I've grown very fond of my "pal," and am sorry we never saw beyond our "buddy relationship."

His future bride wants me to be matron of honor. If I say "No," he will want to know why. What should I tell him? — LOVESICK

DEAR LOVESICK:

How about the truth? Seems to me long-time "pals" should level with each other. —H.

Workshop For Single Mothers Set

Single Mothers of Marin is sponsoring a Gestalt Growth and Awareness Workshop for single mothers rearing children alone, which begins tomorrow at 10 a.m. at the Young Women's Christian Association, 1618 Mission Avenue in San Rafael.

The workshop will be led by Gestalt therapist Barbara Goodridge, MSW, a single mother.

Other ongoing groups sponsored by Single Mothers of Marin are Transactional Analysis Workshops, and awareness guidance group and a group for young persons in single parent families, according to Jini Lama, program director.

Transactional Analysis therapist Margaret Dale is leading a workshop for mothers Tuesdays at 8 p.m. at the Church in Ignacio, and Val Garfield leads a workshop Fridays at 10 a.m. at 101 Casa Buena Drive in Corte Madera.

The awareness guidance group meets Wednesdays at 1 p.m. in Room 1 at Indian Valley Colleges, 720 Ignacio Boulevard at Novato. Instructor is Ruth Downing, women's counselor at College of Marin and Indian Valley Colleges.

The youth group meets Tuesdays at 3:30 p.m. at Rights of Passage, a growth and crisis center for young persons and their families, at 1010 Grand Avenue in San Rafael. Leaders are social worker Kerby Ann Gleason and counselor Bill McIver.

All groups and workshops are free with the exception of the Gestalt workshop for which thre is a minimal fee. Arrangements for child care can be made by calling Mrs. Lama at the Single Mothers of Marin office at College of Marin.

Handle Safety

When you're cooking on top of the range, make sure that pot handles do not extend over the edge of the range because when they're placed this way it's easy to knock the pans off.

ON BEING BLACK

Movie Fare All Wrong For Children

By SANDRA HAGGERTY
(Distributed by Los Angeles Times Syndicate)

SALT LAKE CITY — Every time I attend a so-called "black movie" the majority of black films are produced, written and distributed by whites and shown in white movie houses) my hope is that things have changed since "Super Fly," "The Mack" and "Cleopatra Jones." Not so far.

Evidently, movie producers have hit upon a formula that sells, and they are milking it for all it's worth. So blacks continue to be pictured as glorified potheads, pimps, whores, superbad bucks and supersexy women.

There is much concern about the results of such film footage, particularly on black youngsters. Most of these movies are R or X-rated; still, many black youngsters see them.

In a recent Psychology Today article, Dr. Alvin E. Poussaint, associate professor of psychiatry at Harvard and associate dean at Harvard Medical School, stated that the current fare of black-oriented films is increasing drug addiction and violence while spreading the notion that blacks are violent, criminal and sexy savages.

DR. POUSSAINT claims that black youth seriously identifies with these new movies.

"By taking advantage of blacks' desire to see themselves on the screen, the producers of these films have exposed black youth to images that undermine an already poor self-concept," he said.

Films depicting the positive relationships of a black family are rare. Unfortunately, black stability and sanity, fully clothed, does not sell.

Attitudes among black adults about the current movie fare range from "disgusting" to "corny." Black youngsters, teen-agers particularly, say they are "baaaad," "downnn" and "tuff." (Translation: Great!)

Obviously, people are paying to see these flicks or Hollywood wouldn't continue to grind them out. Since the only power the movie industry respects, when deciding what and how to film, is green power, it's time for those blacks dissatisfied with the current black movie trend to withdraw that support.

Instead, save up and send an inner-city kid to camp.

Doris Jenkins Is Honored By Fund Grant In Her Name

Doris Jenkins was honored by the Mill Valley Area Branch of the American Association of University Women this week when a $500 fellowship fund grant was given in her name.

The announcement was made at the 25th anniversary luncheon of the branch Tuesday at the Sausalito Yacht Club.

Mrs. Jenkins is a charter member of the branch, and was the second president. She continues an active interest in the organization and is conducting leadership training sessions for new board members, and belongs to the Investment Study Group.

Besides her service to the AAUW, she was cited for her work with choreography organizations at the local, state, regional and national levels. She is chairman of the Craft of Choreography Conferences sponsored by the National Association for Regional Ballet, and funded by grants from the National Endowment for the Arts and the California Arts Commission. She is a past chairman of the Pacific Regional Choreography Conference, and remains on the board of directors of the Pacific Regional Choreography Association.

FOR HER duties as national chairman for regional conferences she will conduct conferences in Indiana and New Orleans in July and at Dominican College in San Rafael from Aug. 3 to 11.

"The company directors of regional ballet companies, working choreographers, and young dancers have workshop sessions, lectures and slide presentations for the purpose of studying the craft of choreographing ballets," Mrs. Jenkins explained. About 150 persons attend the sessions.

Not a dancer herself, her work is administrative, the Mill Valleyan said.

Mrs. Jenkins became interested in the dance about 20 years ago when her daughters enrolled in a summer dance program at the Dick Ford Dance Studio. By 1960 she was working in the office of the studio, and organizing classes for the Pacific Dance Guild. She continues as Ford's representative with Mill Valley, Napa and San Mateo dance groups in the Pacific Dance Guild and acts as manager of the Ford enterprises. Marguerite and Dick Ford are now living in Baja California.

She is married to Robert Jenkins, who is in the insurance and claims department of Statelines Steamship Co. in San Francisco.

Mill Valley residents since 1946, the Jenkinses have three daughters, Mrs. Charles Mathews of Crescent City; Mrs. Kathleen Polanshek, studying at the University of Edinburgh in Scotland, and Teresa Jenkins, a student at Stanford University. Their grandson, Jason Mathews, is 4 months old.

Mrs. Jenkins is a graduate of the University of California at Berkeley with a degree in bacteriology. She worked as a clinical and research bacteriologist at Stanford Medical School before her marriage.

Talk Scheduled On Solzhenitsyn

Mary Arnold, PhD., will speak on "Solzhenitsyn: Artist and Man" May 5 at 7:30 p.m. at the Marin Jewish Community Center in San Rafael.

The talk is sponsored by the center and the American Jewish Congress.

Dr. Arnold was born in the United States and moved to the Soviet Union in 1931, where she lived for 10 years and attended high school and college. She was denied permission to leave Russia between 1937 and 1941. Currently an associate professor of Russian language and literature at Sonoma State College, she has been with the U.S. Intelligence Service as a Russian translator and radio monitor. She has made several return trips to the Soviet Union.

Two Selected For Child Center Board

Mrs. Gibson L. Crawford of San Rafael and Dr. Colin C. Wong of Tiburon have been elected to the board of directors of Marin Child Development Center in Tiburon.

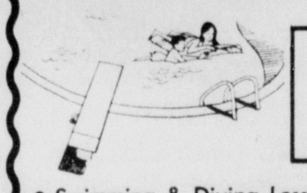

Mrs. Crawford is a former director of Sunny Hills and served two terms as president of the Sunny Hills Guilds Governing Council. Dr. Wong is vice president of the Marin County Dental Society.

Doctor's New Techniques Change Psychosis Thinking

By SANDRA GITTENS

NEW YORK (AP) — Dr. Irene Kassorla claims her professional life essentially started when she was 42.

That's after she developed new techniques which enabled her to generate speech from mute, autistic children, thereby markedly altering childhood schizophrenia.

While attending the University of California at Los Angeles she was assigned hospital observation duties and says it was there she realized doctors were reinforcing psychosis.

"I WENT back to my school and wrote a paper saying doctors are reinforcing psychosis at such and such hospital," she said in an interview.

After the papers were graded and handed back she recalls that her professor asked, "Who is Irene Kassorla? May I speak with you for a moment?"

"I thought he was going to do something drastic; instead he said, 'Look, what do you want?' I told him I wanted a patient and I wanted to try out my own ideas, which, of course, was absurd because you don't get a patient for another 10 years — when you're close to your doctorate," she explained.

She got a patient, nevertheless, and within a week, she says, she was able to get remarkable results from a sick little girl.

BY SIMPLY reversing what was done at the hospital, Dr. Kassorla said she reinforced healthy responses, ignored the bizarre, and the child got better.

"Before," she said, "doctors would see a psychotic doing something crazy and say, 'Oh, that's all right!' I wouldn't say, 'Oh, that's all right.' I'd say, 'Hey, that's crazy, what the heck are you doing? Stop it!'

"I'm never dishonest with such a person. I give him reality, and this is what is important about my techniques —treat the psychotic normally and you know what, he acts normal!"

For the next three years she continued work with autistic children. Then in 1965 she was invited to further her studies in London by Hans Eysenck, professor of the Institute of Psychiatry at the University of London.

In London, she said, "again very marvelous things happened." She worked with a 52-year-old patient who hadn't spoken in over 30 years. She recalled he was like a rock but says she was able to get him talking after 31 days.

"THE PAPERS got hold of it and started calling me 'miracle worker.' Then the BBC British Broadcasting Corporation came to me and made a couple of documentaries on my work with this man."

Completing her degree in London, Dr. Kassorla returned to the United States and internship. While in Los Angeles she was asked to do therapy sessions at a television station. She says she thought it was an excellent idea because most people undergo the same kind of difficulties as the psychotic.

"The psychotic," she explained, "will act crazy, using it as a language, and very often we respond to it. But, with normal people, psychotic behavior is not as easy to see because it is not as magnified. The psychotic is different only in frequency, intensity, and volume —a magnification of normalcy.

"WITH NORMAL people," she continued, "there's the same tendency to bury feelings of inadequacy and insecurity, and that's when one begins to feel different from others and starts to distort reality.

"Everyone fails," she added. "Everybody feels inadequate at times, and everybody feels afraid. But the difference between a successful person and a mediocre person is that the first one goes right on trying after a failure. The other sits back and waits until he's no longer afraid."

The basis of the TV show, she says, is to let people in their homes see other people talking about the same problems everyone faces so eventually they see that they're no different from the next guy.

"The Dr. Irene Kassorla Show" started out on a 13-week trial basis and has managed to continue for three years. Dr. Kassorla says talks are now underway for showings in various parts of the United States.

The mother of two daughters, 20 and 26, Dr. Kassorla says she's also interested in working with the so-called "normal" parent —in showing him or her how to stop reinforcing psychotic behavior in their children.

CURRENTLY SHE'S completed a book entitled "Putting It All Together," which she says was written for the purpose of showing people how negative responses are acted out and cause unhealthy and unhappy lives.

"My main objective," she says, "is that, although in a couple of sessions I can't cure a person, I can give him hope and make him realize that he's just like everyone else."

Marine Corps Revises Its Outlook On Women

SAN DIEGO (AP) — Two Women Marines took their places recently in a previously all-male bastion, the West Coast Recruit Depot's NCO School.

As a consequence, the Marine Corps may have to change the recruiting slogan it has used for years: "The Marine Corps Builds Men." The Corps has turned its attention to developing leadership skills in Women Marine noncommissioned officers (NCOs).

Training women is not new to the Marines but like other military services over the years a "separate but equal" attitude has developed about women's training.

The Corps is revising its attitude about women's training. The NCO school, proving ground for noncommissioned officers, stresses training in such varied military subjects as leadership, techniques of military instruction, tactics, mapping, first aid and physical training.

The first two women NCOs to go through the school, Sgt. Barbara Metoyer and Cpl. Karla Reese, found that pioneering in the 20th Century is as challenging as it ever was. Undaunted by minor adversities, they marched through the course, much to the surprise of some of their classmates.

"TACTICS WAS murder," says Sergeant Metoyer, echoed by Corporal Reese. "I couldn't even read a street map."

She is proud of being able to take a field radio apart, put it back together and use it.

Sergeant Metoyer, 29, got her first glimpse of Marine life at Quantico, Va., where she was born into a military family. Corporal Reese, 19, is from San Diego, the daughter of a Marine and a former Woman Marine.

Art, Garden Center Sets Market Day

Market Day, May 8, at the Marin Art and Garden Center in Ross will have an Italian theme. Hours are 10 a.m. to 2:30 p.m.

Chairman of the annual event, sponsored by the Northgate group, is Mrs. Frank Barley of San Rafael.

A wine-tasting booth has been added this year, and other booths will sell bonsai and garden plants, baked goods, stitchery, books, jewelry, white elephant items and lunch. A silent auction will also be held.

Proceeds will benefit the Marin Art and Garden Center.

Mrs. Peter Curtis of Belvedere is cochairman, and concession chairmen are Mmes. Fred Sloat of San Anselmo, plants; Calvin Rossi of San Rafael, bonsai; Esther McDonald of Fairfax, decor; George McKenna of Kentfield, wine tasting; Henry Eddy of Ross, silent auction; Don Deane of Greenbrae, white elephant; Calvin Ewing of San Rafael, jewelry; John Scott of Ross, books; Maurice Salomon of Sausalito, stitchery; Mervyn Burke of Kentfield, bakery; William Cole of Ross, take-a-taste; Dan Dougherty of Kentfield, pantry; Henry Skinner of Ross, hot food; and James Egger of Greenbrae, luncheon.

Betsy Block To Marry Denver Man

Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Block of Kentfield have announced the engagement of their daughter Betsy Block to Joseph Goldhammer of Denver, Colo.

The couple plan to be married on June 2.

Betsy is the sister of Mrs. Curtis Rodrigs of San Jose and Bradford Block of Chicago, Ill. Her grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Eugene B. Block of San Francisco and Mrs. Samuel Phillips of Burlingame.

The bride-elect is a graduate of Redwood High School and the University of California at Berkeley.

Joseph is the son of Aaron Goldhammer of Denver and the late Mrs. Goldhammer. Mrs. William Kates of Boston, Mass., and Earl Goldhammer of Los Angeles are his sister and brother.

He is a graduate of the University of Colorado and Boalt Hall School of Law at the University of California, and is a law clerk with a Federal District Court judge in Denver.

Indonesian Event

The Indonesian Rice Table event of the Marin Auxiliary to Florence Crittenton Services will be held May 4, not tomorrow, as stated in the I-J Food Section Wednesday. The party will be held at Shelter Ridge Clubhouse in Mill Valley.

Oleander Unit Elects Mrs. Goette As Head

Mrs. F. J. Goette has been elected president of the Oleander Unit, Marin Foundation, Friends of Arequipa. She has also served as vice chairman and volunteer chairman.

Lillian Goette, a widow, was graduated from the former Lux School for Girls and Polytechnic High School in San Francisco. A native San Franciscan, she is the mother of Patricia Goette, a teacher at Terra Linda High School and Mrs. Kathleen Laugenour of Sacramento. Her interests include her home, four grandchildren, friends and organizations, she said.

Her other club affiliations include Cabrillo Civic Club, Good Shepherd Guild; Guide Dogs for the Blind, Lighthouse Auxiliary; and Marin Country Club Garden Club.

Mrs. Goette said the ultimate purpose of the organization is to help troubled teen-agers in its group homes become productive community members.

Other officers elected to serve with Mrs. Goette are Mmes. Robert W. Dinsmore, vice chairman; Robert M. Dougherty, secretary; Harold W. Collin, treasurer; Roy I. Ricksham, corresponding secretary; Ben Levinger, ways and means; Gordon Walker and S. Ross Cox, bridge; William L. Myler, historian; and Nathan Janney, parliamentarian.

Chairmen are Mmes. Arthur G. Lindauer, publicity; Thomas H. Ruane, volunteers; James A. Sullivan, sunshine; and Charles B. Galt, Christmas cards.

Heads Oleander Unit

Debbie Thomas Will Wed Fred Vincenti Jr.

Mr. and Mrs. George Thomas of San Rafael announce the engagement of their daughter, Debbie, to Fred Vincenti Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Vincenti, also of San Rafael.

Debbie is the sister of Mark and Andrew Thomas of San Rafael and the granddaughter of Mrs. Katherine Thomas of Pacifica. She was graduated from Terra Nova High School in Pacifica and is employed by Pacific Telephone Co. in San Rafael.

Fred is the brother of Mary Vincenti of San Rafael and the grandson of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Patten, also of San Rafael. He was graduated from Terra Linda High School and California State University, Sacramento. The future bridegroom is employed by the City of San Rafael.

Sept. 7 has been chosen as a wedding date.

Scottish Dance Event Scheduled

Mill Valley Scottish Country Dancers will have a weekend of Scottish Country Dancing tomorrow and Sunday at the Ralston L. White Retreat in Mill Valley.

Hilda M. Gotcher of Mill Valley is coordinator of the weekend, which will include classes taught by Elsie M. Robertson, Patrick Jordan and Warren Lee. All have certificates from the Royal Scottish Country Dance Society in Edinburgh.

A formal dinner dance will be held on Saturday evening.

Feelings Emphasis For Class On Art

A class, "Seeing Yourself Through Art," will be taught on Fridays at 1 p.m., beginning May 3, by Charlene Kelzer of San Rafael at the Young Women's Christian Association, 1618 Mission Avenue in San Rafael.

Emphasis will be on getting in touch with feelings, rather than art techniques or the end product, according to Mrs. Kelzer.

WILLIAM TURNER
A Marinite's views

Control Of Wiretapping Is Doubted

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A former FBI agent told a House judiciary subcommittee hearing Wednesday that government wiretapping is impossible to control and ought to be outlawed.

"My experience is that if it was abolished totally, I doubt if it would make a drop in the bucket impact on law enforcement," said William Turner, of San Rafael, who spent 10 years with the bureau before leaving to write books about electronic snooping.

A three-judge federal appeals court ruled Wednesday that the FBI cannot keep fingerprint records of persons who were questioned but not arrested by police.

The court ordered the bureau to destroy the fingerprint records of Dale B. Menard, who was questioned for two days in 1965 by Los Angeles police about a burglary he was never charged with.

"It would be monstrous to suppose that all persons questioned by the police, many of them law-abiding citizens, could properly be enshrined, for reasons of bureaucratic practice, in the FBI's criminal records," the court said.

At the subcommittee hearing, Sen. Gaylord Nelson, D-Wis., urged adoption of legislation setting up a yearly bipartisan congressional review of all government-ordered wiretaps. The legislation would also require that every citizen whose phone was tapped be notified within 30 days of the last authorized interception.

"People in our country should not be afraid to speak to one and another on the telephone, never knowing whether the government is listening or how the government might use any information obtained," he said.

Today is Friday, April 26, the 116th day of 1974 with 249 to follow.

The moon is approaching its first quarter. The morning stars are Mercury, Venus and Jupiter. The evening stars are Mars and Saturn.

American naturalist John James Audubon was born April 26, 1785.

Also on this day in history:

In 1607, the first British colonists to establish a permanent settlement in America landed at Cape Henry, Va.

In 1865, federal troops shot and killed John Wilkes Booth, the assassin of President Abraham Lincoln, near Port Royal, Va., despite orders to capture him alive.

In 1944, the federal government took over the Chicago headquarters of Montgomery Ward after the mail order company's management defied a ruling of the National Labor Relations Board.

In 1954, a nationwide test of the Salk anti-polio vaccine began in parts of 45 states.

A thought for the day: American philosopher Irwin Edman said, "The gift of gaiety may itself be the greatest good fortune, and the most serious step toward maturity."

Defenders Must Always Be Alert To Capturing The Valuable Tricks

When you're defending, it's natural to win a trick as cheaply as you can. Defenders must usually make the most of limited resources. Keep one eye open, however, for the hands in which you must splurge.

CHEAP TRICK

West opened the five of hearts, and East won with the king. East returned the four of hearts, South played the seven, and West won as cheaply as possible — with the eight.

This was a fatal error. West could take the ace of hearts and then the ten, for a total of four defensive tricks, but that was the end. South gratefully took the rest of the tricks, making game and rubber.

West felt aggrieved when his partner looked reproachful. "How could I tell?" West demanded.

ONLY CHANCE

West should have known that his only chance to defeat the contract was to take five heart tricks without a moment's delay.

West could see six diamonds and two spade tricks in the dummy. Since South had responded to the opening bid, he surely had the ace of clubs and the queen of spades — the only missing high cards.

If West must hope for five heart tricks, he must assume that East started with five hearts, headed by king-jack or by king-nine. Any play will work if East has the jack of hearts, but West must be careful if South has the jack.

SECOND TRICK

At the second trick West should win with the ten of hearts. He next leads out the ace of hearts, dropping declarer's jack. Finally West leads the eight of hearts. East overtakes with the nine of hearts and leads the last heart to defeat the contract.

DAILY QUESTION

Partner opens with one heart, and the next player passes.

You hold:
♠ - 10 7 3 2
♥ - K 9 6 4 3
♦ - 6
♣ - 8 7 5.

What do you say?

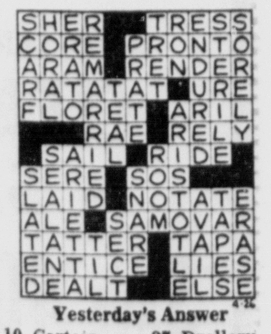

ANSWER: Bid two hearts.

Bold players may be tempted to bid four hearts because of the fine trump support and singleton, but the jump should be based on some sort of trick-taking power besides good distribution.

MUSIC REVIEW

A Dominican Opera Adventure

By EMILY J. ROSS

The singers, poised and fervid, were the thing at Dominican College last night in the opera workshop productions of two cameo operas, Aaron Copland's "The Tender Land" and Jules Langert's "Sea Change."

Those who find opera long and tedious will rejoice at the brisk, not to say abrupt, manner in which plots develop in these utterly different studies in farewell.

The Copland, in a much-cut version, rang the familiar changes on the rural-America theme: transient worker meets farmer's daughter, local festivities and square dance, young girl comes of age, plus a bit-part for kid sister (well done by Jennifer Prugh).

Rebecca Jones as the elder daughter was a pleasure to hear from her very first moment, lyric, sincere, and only sort of naive, considering the speed with which the plot forces her into the arms of Michael Petersen, the itinerant farmhand.

Petersen made some less than lovely sounds among many that were splendid, marring some ensembles. Out of no where, thanks to the abbreviated plot, William Smith (as the true friend and buddy) ushered the hero authoritatively out of his half-formed intention to elope with the farmer's daughter, in a fine sequence requiring Smith to move off stage to a secondary platform and back, singing the while and making a convincing departure for the restless pair.

Jan Vaccaro, a mite suburban in appearance, sang a touching hymn of resignation following her daughter's unexpected and — by all the laws of family life — ill-considered decision to go away on her own after her lover's defection.

Mostly the diction was excellent; the dancing of the little girls earnest, details fine.

The set, by Mark Jordan, was simple and to the purpose. The string of lights for the party lit up in a most satisfactory way; likewise, the dawn came up. One missed the delineation of a horizon, somehow a must since Thomas Benton, since Georgia O'Keefe, since "Oklahoma."

Jules Langert, professor of composition and theory at Dominican, set himself a task in theory. That is to say, he bases his short opera on a notion rather than a reality.

The struggle in opera down the ages has been to make it seem passably "real" though the odds have been against reality.

Langert, (inspired by a story by Hawthorne called "Wakefield," about a man who impulsively and irrationally deserts his home and kindred,) set himself the task, this past year, of creating an opera on the theme of a sudden, unprompted decision to disappear from one's daily life. One supposes that in Hawthorne the meat of the matter was the consequence of the rash decision. In Langert's story the departure is the end of it. And it seems to be completely unjustified. As a matter of fact, the only significant human transaction in the work (opera is about human transaction) is a perfectly warm and ardent kiss between wife and husband when he returns from a short trip to the mainland. Whence the dissatisfaction?

We are not to know; it is a theory. And the sew was imaginative, although we missed a glimpse of the sea itself.

Langert conducted an 11-piece chamber orchestra of soloists who were definitely an equal if not superior factor to the four characters onstage.

In spirit if not in music this opera is perhaps more like "Lohengrin," if one searches for story where departure is the dramatic essence. It still leaves one dissatisfied.

The program will be repeated tomorrow night.

This production is an original choreographed collage of drama and dance that makes a biting series of comments on our contemporary life drawing from the personal experiences of the company members. Unlike a simple vaudeville format, the pieces fit together to form an over-all picture of our life and times, 1974.

Overriding Issue In Water District

In the Marin Municipal Water District election on June 4, there is a single issue which eclipses all others in importance.

That issue is: What is the fuction of the water district?

Some candidates believe its function is to provide water for the residents — as dependable a supply as possible, of as good quality as possible, and at as low cost as possible.

Some believe its function is to assist in giving Marin a "planned society," and that its control of water supply should be used to that end, controlling population through granting or withholding water.

THE STATE LAW under which municipal water districts are set up makes it quite plain that the first function is their correct one. But the "growth control" candidates — like the majority on the existing board — are willing to fight in court to contest that.

At least two new members of the MMWD board will be elected June 4. Four positions on the five-member board are up for election, with John M. MacPhail Jr. of Division 2 the only holdover. But two of these may not be decided until a November runoff.

There will be no runoff in Division 5 (Sausalito, Marin City, Belvedere, Tiburon and Tamalpais Valley) because of the June 4 election there will be a special one for the remainder of the term of Dr. Ronald T. Stafford, who resigned. There will be none in Division 4 (Mill Valley, part of Kentfield, and Corte Madera west of Highway 101) because there are only two candidates.

HERE IS HOW the candidates line up:

Division 1 (Marinwood, Terra Linda, Santa Venetia, Sleepy Hollow and San Geronimo Valley) — For "planned society" population control through withholding water: Richard J. Boylan; against such use of the water district's powers: Betty M. Forry, Winifred S. Frederick, Graham McPhail Jr. Uncommitted: Rufus Blanchard Alwin.

Division 3 (San Anselmo, Ross, Larkspur, Greenbrae, and parts of Fairfax, Kentfield and Corte Madera) — For population control by withholding water: Joan Seminario; against: Dr. William J. Filante, Margaret Neese.

Division 4 — For population control by withholding water (to some degree): Pamela W. Lloyd. Against: Robert C. Walker.

Division 5 — For population control by withholding water: Dorothy E. Gibson, Robert Lee Grant (with some qualifications), Polly Smith. Against: Bernardino (Ben) A. Farlatti.

WE BELIEVE that water district should stick to the job for which they were created: supplying water. Attempts to divert them to other purposes are subversions of the intent of the law creating such districts.

We therefore find no difficulty in endorsing Ben Farlatti in Division 5 and Robert C. Walker in Division 4.

In Division 3, we favor Dr. Filante. He is for many of the things the population control candidates say they favor: conservation of water, study of recycling, developing Marin's own water sources. But he does not believe in subverting the water district's purpose.

In Division 1, we find the choice hard to make, but favor Betty M. Forry in spite of the long outstanding record in civic affairs of Winifred Frederick. Mrs. Forry has sound conservationist credentials. She is no promoter of unlimited growth. But she believes strongly that the water district should stick to its proper function.

We therefore recommend that MMWD voters cast their ballots for: Betty M. Forry in Division, 1, Dr. William J. Filante in Division 3, Robert C. Walker in Division 4, and Bernardino A. (Ben) Farlatti in Division 5.

Odd Objections Raised To State College Audit

By EARL G. WATERS

It may be hard to believe, in a state with an $8 billion budget, that legislators would fiddle away their time hassling over a mere $70,000. It will be even harder to believe since the money was sought to audit the spending of state educational money.

Yet, the request of the trustees of the State Universities and Colleges for some additional auditors to check operations at the 19 campuses hit a snag in an Assembly budget committee the other day.

Certainly the public expects there will be adequate auditing of an operation with a budget exceeding $450 million.

And that was obviously the position of the trustees, who have the responsibility for the administration of the colleges. While they are probably the only people connected with the colleges who receive no salaries for their services, the board is composed of 16 members appointed by the governor, each of whom is outstandingly successful in his own field.

FOR THAT PURPOSE they established a staff of internal auditors. This was done, not just with the authority implied in the law which established the trustees, but with the express direction of the legislature.

It was done because, other than the internal auditing done under the direction of the chancellor, no state agency is regularly auditing the colleges.

One cannot blame responsible businessmen, sitting as trustees of a multi-million dollar fund, for wanting their own trusted auditors.

The trustees had approached the function cautiously. They employed a small staff to see if it would be a productive program. Now, with several years' experience, they are seeking to increase the staff. Auditors work in pairs. A request for one team to each two colleges would not have been unreasonable. Now working with one team to 10 colleges, they wanted to double their force. This meant four more auditors.

LEGISLATIVE ANALYST Alan Post objected and suggested only two more be granted. Yet, Post says he fully supports an internal auditing staff outside of line-management and approves the trustee audit program.

The trustee audit committee chairman, Daniel H. Ridder, thought this was strange support indeed. He told the committee they should either double the staff or abolish it. It is quite evident Ridder feels that if the trustees aren't to be given the money to do the job, they don't want to take the blame for doing it halfway.

Strangest of all opposition was that presented by the United Professors of California spokesman. He told the committee he saw no need for internal auditors and contended the trustee audit staff was creating paranoia among college administrators and professors.

Assemblyman Mike Cullen, D-Long Beach, observed that anyone who becomes paranoic over being audited really needs to be audited.

"Come to think of it, Franklin, nothing turned you on either."

WORTH SAYING AGAIN

It is necessary to hope, though hope should be always deluded; for hope itself is happiness, and its frustrations, however frequent, are yet less dreadful than its extinction. — Samuel Johnson.

New ideas can be good or bad, just the same as old ones. — Franklin D. Roosevelt.

ROSCOE DRUMMOND:

People Demanding Integrity In Office

WASHINGTON — Wouldn't it be something if the voters took one or both 1976 presidential nominations out of the hands of the politicians — and gave the nation new, fresh leadership?

It is possible. It might even be probable. One thing I can report with assurance: the mood of the country indicates voters are getting ready to do it.

This isn't just theory. There is solid evidence to support it.

A FEW WEEKS AGO I invited readers of every newspaper which uses this column to propose presidential candidates whom they would like to see enter the race.

For a poll which required people to write out names, stamp and mail envelopes, the response was substantial — 1,019 replies to date from every part of the country. None of the familiar candidates who lead the professional polls came out ahead. The top three were Sen. Charles Percy of Illinois, John Gardner of Common Cause, and Elliot Richardson, former attorney general.

But the really explosive political fact which burst through this survey, as I examined it closely, is that more than half of those who replied nominated two or more candidates of markedly diverse ideology.

THIS CAN ONLY MEAN one thing — a most exciting and significant development — and that is many citizens are prepared to put personal rectitude above every other factor in deciding how they will vote next time.

This can mean that the Democrats could nominate a conservative and the Republicans could nominate a liberal and satisfy the electorate if their candidates were men or women of transcendent integrity.

The diverse range of candidate teams offered in the poll was marked — Nelson Rockefeller and John Connally; Elliot Richardson and George Wallace; John Gardner and Sen. Henry Jackson; Ralph Nader and Henry Ford II, and other unlikely pairings.

It is evident that the liberal-conservative dividing line is not the way many voters — perhaps a majority — are thinking today when they come to deciding the kind of man they want for president in 1976.

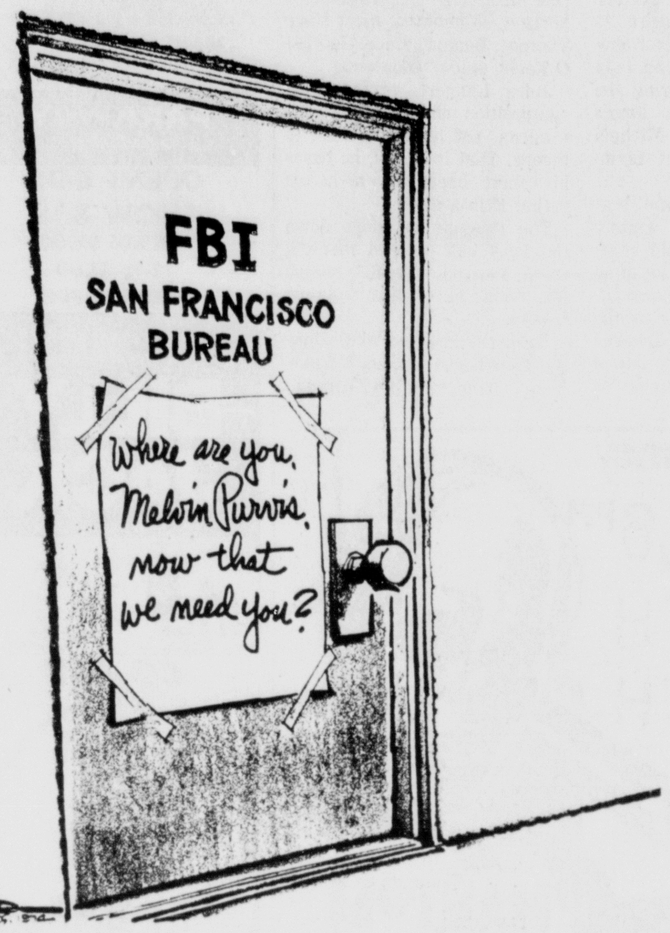

WHEN I TOLD a newspaper colleague, a political writer of national repute, what I was so unexpectedly discovering, his response was revealing in that it showed he had independently reached a similar conclusion without any basis for it except his intuition.

"I'm fascinated," he said, "by the findings of your poll because of a theory I have that heretofore has been supported by NO evidence — that is, that the result of Watergate on the electorate may be a chemical change that will demand a turning away from the generation of politicians who have dominated the scene for a decade or so toward a new generation with some quality beyond party identification."

This is clearly the message which this poll is sending to the Republican and Democratic parties. This conclusion by an experienced political analyst was echoed in hundreds of thoughtful, earnest letters which I received along with the candidate suggestions. These two sentences are typical:

"The American people are sick to death of tired old politics... We want integrity, intelligence and vigor — and, hopefully, vision."

WHAT OUR READERS SAY

Freedom Of Speech Brutally Throttled

Your sound, objective coverage of Sean McCarthy's arrest and ejection from the Republican State Central Committee meeting in San Jose is to be commended. It is a sad commentary on democracy, as practiced by the Republicans at San Jose, that this worthy young man received such brutal treatment as shown on the television coverage of this event for merely exercising his freedom of speech.

In the more civilized environment for politics in Great Britain, even the prime minister contends with hecklers and to interrupt a political speech would hardly be grounds for arrest.

I keenly admire the courage it took this young man to stand up before 1,200 partisan Republicans and challenge Vice President Ford who was endeavoring to whitewash President Nixon's involvement in the Watergate episode . . .

Legion Post Takes Note Of Editorial

At the regular meeting of the San Anselmo Post 179, American Legion held on April 22, your editorial of April 16 was read in full to our post by Chaplain Howard Dupree with emphasis on the veterans' loss of use of the Veterans Memorial Building for which the taxpayers for years contributed through an annual levy to provide funds for a memorial building for the use of veteran groups.

Being a group intensely interested in providing the best for veterans, San Anselmo Post 179 passed a motion praising your editorial hereinabove mentioned and for the writer a big bouquet for his keen perception of the veteran groups' use of this building not being available at the present time . . .

Much Misinformation In Farm Worker Report

The article in the April 9 issue by Karen Peterson about the plea made to the YWCA group by a spokeswoman for the United Farmworkers of America, AFL-CIO, merits a reply.

It is fortunate that the reporter was careful to attribute the remarks to the speaker because they are riddled with misinformation, exaggerations, innuendo and outright lies about the conditions of farm workers in California. . .

California farm workers easily can make $12,000 to $15,000 per year (individuals, not families). Less than 12 per cent of California's farm workers are migratory. . .

The allegation that farm workers have a 49-year life expectancy is completely false and without foundation. Farm work is not considered hazardous by the insurance companies, although many of the construction trades are. . .

Another common misstatement made for effect by UFWA sympathy teams concerns pesticide poisonings. The speakers regularly tell unsuspecting audiences that pesticides are responsible for a high rate of mortality among farm workers. Actually, not one farm worker died in California in 1973 as a result of pesticide exposure. . . .

Your readers should understand that workers should have the right to determine for themselves what union organization, if any, represents them. This end simply is defeated by the boycott, which is an instrument of high economic pressure which forces the employer to make the decision for his workers. . .

Farm workers have been irritated, coerced, oppressed and exploited by the UFWA during the three years since contracts were signed with grape growers in 1970. When they expired last year the workers chose the alternative union by the thousands. . .

Lone Voice Now Asks What Last Year Was Familiar Query

MIDDLEBURG, Va. — I found out later that two offspring of the great Nashua were running head-to-head for the Middleburg Hunt Cup. It is not the sort of detail that was apparent to the inexpert eye, said I, being bemused by the way a jockey named Sally Strawbridge wore her blue-and-gold silks as she brought Rendrock home third.

Hundreds of others in the hazy sunshine and fine road dust at the annual timber race failed to notice the mounts at all. They were immersed instead in gourmet tailgate picnics, reunions with middle-age classmates, old boyfriends and young cousins, amiably tippling as they table-hopped from Mercedes to Rolls to modest ranch wagons.

ONE OF THE EXCEPTIONS who seemed to understand the horse part of the afternoon is brought to your attention here for an entirely separate reason.

He is a retired admiral, and he was the first American in the past two months and 10,000-plus miles who has accosted me unsolicited about how long the press is going to continue its offensive against our president. What I said back is unimportant here; what matters is that to bump into that first person I had to complete my trip, unpack, and drive next day out to the Virginia hunt country. That is in total contrast to what I found on a similar extensive swing about the country 11 months ago.

Then, when the televised Watergate hearings were just beginning, skepticism was common. I found it among passengers on the Sunset Ltd. out of El Paso, preachers convening in Portland, hardhats on both coasts and in between. Then, the evidence still had to overcome a deep, stubborn desire by most Americans to believe the president, to believe the vice president in his allegations of a media conspiracy.

IT TOOK A LONG TIME and a lot of evidence, One turning point was the resignation of Spiro Agnew, who had been declaring his innocence up to the very day of his nolo contendere plea. That day I was having lunch with a farm family in southeast Minnesota. They had voted for the Nixon-Agnew ticket. I could feel the disappointment they were reluctant to state.

Since then, the evidence has stacked atop itself. Most of it has not come from newspaper and television stories attributed to unnamed sources, as so much of the early disclosure did. Most of it is instead from the courts, drawn out by Republican-appointed judges and prosecutors; from the bipartisan House Judiciary Committee; much of it confirmed in processes outside Washington, in places like Florida, California and New York.

On this trip just completed, my conversations produced no news, they supported what the polls now say —that the tide of public opinion has turned slowly, firmly against the president. His unquestioning supporters are still out there, and not only at the Middleburg Hunt Cup, but they are now a hard-core minority. That is what Chicanos in Denver, retirees in Los Angeles, space technicians in Satellite Beach make clear.

THAT CHANGE has come not merely because of the weight of the evidence but importantly because the evidence has been amassed in an orderly way by constitutional prescription. Mr. Nixon's reflexive defense, that to bring out all the truth is to tear down the government, is transparently false when the world can see it is that constitutional government — our government, his own — that demands the accounting.

It is not a marching mob; it is the ultimate process that begins with and depends on the voters themselves. If it were spearheaded by a mass of shouting demonstrators, no doubt the voters who have made this historic swing in the past year would react against it, in the president's defense.

That is why I for one am automatically suspicious of another week-end outing forthcoming — a "March to Impeach Nixon" set for Washington this Saturday. The case against the president is moving inexorably and calmly at this point, and it cannot be speeded or aided by a mass demonstration.

The only individual outside the White House whom it will cheer up may be the retired admiral at the Hunt Cup, whose darkest suspicions it should confirm. Were it scheduled about two years ago, in light of what I have learned since, I might suspect Donald Segretti as its organizer. In April, 1974, I have to guess its sponsors are merely hyperactively ignorant.

BILL FUSSELMAN

Supervisors And Water Board Contend For Extremist Honors

There is quite a contest on as to who can be more extremist — the Marin County Board of Supervisors or the Marin Municipal Water District. They are running neck and neck, each trying to exhibit "the mostest" churlishness — and each condemning the other for similar brazen rudeness.

The latest is the water districts' edict denying parking on Rock Creek Meadow to those who have been attending the Mountain Play with their families and guests for lo these 40 or more years. So now it's the sup's turn to bawl out the water board.

JACK CRAEMER'S Editor's Notebook on Saturday finishes up with the question as to whether the environmental extremists would win their ultimate victory of making it impossible for ANYBODY to live here? This could be asked of the water district as well: Will they make it impossible for those who just couldn't climb the mountain to ever see one of the finest offerings performed in such a grand "open space"?

Barrows assured the board that the Mountain Play Association is working on an alternative plan to use shuttle buses. That's just fine. Create some environmental problem in the Mill Valley area, by adding the cars of the shuttle bus riders to the normal parking there.

You will recall that the environmental extremists immediately on gaining control of the water district board fired the water district's attorney and appointed the present one because "his philosophy was the same" as theirs — not his ability to give them sound legal advice. His latest is that less than a majority of the board can pass binding ordinances. So he is reported to be ruling that with only three men present, two constitute a majority. I can tell you there have been many court rulings that it is not necessarily so.

THE CONSULTANTS who just submitted their study of the fiscal impact on present homeowners of the general plan pointed out that those who are forced to sell because of the increase in taxes will show a profit. Let's think that one over.

The extremists and those they paint into a corner along with themselves will be forced to pay as much or more than they sold for if they move to a community with the same amenities they were enjoying here, or else settle some place with the natural growth syndrome they battled against in Marin. Several years ago I wrote that they would get it in the neck.

Hilarita Project Seems Finally On Verge Of Realization

Proponents of the Hilarita housing project in Tiburon seem to be holding their breath these days about whether opponents will go to court again in a last-minute attempt to stop the complex.

With all its plans approved by the city and a federal loan guaranteed, the project seems close to materializing. But in Hilarita's ill-starred history, there have been so many other roadblocks that no one will really believe the project has happened until the first tenant pulls up to the place in a moving van.

For about four years now I have been living and breathing information about the project.

While working on a master's degree at the University of California, Berkeley, I wrote a magazine article on Hilarita which served as the equivalent of a thesis. Subsequently I did three more articles based on the first one, which I sold to some national and local magazines.

I feel like something of a Hilarita expert, but I'm also a little tired of hearing about it.

I would think that both the proponents and opponents would feel that way too and would like the thing to conclude for once and all. They've been at it much longer than I have.

A LOT OF PEOPLE have asked me whether Jenny Fulle of Tamalpais Valley really wants to play baseball with the all-boy Little League or whether some over-eager, socially conscious adults were pushing her into it.

(A few weeks ago, a Marin court ruled that the Mill Valley Little League must allow her to play on the otherwise all-boy teams this summer.)

As far as I can tell, she does genuinely want to play. I think she's also a little tired of reporters enveloping her every time she appears at a Mill Valley City Council meeting or some other public spot.

Her debut with the Little League was Saturday, and her minor league team, the Bears, beat the Sports 10-3. Jenny played first base and made no error. She struck out once with the bases loaded and walked twice.

THE MIND I LIVE IN

Police Work Not Much Like Television Version

By ROB TREICHLER

The Glamorous Gangster and Other Fairy Tales: Police in Watsonville, were really concerned. "After all, it was the first bank robbery in the history of the city," according to Police Chief Jim Cunningham. Fellow there strolled in and out of a local bank and netted $658.

A bank employee followed the thief out the door and thought he saw him disappearing in the Greyhound depot down the street. A subsequent check by police didn't reveal any bank robbers waiting for the next outbound bus, and a quick check of a nearby bar revealed a very happy suspect buying drinks for the house with the bank's money.

MOVIE AND VIDEO COPS and robbers games are always played with at least one high-speed chase scene, and in the chase, a minimum of six or seven innocent cars and bystanders get creamed. What the screen version never shows is the departmental hearing on why the officer hit the parked car, why he didn't request and wait for additional help, and the reams of paperwork he and his immediate supervisors would be required to process in conjunction with this errant bit of public contact work.

In running gun battles on foot, another cops and robbers staple, the bad guy invariably flees upward, either in a rickety warehouse, fire escape or other tall place. Real criminals are just as frequently captured cowering behind garbage cans and parked cars in back alleys or hiding in the darkened rest room of a locked building. It's not very dramatic capturing someone from behind a garbage can, and stuntmen can't fall spectacularly from a ground floor window, so the truth must oft be bent for ratings or to sell more tickets.

Many of the captures in real police work involve no bloodshed or shot suspects, or, for that matter, even an unholstered weapon. But somehow it's more exciting having a hardened desperate criminal swearing at the world, defying and berating the "pigs" from a rooftop, before being shredded by a shotgun blast and spinning to his off-camera death four floors below. Death for the bad guys is also morally satisfying and assures us good viewers that justice always triumphs. On the screen, anyway.

While some of the cop and robber flicks are getting more lifelike, the average TV patrolman gets more action in half an hour than the real life policeman gets in half a year. But that's understandable.

IF A TV OR MOVIE producer were to pull out all the dramatic license, and all the stuff that's done for "impact," cops and robbers would be about as dull as garbage collecting.

Which in a way it is. Police work with all the refuse and all the garbage that no one else likes to think about. Except that on occasion, the garbage runs to a rooftop, screams obscenities, and fights to the death. And that's when the cop sweats like hell for the dollars he takes home, and no wide screen could really show the job as it really exists.

Brazil Is Pushing For Peking Tie

BRASILIA, Brazil (AP) — The rigidly anti-Communist military regime of Brazil, the largest nation in Latin America, has taken the first step toward establishing relations with Peking.

The action represents a choice of business over politics.

Foreign Minister Antonio Azeredo da Silveira announced yesterday that Brazil has invited a commercial mission from Peking to come here in August and that the question of relations "is something to be considered for the future."

The invitation follows the return of a Brazilian mission to mainland China.

Silveira made the announcement after meeting with President Ernesto Geisel and receiving a report on the China trip from one of his diplomats.

One foreign diplomat observed that Brazil's only problem in establishing relations with mainland China will be deciding what to do about its ties to Nationalist China.

At the moment Brazil is one of the 15 Latin-American nations with diplomatic ties to the Chiang Kai-shek regime on Taiwan.

If the Brazilians establish relations with Peking, they will join six other Latin-American nations with mainland China ties. The others are Argentina, Chile, Peru, Mexico, Guyana and Cuba. Ecuador has no relations with either Chinese regime.

Brazil's relations with the Soviet Union, which Peking describes as its leading enemy, have been normal lately and even warm at times. Brazil has replaced Cuba as the Russians' leading sugar supplier, and Moscow recently disclosed a trade plan envisioning increased all-around ties with Brazil.

Flournoy Would Ease Geothermal Steam Efforts

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — State Controller Houston I. Flournoy has asked the legislature for modifications of current law to increase and improve geothermal steam development in California.

Flournoy, a Republican candidate for governor, yesterday suggested the unnecessary geothermal prospecting permits now required be eliminated in favor of allowing data collection on state lands prior to competitive leasing on potential productive sites.

His proposal also calls for expanding the present Geothermal Resources Board to include two representatives of local government.

California Desert Protection Is Assured

WASHINGTON (UPI) — California members of Congress received assurances yesterday of speedy action on legislation to protect the once lonely California desert from destruction by man.

Chairman John Melcher, D-Mont., of the House public lands subcommittee told the Californians that the committee would begin final drafting of the legislation on Thursday.

Melcher said various bills for preservation of the huge desert area would be taken up and considered as a part of a major bill to rewrite public land laws and to grant new authority to the U.S. Bureau of Land management.

The Montana Democrat's promise of action on the measure came after testimony by six Californians — Democratic Rep. Yvonne Brathwaite Burke and Republicans Don H. Clause, William Ketchum, Robert Mathias, Jerry Pettis and Clair Burgener — in support of bills to protect the desert.

Pettis said bills introduced by him and Mathias and cosponsored by other members differed in language but had the same goal — the protection and preservation of the desert.

"There is a critical need for prompt action to preserve the unqiue and fragile resources of the California desert," Pettis said.

Pettis called special attention to prehistoric Indian art found in the desert but which he said were among "archeological treasures" that are being "destroyed at an alarming rate."

One of the key problems, Pettis said, was that only seven BLM rangers currently patrol some 20,000 square miles of desert. He said the BLM needs more manpower and greater authority to enforce the laws.

Ketchum supported legislation to put 12 million acres of the desert under the protection of the BLM but also urged that 2.1 million acres of desert land be turned over to California as a state park.

Ketchum said the State Department of Parks and Recreation wants to create a new park in the Eastern Mojave Desert and already had made a commitment to begin buying 436,305 acres of privately owned land within the park area if the transfer is made.

Nice Guys Don't Die As Often In Auto Wrecks

CHICAGO (UPI) — The socially obnoxious driver is more likely to die in a traffic accident than is a socially-well adjusted driver, according to a report in the Archives of General Psychiatry, a publication of the American Medical Association.

A research team studied the records of 50 men who died in traffic accidents in the Baltimore, Md., area over a four-year period and found that the "socially obstreperous" driver is more likely to become a traffic fatality than is a more balanced individual.

The researchers reported that drivers who, in social circles, were belligerent, negative, inclined to talk to excess, hyperactive and beset with emotional problems had a greater likelihood of dying on the roadways.

GAZER'S GUIDE

Meteor Shower To Reach Its Maximum On May 5

By Dr. Thomas D. Nicholson
Director, the American Museum of Natural History, New York

The Christian Science Monitor News Service

May 4: — Mercury is in line with earth and sun, with the sun in the middle, between the two planets. In this position as viewed from earth, the planet is said to be in superior conjunction with the sun. And, since it is moving from right to left past the sun, it leaves the morning sky (where it is to the right, or west of the sun) and enters the evening sky (where it is to the sun's left, or east).

May 5 — The Eta Aquarid meteor shower reaches maximum today. These meteors are swift and bright though not too numerous (expect 20 per hour). Though the radiant is well up in the east by 3 a.m., Eastern Daylight Time, the sky will be brightened by the full moon, making observation of meteors difficult.

May 12 — The moon is at apogee, where it is farthest from earth.

May 16 — The crescent moon is near Jupiter in the morning sky, visible from about two hours before sunrise until daylight hides the planet. Venus may be seen rising to the left and below Jupiter about an hour before sunrise.

May 18 — It is Venus' turn to be near the moon this morning, but both are lower and rise later than Jupiter.

May 23 — The planet nearest the crescent moon this evening is Saturn. The moon occults (covers) Saturn in the sky over the South Pacific. When you find Saturn, look for Mars above it and to its left. Then look down past Saturn to its right for Mercury, in a line with Mars and Saturn.

May 24 — The moon is at perigee, nearest to earth.

May 24-25 — The moon is below and to the right of Mars on the evening of the 24th, to the left of Mars on the evening of the 25th. Below and to the right of Mars on both evenings you will see first Saturn and then, in early twilight, Mercury.

May 29 — Mars has been moving to the east (left) closer to the twin stars Pollux and Castor, in Gemini. Tonight it is nearest to Pollux, passes it, and separates from the twins to the left thereafter.

All month — In the morning sky, Jupiter gets more prominent, rising earlier, appearing higher, and brightening in May. Venus, on the other hand, continues to separate to the left from Jupiter, and it rises later, appears lower and dims in brightness during the month. The late crescent moon will be near them in the morning sky from the 16th to the 18th.

Mars and Saturn remain near each other in the evening sky, though Mars continues to move to the left (east) away from Saturn and toward Pollux, in Gemini. Saturn is still one of the brightest objects in the evening, but Mars has dimmed now to about the brightness of the North Star. Both are low in the west at sundown and set three horus later. Toward the end of the month, you may be able to see Mercury as an evening star about an hour after sunset. It is brighter than Saturn, but lower and to the right.

Energy Number All On Horses

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — The Department of Water and Power recently included, with electric bills, a pamphlet on changes in the city's energy saving law. It gave a telephone number to call for further information.

Because of a missprint, the number given connects callers with a recording giving horse race results.

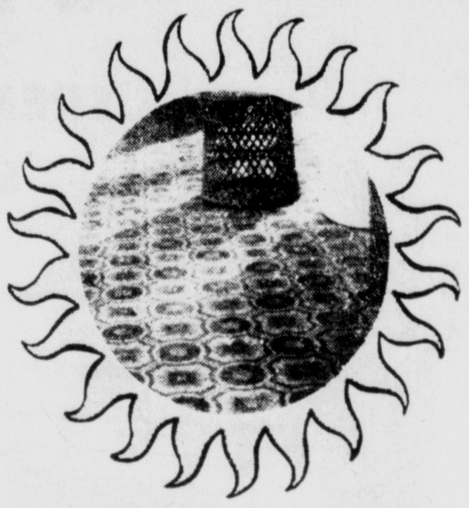

In revealing the mistake yesterday, the department noted it "is not missing any bets getting its message across to the public —you can't lose if you back conservation of energy."

ANSWER:
Dear Mrs. Cameron
We find many families faced with this situation. Several factors should be considered. The location of your home, the cost of improvements and the equity you now have in your present home. Look at your neighborhood. Are the properties well maintained; are they higher priced than your own? If not, you may be overbuilding for the area. The cost of remodeling may not be economically feasible. The equity you have in your present home could possibly be invested in a new, more spacious home that would bring years of enjoyment to the entire family as well as financial security. Each situation is different. Your nearest Red Carpet office would be pleased to advise you . . . without obligation.

SERVING ALL OF MARIN COUNTY

THIRD SECTION SAN RAFAEL, CALIFORNIA, FRIDAY, APRIL 26, 1974 25

ON THE HUSTINGS — There are plenty of seats available as a candidate for office unimpeded by a bandaged hand addresses students at College of Marin's Kentfield campus. Forty-one candidates for various offices and spokesmen for 16 others may not have filled seats but had no trouble filling the few minutes each was allotted during yesterday's candidates forum. If issues and stands got little clarification, at least one major objective of the contenders may have been attained, personal contact with some voters.

Political Sparks Few At Forum

By BILL ROBERTS

Hearing speeches by candidates seeking nearly every office from governor to local school trustee, College of Marin students yesterday held a "Political Information Day" that was filled with politics, but contained little information on election issues.

The five-hour event, sponsored by the college's associated students, drew 41 office seekers in the June 4 primary, limited to three or six minute speeches, depending on whether seeking statewide or lacal office. Another 16 candidates sent representatives who spoke.

But the lengthy line of hopefuls generated little interest among the college community as even during the students' lunch hour the audience numbered only about 100 persons. Through the majority of speeches only about three dozen students were in the college center's lounge listening to speakers.

Similar to the way the bulletin announcing the candidates day was buried amidst other flyers on billboards throughout the campus, the event itself was sometimes buried by nearby events.

Soft-spoken candidates found that even with the help of a public address system their words were often inaudible because of noise coming from the nearby student cafeteria.

During one speech students sat down at a piano located near the podium and began pounding out a jazz tune. The musician continued for several minutes and drew a crowd of his own before being forced to quit.

Politics was in evidence as handouts, bumper stickers and other campaign materials were given away in bunches by candidates and campaign workers who looked for every opportunity to shake a hand and solicit support. The audience was often outnumbered as candidates and supporters overwhelmed students with campaign literature.

But because of the time limit on speeches, few candidates did more than offer biographical information about themselves or make statements of general personal support for such things as conservation and tax cuts wherever possible. Specific proposals for attaining objectives were seldom offered.

The program ran on schedule through its early stages as local candidates stayed within time limits, leaving some extra time which was scheduled for question and answer sessions. But during the first two hours of speeches no students asked questions and two 15-minute recesses were declared by the moderator when candidates scheduled for later in the program had not arrived.

During the final hours of the event, however, more candidates appeared than had been planned and any time that would have been used for questions and answers was taken up by the extra speakers.

Three candidates for statewide office attended.

Herbert Hafif, a Democrat from La Verne seeking the party's nomination for governor, described his "earthy" campaign which includes many appearances before college groups but no "30 second soap suds type" advertising.

"When you run a people's campaign you can't get representatives to come down here," he told about a dozen persons who were all that remained by the time the gubernatorial candidates, last on the agenda, were heard.

Howard Miller, a Los Angeles law professor and Democrat seeking the nomination for lieutenant governor, and Michael B. Montgomery, an attorney from South Pasadena and Republican running for nomination for secretary of state, were the other statewide candidates.

A brief flurry among local candidates brought some life into the audience midway through the event as Jack R. Felson and Michael Wornum, candidates for the democratic assembly nomination in the Ninth district, exchanged verbal punches on local problems.

Felson, president of the Marin Municipal Water District board, said present "growth difficulties" faced by Marin are the fault of Marin supervisors and planners.

As he spoke, supervisors Wornum and Gary T. Giacomini appeared to flush with anger as they stood at the edge of the audience.

When Wornum's turn to speak came, he mentioned Felson's remarks and said he felt he had to offer a rebuttal.

Wornum claimed the county's general plan provides a balance of environmental, economic and social goals which will provide good planning in the future.

"The water district board is elected to provide water," he said, "And not to provide planning."

But the exchange by Felson and Wornum proved an isolated instance as subsequent speakers returned to brief personal descriptions and other general statements but steered around controversial issues.

Fight Shapes Up Over Marin Transit Tax Fund

A committee of Golden Gate Bridge District directors yesterday voted unanimously to fight Marin County Transit District over some $700,000 in gasoline tax revenue.

The money is from the county's allocation this year of the annual revenue earmarked for transit, but the two districts are disputing how to use it. The money has gone in past years to the bridge district to offset its bus transit deficit, but the directors of the county district voted 5-to-1 Tuesday to seek all the money to offset its own cost for local bus transit. (The county contracts with the bridge district to provide local bus service.)

The finance-auditing committee's recommendation will go to the full board today, where ratification was almost certain. The battle over the funds will be fought before the Metropolitan Transportation Commission, which has the power to decide how such money can be spent.

The general manager of the bridge district, Dale W. Luehring, warned that unless the bridge district gets the money "some real serious adjustments would have to be made on our part" in bus services. He did not elaborate.

The vote by the Marin board clearly disgusted several bridge directors, who noted the county board had ignored a compromise offer by the bridge board to accept payment of $85,000 this year from the county's gasoline taxes.

San Francisco Supervisor Robert Gonzales sharply criticized Marin County Supervisor Michael Wornum for agreeing to the compromise before the bridge board, but then voting against it as a transit district director. "He assured us he would do everything in his goddam power to put that package through," a disgusted Gonzales said of Wornum.

Marin County Supervisor Peter R. Arrigoni Jr., the only transit district director to vote against the Tuesday action, said the $85,000 compromise was "very, very reasonable."

The committee met behind closed doors for an hour to instruct its negotiators on salary increases for employees. It also agreed to charter buses to the nonprofit Point Foundation next month at cost for service between San Francisco and the New Games festival at Fort Cronkhite.

11th Known Rabid Animal Is Killed

This year's 11th known rabid animal — a skunk — was killed this week in Hicks Valley after it was observed chasing cows, Marin County health officials reported yesterday.

The skunk was killed Tuesday evening under the home of Edward J. Morris at 7335 Red Hill Road. It had sprayed one of the dogs owned by Morris.

Since the dog was revaccinated last August following a rabies incident, no new vaccination has been recommended, Dr. Carolyn B. Albrecht, public health officer, said.

Besides chasing cows, the skunk was seen near horses, she reported. So far this year, 10 rabid skunks and one rabid cow have been reported in Marin.

Grizzly Bear Areas Closed

HELENA, Mont. (UPI) — The Montana Fish and Game Commission has closed three grizzly bear hunting districts in southern Montana bordering Yellowstone National Park.

The three hunting districts in Montana are areas 313, 316 and 361. They lie within the so-called Yellowstone eco-system for grizzlies.

Wes Woodgerd, fish and game director, said the action resulted as a demonstration of department concern for grizzlies and responsibility in establishing regulations for the protection of the big bears.

Workshop Scheduled On 'Cocktail Culture'

Nineteen discussion sessions on alcohol abuse, treatment and preventive education will be presented as the afternoon portion of "Survival in a Cocktail Culture," a day-long workshop on alcohol abuse May 11 at the College of Marin.

Discussion session will follow morning speeches beginning at 9:30 a.m. in the college fine arts theater by three specialists who have studied alcohol abuse: Dr. Robert G. O'Briant, director of San Francisco's Garden Sullivan alcoholism program; Dr. Charles E. Becker, the San Francisco Hospital detoxification unit, and Dr. Ronald L. Linder, assistant professor of health education at San Francisco State University.

Topics to be covered in the afternoon discussion sessions are alcohol alternatives such as aikido, yoga, transcendental meditation and bio-feedback; treatment by physicians, psychiatrists and acupuncture; and education of parents and youngsters through value clarification and self-esteem enhancement.

Plan By Bagley Would Tighten Tax Loopholes

I-J Special Report

MONTEREY — Legislation to tighten tax loopholes worth millions of dollars a year was proposed today by Assemblyman William T. Bagley, R-San Rafael.

He proposes that every tax break expire periodically, obliging the Legislature to reconsider its need and take a positive vote to reinstate it. Otherwise, it would be repealed automatically.

In a speech prepared for delivery today before the California Association of County Treasurers, Bagley said his bill would require the Legislature to consider the hidden costs of tax loopholes.

"For the first time," he said. "tax breaks will be subjected to full public scrutiny in public hearings. Some tax loopholes are worthy of continuation, others are not."

The measure will "give an added dimension of openness in government," Bagley declared, "in these times of public concern over the secret power of special interests to line their own pockets."

As examples of loopholes, he cited the loss of $25 million a year in tax revenue from the oil depletion allowance and of $375 million through the sales tax exemption on aircraft sold to common carriers in the state.

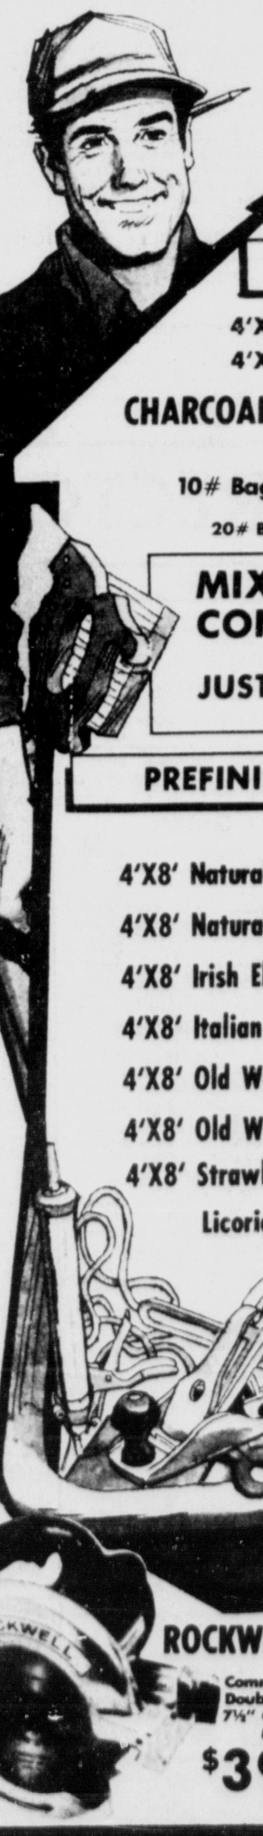

University Has New President

CHICAGO (UPI) — Dr. Benjamin H. Alexander, 52, yesterday was appointed president of Chicago State University.

Alexander, who is now the acting chief of research support at the National Institute of Health in Bethesda, Md., will take over his new post July 1. He succeeds Milton Byrd, who resigned after four businesses and 10 persons were indicted on charges of trying to defraud the university.

Alexander will be the first black chosen to head a four-year higher education institution in Illinois.

NOTICE INV

UNDER THE YUM YUM TREE

It may look like just another twig, but to Bessie, a giraffe at the San Francisco Zoo, it tastes sweeter than a lollypop, according to zoologists. That extra long tongue enables the giraffe to reach food which may be even higher on a tree than the normal height of the animal.

CAMPAIGNS '74

Reception For Riles Set May 4

A cocktail reception for Wilson Riles, candidate for reelection as state superintendent of public schools, will be held from 5 to 7 p.m. May 4 at the Belvedere home of Mrs. Mervin D. Field, 45 Bay View Avenue.

Reservations are being handled by Mrs. Roger B. Falge of Mill Valley, according to Frances Compton of Kentfield, Marin chairman of Riles's campaign.

The Independent-Journal Wednesday incorrectly gave the day of the reception as tomorrow instead of May 4.

ENDORSE — The Marin chapter of the National Women's Political Caucus has endorsed three candidates for the Marin Municipal Water District: Richard J. Boylan of Woodacre, Division 1; Joan Seminario of Kentfield, Division 3, and Pamela W. Lloyd of Mill Valley, Division 4. The endorsements were voted after candidates addressed the organization, and required at least a 60 per cent vote of members balloting. None was made in Division 5 because no candidate got the needed majority.

FILANTE — Dr. William J. Filante of Kentfield, candidate for Marin Municipal Water District's Division 3 seat, has objected that "along with other dedicated Marin conservationists, I have been unduly criticized for my support of the North Marin Intertie." The pipeline between the district and the North Marin Municipal Water District will bring excess water when needed to MMWD storage facilities, he said, and "is not an open invitation to developers."

"It is an insurance policy, another main in time of disaster," he said.

MUSSER — Receptions for John F. Musser Jr., of Novato, candidate for Marin County clerk, will be held: 8 to 10 a.m. Tuesday at the Zany Zoo, 1419 Grant Avenue, Novato; 8 p.m. Thursday at the Novato home of Sheridan C. Moats, 22 Boulevard Terrace; 8 p.m. May 6 at the San Anselmo home of Miyomi Hurt, 7 Tappan Court, and 8 p.m. May 7 at the Novato home of Gene C. Teeling, 2275 Center Road.

HOLLIS — A wine and cheese party for Virgil S. Hollis of Tiburon, candidate for reelection as Marin County superintendent of schools, will be held at 8 p.m. Monday at the Novato home of Walter F. Johnson, 200 Montura Way. Coffees for Hollis will be held: 8 p.m. Wednesday at the San Rafael home of Bryce W. Anderson, 304 H Street; 10 a.m. Thursday at the Ross home of Robert A. Vallee, 46 Winship Avenue; 8 p.m. Thursday at the Sausalito home of Ken Elkington, 153 Toyon Lane; 8 p.m. next Friday at the Novato home of C. Hards, 113 Oliva Court; 4 p.m. May 4 at the Mill Valley home of Glenn R. Peterson, 24 Greenwood Way; 1 p.m. May 5 at the San Anselmo home of Pieter Toal, 48 Hawthorne Avenue; 4 p.m. May 5 at the Fairfax home of Robert P. Petersen, 5 Willis Lane, and 8 p.m. May 5 at the Fairfax home of Edwin H. McGee, 111 Bothin Road.

SASSELLI — Louis D. Sasselli of Corte Madera, candidate for the Democratic nomination in the Ninth Assembly District, has urged that meetings of the Public Utilities Commission be opened to the public. He said the "Reagan-appointed Public Utilities Commission has been acting in the interest of the major utility companies and abandoning its basic duty to protect the public by establishing the lowest reasonable rates." Opening its meetings to the public would be a first move to make the commission responsible to the people, he said.

CAYLOR — Thomas O. Caylor of San Francisco, candidate for the Republican nomination in the Fifth Congressional District, has endorsed an initiative to make prison sentences mandatory for convicted heroin pushers, armed robbers and third-time burglars. "The only way to deter crime is to get tough with those criminals who deserve it," he said. Only one out of five heroin pushers goes to prison under present law, he said.

WORNUM — Michael Wornum of Mill Valley, candidate for the Democratic nomination in the Ninth Assembly District, has urged income and property tax breaks for homeowners who improve their homes and keep them well maintained. Homeowners should have the same right to deduct such costs from their taxes as do owners of rental property, he said. Senior citizens should have property taxes on home improvements deferred until their death or their homes are sold. The failure to allow such deductions "simply encourages neglect and deterioration of homes," Wornum said. He also called for a statewide program for the elderly that would include job finding services, day centers, low-cost legal services, tuition-free classes and low-interest, long-term loans for housing projects for the aged.

A fund-raising dinner for Wornum will be held at 7:30 p.m. May 5 at the Corte Madera Recreation Center. Cocktails will begin at 6:30. Music and entertainment will follow dinner. Reservations are being handled by Wornum's campaign headquarters in Greenbrae and by Marganne Clay of Mill Valley. Coffee Receptions for Wornum will be held at 8 p.m. next Friday at the Larkspur home of Benton A. Sifford Jr., 14 College Court; 5 p.m. May 4 at the Belvedere home of William Hambrecht, 228 Beach Road; and 5 p.m. May 5 at the Corte Madera home of Joel Shawn, 219 Baltimore Avenue.

SMITH — A coffee for Polly Smith of Tiburon, candidate for Marin Municipal Water District's Division 5 seat, will be held 8 p.m. tomorrow at the Tiburon home of Brewster Morris, 430 Ridge Road.

SMITH — Coffees for Dr. Darrell F. Smith of Kentfield, candidate for Tamalpais High School District trustee, will be held at 8 p.m. Wednesday at the Sleepy Hollow home of Audrey LaBelle, 21 Crane Drive, and 8 p.m. Thursday at the Tiburon home of Mrs. Carter B. Smith, 11 Auburn Court.

Diffusing Of Power Is Reportedly In First Watergate Panel Draft

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Senate investigators have concluded that excessive secrecy and concentration of power in the presidency gave rise to the Watergate scandal, and have drafted recommendations to drastically diffuse that power as a safeguard against any recurrence.

The findings are contained in a preliminary draft of the final report of the Senate Watergate committee, to be submitted to the Senate by the end of May after the seven panel members agree on its final form. UPI obtained a copy of the draft.

The report recommends for one thing that White House powers be diluted by giving more independence to government agencies, particularly the Justice Department, the FBI, the Internal Revenue Service and the Central Intelligence Agency.

One committee source called the draft report an attempt to "curb raw presidential power." Another said the aim was to "deflate a royal executive branch."

The draft, prepared by a staff group on presidential powers and approved by senior members of the committee staff, calls for a prohibition against political campaign activity by top aides in the White House and Justice Department.

One proposal expected to create controvery among committee members is for creation of a permanent special prosecutor, operating independently of the Justice Department in prosecuting government officials accused of wrongdoing, especially in political campaign matters.

The report also recommends giving Congress more powers, particularly in overseeing activities of government agencies and maintaining controls over White House spending. It said if that had been the case in 1972, Congress "could have sensed" growing White House powers over the agencies.

It recommends that a number of top White House posts be made subject to Senate confirmation, particularly that of chief of the Domestic Counsel —the post formerly held by No. 2 White House aide John D. Ehrlichman.

The report rejects the idea of amending the Constitution to restrict presidential power. Committee members are divided on a proposed costitutional amendment to make serious misconduct in a political campaign an impeachable offense.

Committee sources said the seven senators on the committee have not yet adopted the report, but are expected to do so once a few controversial matters have been worked out.

The committee, set up by the Senate to investigate Watergate and related matters, held extensive televised hearings on the scandal last summer. It originally was to have submitted its final report by the end of February, but the deadline was extended.

Among other recommendations in the draft:

Limit the top White House staff to as few as 15 aides, and no more than 50 professional employes. All should be barred from political activity, and from interceding between the president and heads of executive branch departments.

Prohibit White House "intelligence activities." Attempted misuse of law enforcement and intelligence agencies against supposed "enemies" of the White House was listed as one of the "most alarming" Watergate disclosures.

Limit presidential appointees in the Justice Department to 10 persons as against the current 28.

Strengthen freedom of information laws to give the press and public added access to government information.

Judge Rejects Chapin's Acquittal, New Trial Plea

WASHINGTON (UPI) — U.S. District Judge Gerhard A. Gesell today rejected acquittal and new trial motions of Dwight L. Chapin, former presidential appointments secretary convicted of lying to the Watergate grand jury.

"There was every indication that the jury was at all times conscientious and impartial," Gesell said in a two-page order.

"The proof that the defendant had deliberately lied was overwhelming. His intent was amply shown and his answers unquestionably false. The jury had no alternative but to convict."

Chapin was convicted earlier this month of two counts of lying about so-called "dirty tricks" against Democratic presidential hopefuls in the 1972 campaign.

Chapin contended that his trial had been tainted by "unduly prejudicial evidence"—specifically, a phony letter charging Sens. Hubert H. Humphrey and Henry M. Jackson with sexual indiscretions and a false news release accusing Rep. Shirley A. Chisholm of mental problems.

Chapin asked for a new trial away from Washington. He had claimed he could not get a fair trial in predominantly black Washington.

Furniture Industry Turning To Steel

CHICAGO (UPI) — The furniture industry has turned to steel to cope with the scarcity of lumber.

One manufacturer said it expected more than 400,000 tons of steel eventually will go into upholstered furniture. The Ingersoll Products Division of Borg Warner Corp., which stamps steel into frames for arm rests, backs and seats, said sofa beds will account for 75,000 tons of flat-rolled steel annually.

A Violin Goes For $139,200

LONDON (UPI) — American violinist Elaine Weldon sold her Guarneri violin yesterday for $139,200, the second highest auction price ever paid for a musical instrument.

A spokesman for Christie's, the art auction house where the sale was held, said the highest price paid for a violin was $201,600 paid for a Stradivarius at Sotheby's in 1971.

A London dealer bought Miss Weldon's violin, made by Joseph Guarneri del Jesu in Cremona, Italy, in 1733.

Dempsey Given Another Year In Restaurant

NEW YORK (UPI) — Jack Dempsey, under an out-of-court settlement, will be allowed to operate his Broadway restaurant at least until the end of the year.

The former heavyweight champion, 87, has been waging a legal battle for months to hold on to the restaurant, which has borne his name for 37 years. His lease with Brill Brothers, former owners of the building, had eight years to run, but the new owner, Inch Corp., claimed that lease was invalid and sought to evict him.

Under a compromise agreement yesterday, Dempsey's lawyers promised that Dempsey and his partner, Jack Amiel, would vacate the restaurant Dec. 31 unless a new lease can be re-negotiated with Inch.

SACRAMENTO ROUNDUP

Air Board May Sit Full Time

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Legislation making the state Air Resources Board a full-time body and more than doubling the salaries of members to $25,000 a year has advanced in the Senate.

The measure (AB2884) by Assemblyman Walter Ingalls, D-Riverside, cleared the Governmental Organizations Committee yesterday on an 8-0 vote and was sent to the Finance Committee.

In addition to creating a full-time five-member board, the bill would establish member terms at four years each. Currently, members served at the governor's pleasure. Their current $11,412 annual salary would be raised to $25,000 while the chairman's salary would be set at $26,250 a year.

OVERTIME PAY

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Legislation requiring that California's policemen and firemen be paid extra for routine overtime work has reached Gov. Ronald Reagan's desk.

The measure (AB819) by Assemblyman Lawrence Kapiloff, D-San Diego, won final legislative approval from the Assembly yesterday on a 43-25 vote.

The overtime rate would be at time-and-a-half, or any other sum negotiated between local governments and their police and fire employes.

Kapiloff said that "cities up and down the state are deliberately understaffing their police and fire departments" to take advantage of overtime work at standard rates of pay.

BIKE LICENSES

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — A bill repealing requirement for central registration of all California bicycles starting next year was approved yesterday by the Assembly on a 69-1 vote and sent to the Senate.

The measure (AB3329) by Assemblyman Robert Badham, R-Newport Beach, would substitute instead standardized state guidelines on licensing bicycles for local agencies wishing some type of registration plan.

Current law requires bicycles be registered through the Department of Motor Vehicles by July 1, 1975 at a cost of $3 each. But Reagan administration officials have objected the program would be too costly.

EFFICIENCY BILL

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Appliance manufacturers have told legislators that "minimum efficiency standards" for California home air conditioners, refrigerators and the like would do little to save energy.

The Association of Home Appliance Manufacturers brought lawyers and technical experts to a Senate Finance Committee hearing yesterday to attack one section of the major energy crisis measure of the legislative session.

The committee received the testimony prior to an expected vote next week on the sweeping Democratic-sponsored bill (AB1575) which has been endorsed by Gov. Ronald Reagan.

EMERGENCY AID

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — A bill aimed at providing Compton schools with up to $2 million in additional funds to continue classes through the end of the school year was signed yesterday by Gov. Ronald Reagan.

The measure (SB1895) was rushed through the legislature in a matter of days after warnings by the author, Sen. Ralph C. Dills, D-Gardena, that the Compton Unified School District would have to "close its doors" before the end of the school year without financial help.

The money would be borrowed by the district from the services fund of the Los Angeles County superintendent of schools. It would have to be repaid within three years.

DONATION PLAN

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — A bill aimed at providing an extra outlet for persons wanting to contribute "small" amounts to their political party and its general election candidates was defeated yesterday by the Assembly.

The measure (SB592) would have permitted county clerks to include with sample ballots an envelope soliciting funds for whichever party the voter was registered. The money, in turn, would be spent to keep the party operating and help finance candidates.

BART DISTRICTS

SACRAMENTO (AP) — The San Francisco Bay Area Rapid Transit District will have to submit the boundaries of its nine prospective election districts by May 1, under legislation signed by Gov. Ronald Reagan.

The bill, by Sen. John Nejedly, R-Walnut Creek, was signed yesterday.

It requires submission of the boundaries to the legislature by BART's board of directors. But the districts would come into being only if the voters adopt, at the June 4 election, a proposition requiring that BART board members be elected rather than appointed.

QUAKE LAW

SACRAMENTO (AP) — The continued use of school buildings that don't meet state earthquake resistance standards will be permitted by new legislation.

The bill was signed into law yesterday by Gov. Ronald Reagan.

Under current law, schools not meeting the Field Act must be evacuated by June 30, 1975.

Health Department Warns Of Anthrax

NEW YORK (UPI) — Drums, wine skins, rugs and other items made in Haiti from untanned goatskin with hair attached may be contaminated with anthrax, an acute bacterial disease which can be fatal if untreated, the New York City Health Department warns.

No cases of anthrax illness have been reported in New York State, but a health department spokeman said a Florida woman was reported last week by the National Center for Disease Control to have been affected by the illness.

San Rafael, air quality yesterday: Oxidants, clean air.
Nitrogen, clean air.
Carbon monoxide, light air pollution.
Smoke particles, clean air.
Other areas:
San Francisco, clean air.
San Jose, clean air.

Colorless oxidants, brownish nitrogen dioxide and smoke particles aggravate respiratory diseases. Carbon monoxide causes dizziness, headaches and slows reflexes. Smoke particles come largely from industrial sources but the other three come primarily from motor vehicles.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Aggressive Treatment Is Best Bet Against Hodgkin's Disease

Aggressive treatment offers the best hope for cure in Hodgkin's disease. Special test map out the location of the diseased glands, which are then treated with vigorous X-ray therapy. Anticancer drugs, alone or in combination, are additional measures used to subdue the disease. Optimal treatment is paying off, especially in younger victims and in those in whom the condition is not too extensive.

Hodgkin's is a painless, progressive disease that leads to enlargement of the lymph glands in the neck and spreads over the body. Although the cause is not known, it is regarded by many as a malignancy of the lymphoid tissues. While there are lymph glads all over the body, those in the neck are familiar to most of us. These glands enlarge whenever there is an infection of the throat or tonsils and shrink after the infection subsides. Similar nodes are found in the armpits, groin, chest, abdomen, and pelvis.

HODGKIN'S DISEASE usually begins in the glands in one area and the early manifestations depend upon the set involved initially. Swelling of the glands in the neck is the easiest to detect. Diagnosis is made by removing one of the glands for laboratory study. In contrast, glands along the center of the chest or abdomen are likely to enlarge considerably before producing trouble. This situation may not be detected for months or years, especially when the glands near the surface are unaffected.

As the nodes increase in size and number, great collections of tumor appear. In time, they create pressure upon more vital structures such as the windpipe, blood vessels, esophagus, stomach, and even the spinal cord. Unless treated, the disorder may be fatal within two or three years. Thanks to aggressive therapy, many victims have survived for so long a period, they may now be considered cured.

AFTER THE diagnosis is made, the entire lymphatic system from head to toe is visualized via X-rays. In addition, biopsies may be done on lymph glands from various areas of the body, even if it means opening the abdomen to obtain them. The spleen is frequently removed. After this preliminary investigation, the disease is classified into one of four stages and treated accordingly with nodal irradiation and anticancer drugs. However, as noted earlier, the cure rate is encouraging.

Dr. Van Dellen welcomes reader questions. While he cannot reply to them individually, he will ander those of general interest in his column. Write to Dr. Van Dellen, c/o the Independent-Journal, PO Box 330, 1040 B St., San Rafael, Ca. 94902.

SUSPICIOUS

P.S. writes: A woman in the change of life feels that she is being watched and followed. This is very real to her and has made her fearful. Does she need help or will these feelings pass after the menopause is completed?

REPLY

She needs psychiatric help. The menopause may aggravate mental disorders, but it does not cause them.

LIGHT-COLORED MOLES

M.T.R. writes: Can light-colored moles become malignant?

REPLY

Yes, especially when irritated or injured. Is your diagnosis correct?

RARE BEEF FOR CHILD

A reader writes: Is it safe for children to eat rare beef?

REPLY

Yes, but as a rule, children do not like rare meats and exotic foods.

Warning Issued On Handguns

NEW YORK (UPI) — Judge David Ross, the administrative judge for New York City's courts, compared the number of illegal guns in private citizens' hands today with the extent of illegal drinking during Prohibiton. He urged "nationalization of the manufacture and distribution of handguns."

"Each day the news media contain reports of hand gan homicides by both violence-prone individuals and by what appear to be average citizens involved in emotionally motivated homicides," Ross said.

"A condition exists in this country not unlike the days of Prohibition where both the general population as well as the criminal element engage in criminal conduct," he told the State Investigation Commission hearing on illegal handguns yesterday.

BEST SHOWS FOR TONIGHT

Unusual on television tonight:

KCRA (3), KRON (4), 8 p.m. — Some of the most unusual developments in the worldwide quest for scientific knowledge, ranging from scientific experiments to primitive folk cultures, will be on view in "Wild Science," a special hosted by Peter Falk. It is divided into four sections — animal behavior, mind and body, folk wisdom and the universe.

KPIX (5), KXTV (10), 9 p.m. — A study of the lives and aspirations of four black families who have reached middle-income status will be presented in the two-hour news special, "Four Portraits in Black." Concluding the broadcast will be a panel discussion among black leaders, commenting on the portrayals of the four black families and the general issue of black progress in the United States.

KCRA (3), KRON (4), 10 p.m. — Host Johnny Cash is joined by an all-star cast in "Country Comes Home," a special salute in words and music to welcome to the entertainment world the new $15,000,000 home of the Grand Ole Opry. Among the guest stars are Roy Acuff, Chet Atkins, Charlie Rich, Tennessee Ernie Ford, Minnie Pearl, Tom T. Hall and Loretta Lynn.

KGO (7), KNTV (11), 11:30 p.m. — Canada's Bachman-Turner Overdrive, Brownsville Station, Loggins and Messina, and special guests, the Pointer Sisters, are the "In Concert" guest stars when radio personality Elliot Mintz hosts the "Wide World of Entertainment" presentation.

A TYPICAL WINNER — Emcee Monty Hall of "Let's Make A Deal" talks with a typically ecstatic prize winner. The show, frequently attacked by TV critics, draws thousands for tickets.

HOT TV PROPERTY

Some Wait Three Years For 'Let's Make A Deal' Tickets

By ARTHUR UNGER
The Christian Science Monitor News Service

NEW YORK — Know what attraction holds the world's record for the longest waiting-time for tickets in show-business history?

It's not "My Fair Lady" at its height, or even the World Series, but the TV game show, "Let's Make a Deal."

That's right — the audience-shrieking afternoon game show that critics have been attacking for years as "mindless" and "demeaning to contestants and audiences alike." There are 350 tickets to each show and a two-to-three-year wait after requesting a ticket.

"Let's Make A Deal" is the most successful audience participation show in television history. It has lasted for more than 10 years, always at or near the top in daytime ratings (ABC 1:30 p.m., check local listings), and is now also the top-rated syndicated prime-time access (7:30 p.m.) show.

One of the big reasons is Monty Hall, co-creator and host of the show. Understandably, he is defensive about it as he is interviewed on ABC (May 28, "Monty Hall at Sea World"), and his new book published by Grossett & Dunlap (Emcee Monty Hall).

"I know deep in my heart," he says, "that the performance I do on television is a sincere professional effort. The man who is executing this performance is orchestrating all those people in crazy hats in a very articulate manner in a difficult arena. There is a lot more to Monty Hall. He happens to be a well-educated, serious man in his personal life."

Hall often refers to himself in the third person — especially when he is praising himself. This Canadian son of Russian Jewish immigrants fought his way up from proverty and prejudice, through Canadian theater, radio and TV, to his top position in daytime TV today. And he is proud of it all.

How does he feel when he is referred to as the "Liberace of the game shows?" Hall is indignant. "I know I am the Artur Rubinstein of the game shows! Especially when performers like Jimmy Stewart, Jack Benny, and Phil Silvers call to compliment me on my performance.

"I don't ask critics to like my show — just to be fair. It's only entertainment — not the university of the air. Accept it for what it is —fun, excitement, participation. Greed is always something the other guy engages in. It just depends upon whose ox is being gored."

In case you've never experienced "Let's Make a Deal" — it features an excited, over-reacting group of contestants, dressed in outrageous amateur costumes, who get up on stage and proceed to exchange something Mr. Hall gives them for something else he promises them. It ranges from a chicken to a Cadillac. If there is a common denominator — it is the constant screeches of anticipation usually followed by shrieks and whimpers of joy or disappointment when the final deal has been made.

How does the show select its contestants?

The selection is made an hour before the show — 31 people are brought in to sit in the front section.

"It is from these that I make my final selection," he says. "We never asked them to wear crazy clothes — it started spontaneously when people decided they could attract our attention better with costumes. It became a costume ball.

"Of course, we screen out the obvious actors and the kooks because there is enough natural emotion that happens as a result of the excitement of the program. We want ordinary people who came to the show in costumes which prove they are good enough sports to qualify as contestants.

"I want a composite — so we have people who never get on other shows. Old people, ugly people, tall, short people, blacks and Spanish people — all kinds.

"And we don't have to worry about them responding — after that three-year wait for tickets, then standing outside waiting to be chosen as one of the 31, then the room where they sign waivers, then sitting on the floor waiting till the lights go on and I walk down to talk to them and point my finger and say 'you' — why that person even forgets her own name in the excitement."

According to Hall, "I've just passed my 3,000th show and nobody ever cried with disappointment. Never once did we have to edit the show because somebody uttered an expletive. Imagine people losing a car and getting a pig instead — you'd think that someone would have blurted out something. It's a tribute to the innate decency and self-censorship of people that the worst thing they ever do is sit down with a thud."

On the daytime show, the biggest prize was $5,000; on the nighttime show, it was $14,000. The least ever was a bushel of potatoes.

Brown Wants All Hopefuls To File Financial Papers

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Secretary of State Edmund Brown Jr. said yesterday he has asked the state Supreme Court to require office holders seeking reelection to disclose their financial holdings, investments and gifts they have received.

Brown's request, in effect, asks the high court to change its own March 28 order which delayed implementation of the law in order to hear an appeal of the case.

The Democratic state election officer, who is running for the Democratic nomination for governor, said if the court fails to act, incumbents will have a major advantage over their opponents.

He explained that the state's new conflict of interest law required nonincumbents to file their holdings and interests by March 8 and incumbents to file by Tuesday.

Brown added a Nevada County suit challenging the new law triggered an appeal to the state Supreme Court and the court held the law's requirements should be voided until the court ruled on the case.

"This is totally unfair to the challenging candidates and to the voters. Incumbent candidates may examine their opponents statements in search of damaging information or campaign issues, while they are under no compulsion to file statements themselves," Brown added.

A Ben Franklin Plaque Stolen

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — A plaque containing the epitaph of Benjamin Franklin is among nine which have been reported stolen from the Christ Church cemetery in the downtown area.

Police said the theft of the nine bronze plaques was discovered yesterday and that it could not be determined when they were removed.

Rev. Ernest Harding, rector of the church, said the plaques, valued at about $2,000, had been bolted onto granite walls. The Franklin plaque, installed in 1956, had been on a wall several feet from Franklin's gravesite.

Two Volunteer Firemen Are Added

Two men have been added to the Novato Fire Department volunteer list, according to Fire Chief Jack W. Kidder.

Approved by the district board Wednesday night were Steven Lambert of 642 Wilson Avenue and Mark H. Jones of 107 Caspar Place, Chief Kidder reported.

Caldwell Spoils A Perfect Record

SAN FRANCISCO — Just when I thought the Giants might go through 162 games without a starting pitcher going the distance, along came left-hander Mike Caldwell.

Yesterday Caldwell did something no other Giant pitcher has done since last Sept. 22, and the guy who did it now pitches for the Boston Red Sox. Caldwell pitched nine full innings, from start to finish, in whipping the Montreal Expos, 8-2. It was the first time since Juan Marichal beat San Diego's Steve Arlin, 5-2, last fall.

In the opening game of the season earlier this month Tom Bradley came close to finishing what he started but had to have help after eight and one-third innings, two outs short. That was the closest to a complete outing until yesterday. That's 18 games.

IN PICKING UP HIS fourth victory in five decisions, Caldwell is making that trade for Willie McCovey look better every day.

Mike got into a jam in the seventh inning, when he had the bases loaded with one out. Giant manager Charlie Fox came out to the mound to slow him down, not to take him out of the game. But the idea to yank him had to cross Fox's mind.

Fox stayed with him and Caldwell needed the play of the day from third baseman Steve Ontiveros to get out alive. Ron Hunt hit a screaming liner which Ontiveros speared, looked at first and second, then ran to third for an unassisted double play to end the inning.

"Sure I'm glad I went the complete game," Caldwell said in the dressing room after his win. "It makes a pitcher feel proud when he pitches a complete game." He threw 126 pitches, quite a few for someone who is supposed to be a relief pitcher. He was used mostly as a reliever with San Diego but was put into the Giant starting rotation by Fox, as soon as he became a Giant, one of the best moves Fox has made.

AND CALDWELL IS much happier being a starter. "You always want to be a starting pitcher, even when you're a kid starting out in baseball. I'm just happy to be in the starting rotation."

Caldwell is somewhat ahead of his pace last year. He didn't pick up his fourth win of the 1973 season until August.

Dave Kingman provided most of the punch for the Giants with two home runs and a double in four at bats. He struck out his first time to the plate but I'm sure Fox will take one strike out for every two homers any day.

Kingman left the game in the ninth inning after his groin muscle pull began acting up. "I felt it when I was running out that double," said Kingman about the injury which has been slowing him up the past week. "I didn't want to take a chance on hurting it more so I come out."

SINCE THE INJURY occured Kingman and Ontiveros have switched positions, Ontiveros to third and Kingman to first where he doesn't have to move around as much. The two of them echoed the same sentiments yesterday. They each prefer first base, but to get in the lineup neither is being choosy. They want their chances to swing a bat, something Kingman is doing very well and Ontiveros not so well.

"I'm just not waiting on the pitch long enough," said Ontiveros whi is batting an anemic .182. "I'm coming up soon. I just can't be so anxious."

While the Giants try to stay in the thick of the National League West pennant race, the fans are staying home. Yesterday's turnout of 1,789 brought the season total to 70,622, some 29,036 less than last year at this time. What ever happened to all those baseball fans?

Fox Making Believers In Caldwell

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — All spring long Charlie Fox kept insisting Mike Caldwell would be a starting pitcher, but no one seemed to believe the San Francisco Giants manager, not even Caldwell.

"I thought they got me because they needed a lefthanded reliever," Caldwell said yesterday after going the distance on a five-hitter while leading the Giants to an 8-2 victory over the Montreal Expos.

"They said right along they wanted help in the bullpen and that's where I figured I was headed," continued Caldwell, who came to San Francisco from San Diego during the winter in exchange for Willie McCovey. "I know Fox said he wanted me to be a starter but I didn't believe him until the season started."

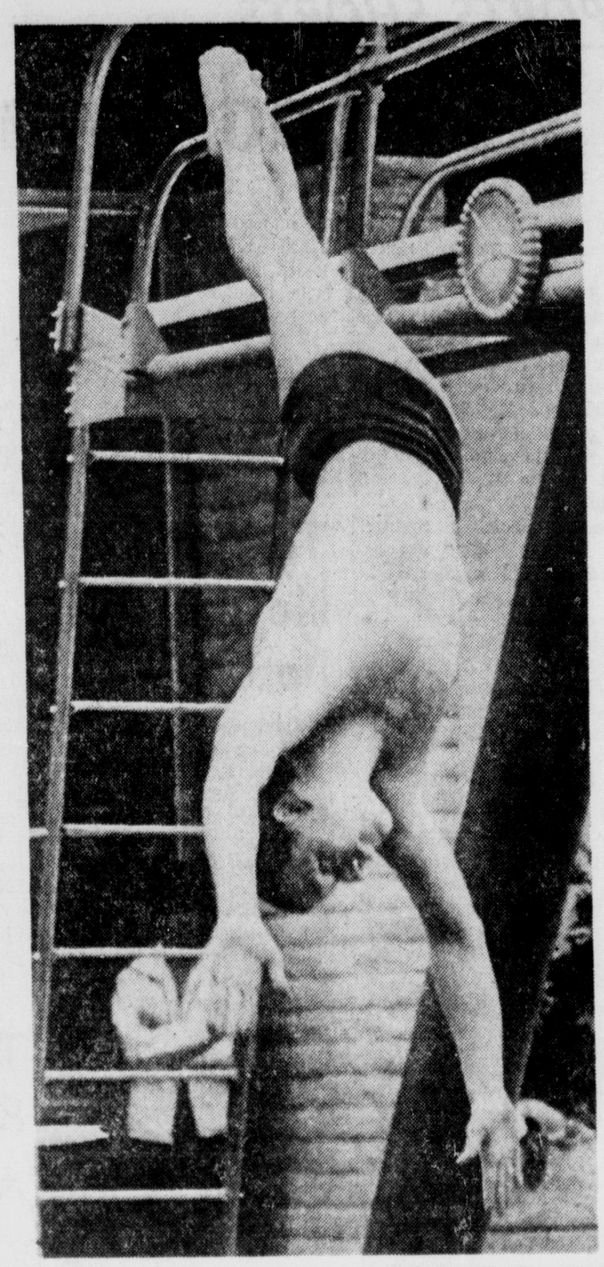

Yesterday's game was the first complete one by a member of the San Francisco staff and it gave Caldwell, a smooth-throwing, left-handed sinker-baller, a 4-1 record for the season.

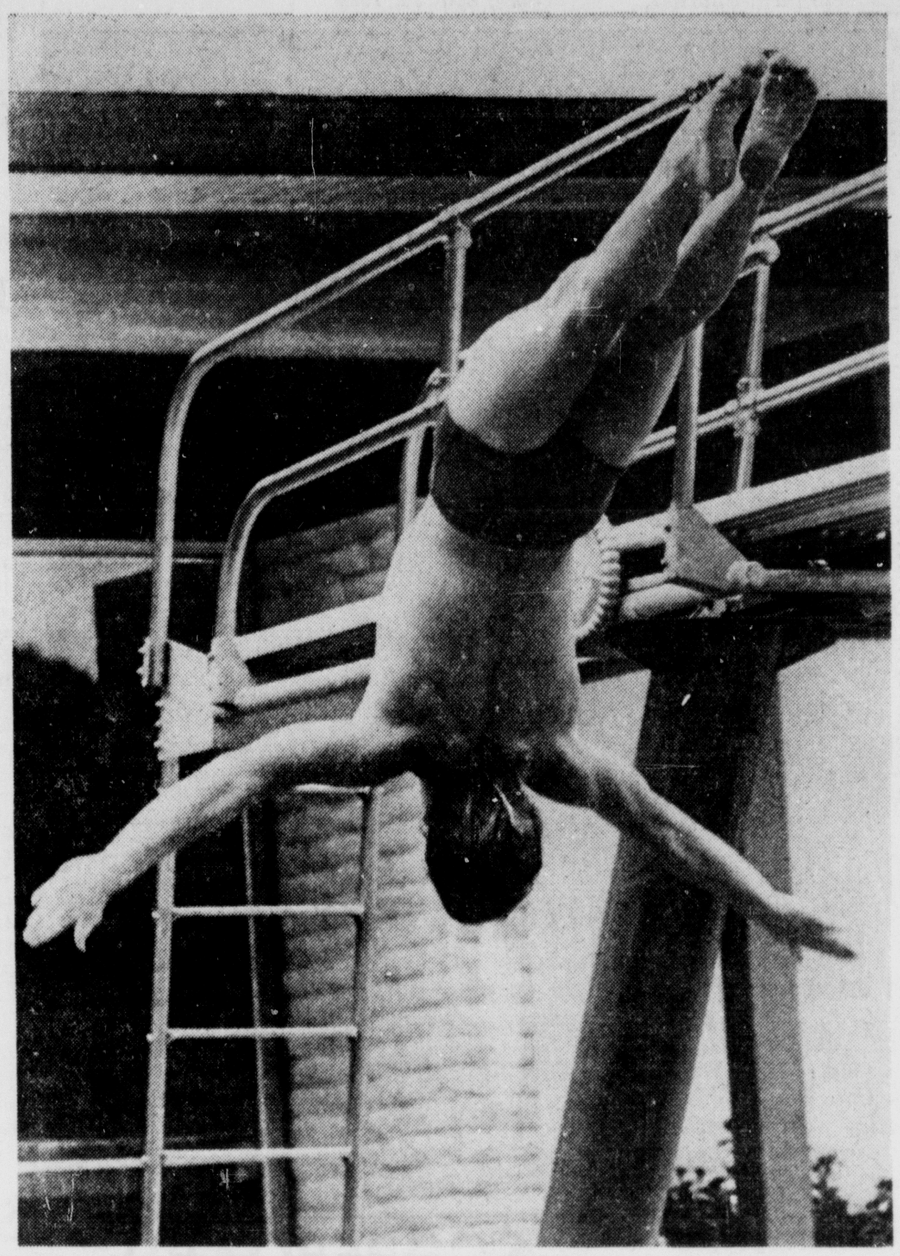

"There's a lot of pride in pitching a complete game," he said. "Heck, over the past two seasons I've had about 33 starts and finished only seven games. So this was gratifying."

Dave Kingman made things easy for Caldwell by driving in four runs with his third and fourth homers.

Kingman, who started the year at third base, played first for the second time and, according to Fox, that's where he will stay for the time being.

UPSIDE DOWN IS THE RIGHT WAY

San Marin High School's Kirk Schreil, diving gracefully off the one-meter board, won the Marin County Athletic League title yesterday with 358.10 points for 11 dives at College of Marin. Six varsity and six Class B competitors qualified for next Saturday's Division II meet. Competition in swimming was scheduled today, also at College of Marin. See story, page 42.

BATTLE FOR BASKETBALL

Indiana's George McGinnis (30) battled Utah's James Jones for the ball last night in Terra Haute, Ind. McGinnis scored 23 points as Indiana won, 91-89, to even the American Basketball Association series at 3-3. The Pacers rallied from a 3-0 games deficit. The final game will be played tomorrow night in Salt Lake City.

NFL'S 'EXCITING PACKAGE'

Sweeping Rule Changes

NEW YORK (AP) — Faced with increasing criticism that its game had become dull, the National Football League has struck back with the most sweeping set of rule changes for professional football in 40 years.

"It's an exciting package," said commissioner Peter Rozelle, unveiling the changes yesterday that are designed to open up offenses and reduce the ever-increasing roll field goals have played in the pro game recently.

Besides introducing a 15-minute sudden death overtime period to settle ties, the NFL moved the goal posts to the end line, meaning that field goal kickers will have to boot those three-pointers 10 yards farther than they have been. Also, missed field goals will return the ball to the line of scrimmage of 20-yard line, whichever is farther from the goal line.

Other changes also were adopted to protect wide receivers from the downfield battering they have been exposed to recently, reducing the penalty for offensive holding, tripping and illegal use of hands from 15 yards to 10 yards, and making illegal the dangerous crack back blocks that have caused many injuries.

Sports

Friday, April 26, 1974 Independent-Journal, 41

Not since 1933 when the league moved to allow forward passing from anywhere behind the line of scrimmage have such widespread alterations been made in the sport. That was the same year the gaol posts were moved from the back of the end zone to the goal line to encourage field goal kicking.

"But in those days, guys weren't kicking 55-yard field goals," noted Jim Kensil, executive director of the NFL.

Field goal kickers reacted predictably. They are less than thrilled with the changes.

"These changes are going to make the game even more conservative than it is now," said Miami's Garo Yepremian..

"Moving the goal posts to the back of the end zone is one of the worstrules they could possibly have put in. Coaches will send in their punter instead of trying the long field goals and all we will have are punters booming the ball through the end zone."

Marin Tar Nine Rallies To Beat West Valley, 5-4

College of Marin's baseball team scored three runs in the eighth inning to edge West Valley, 5-4, in a Camino Norte Conference game in Kentfield.

The Tars (9-6) are now one-half game behind Contra Costa of San Pablo in the race for the Northern Division title. Contra Costa lost to Southern leader Foothill of Los Altos yesterday.

Ray Stradford, running for Don Bianchini, and Steve Sherry scored on a right-field double by Greg Mazeres to tie the score. Bianchini and Sherry both had singled. Mazeres scored the winning run on a Pete Arbios hit.

High School Track Rescheduled Today

All three Marin County Athletic League track and field meets schedule for yesterday were rained out and have been rescheduled for today.

The lineup calls for Redwood at Marin Catholic, San Marin at Drake and Novato at San Rafael, in addition to the Terra Linda at Tamalpais meet which was previously changed. Starting time is 3:30 p.m.

Champs Golf Leader Allin Is A Realist

RANCHO LA COSTA, Calif. (UPI) — Buddy Allin considers himself a realist and he plays golf the same way.

The mighty mite from Santa Barbara, Calif., took a one-shot lead into the second round of the $200,000 MONY Tournament of Champions today but he wasn't thinking about winning.

Allin, 29, fired a six-under-par 66 in the T of C's opening round yesterday, one shot better than Lanny Wadkins, one of the young lions on the tour.

"I just want to be realistic about myself," said the 5-foot-9, 133-pound Vietnam war hero. "Say, I tell myself I want to win every tournament. Well, I'm going to be disappointed a lot of weeks.

"I'm different than a Jack Nicklaus or a Lee Trevino. Take Trevino, if he finishes second in a tournament, he's teed off. If I finish second, I'm happy. The top guys think differently than the rest of us. They tee it up to win. I just tee it up to make a buck. I don't consider myself now or ever to be a great player."

Miller Barber was three shots behind Allin while there was a four way tie at 70 among John Mahaffey, Gene Littler, Dave Hill and Bob Charles.

Allin, winner of the Dora Eastern Open in Miami last month, said he wasn't getting ahead of himself.

TWO PLAYERS, PUCK IN NET

Boston's Wayne Cashman skated by nonchalantly last night in Chicago after depositing the puck and two Chicago defenders into the net. Bill White and Dick Redmond (bottom) began extricating themselves from the net after Cashman scored in the closing seconds. The National Hockey League Bruins won, 5-2, to even the best-of-seven series at two games each. In the other NHL playoff last night, host New York tripped Philadelphia 5-3. Philadelphia leads the series, 2-1.

San Marin's Schreil Is Versatile

Kirk Schreil of San Marin High School, who proved during the winter that he has brute strength, proved yesterday that he has grace also.

Schreil won the Marin County Athletic League diving title by compiling 358.10 points for 11 dives in competition at College of Marin.

Last winter, Schreil won the 130-pound title and was named the outstanding competitor in the MCAL wrestling meet.

Schreil yesterday outdueled two other top divers, Tom Schindler of Redwood (second with 343.30) and Bob Navioux of Drake (third with 300.70).

Top six finishers in varsity and Class B will advance to the Division II meet next Saturday at Redwood High. The same is true of the league's swimmers, who were to compete today at College of Marin, beginning at 3:30 p.m.

Other varsity qualifiers were Scott Ballinger of Redwood, 244.45, Bill McCane of San Marin, 180.30, and Dave Kugelberg of Terra Linda, 174.20.

Mark Gately of Drake won Class B with 234.04, followed by Terra Linda's Al Wolden, 226.70.

Record-Setting St. Vincent Is Last In Track

ST. HELENA — St. Vincent High School finished last here yesterday but set two new school records in the process.

The Mustangs (9-4) scored 38 points to follow non-league foes Clear Lake (39 points) and host St. Helena (93 points).

Both St. Vincent record-setters came in second, with Mike Zitkovich erasing his own mark in the mile with a 5:02.0 clocking and Mike Murphy putting the shot 45-feet-8. Zitkovich won the two-mile race in 10:45.0.

The 10-year-old French trotter Une de Mai has been retired. She earned $1,851,424, twice winning the International Trot at Westbury, N.Y.

Marin Golfers Win

College of Marin's golf team (8-6) dumped Alameda, 48-6, yesterday in a Camino Norte Conference match at the Marin Country Club. Kevin Hogan of Marin was medalist with a four-over-par 76.

San Rafael Baseballers Edge 'Cats

San Rafael High School got a pivotal unearned run to edge Marin Catholic in eight innings yesterday, 3-2, in a Marin County Athletic League baseball game in Greenbrae.

Bulldog Steve D'Ambra scored from second base with two out on a Matt Docksteder base hit to right field for the winning run. D'Ambra reached based on a Wildcat error at second base.

Star End Kwalick May Sue 49ers

Combined AP & UPI

SAN FRANCISCO — It was bad enough for the San Francisco 49ers to learn they can't use Ted Kwalick in 1975. Now they discover they might not be able to use him in 1974.

The 49ers have been warned that they may face an antitrust suit at the end of the season if they do not permit the all-pro tight end to join the Hawaii team of the World Football League for 1974.

Kwalick signed a contract with Hawaii, but it was assumed it would be effective in 1975, since 1974 is the option year on his 49er contract. The suit, however, would attack the National Football League's option clause, which binds a player to his team for one year beyond the period he signs for.

More Football

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. — Two more NFL stars, Charlie Harraway of the Washington Redskins and Paul Robinson of the Houston Oilers, signed WFL contracts effective in 1974. Both will join the Birmingham Americans.

Basketball

NEW YORK — The American Basketball Association Board of Trustees will meet in Chicago on May 9 to consider the proposed purchase of the Memphis Tams from Charles O. Finley by Stax Records, the league announced yesterday.

INGLEWOOD — Veteran guard Jerry West will be back with the Los Angeles Lakers next season.

West, only one of three men in the history of the National Basketball Association to score more than 25,000 points and considered to be one of its finest guards ever, signed a multi-year contract with the Lakers yesterday. Terms were not disclosed.

Tam Edges Novato In Baseball

Tamalpais High School rallied for two runs during the sixth inning to tip Novato, 6-5, yesterday in a Marin County Athletic League baseball game in Mill Valley.

Tam scored its sixth inning runs on three singles, a sacrifice bunt, and a dropped fly ball. Jake Newman sacrificed Peter Lea across for the typing run, and Alvin Hall scored the winner when the Novato center fielder dropped a John Hanley fly.

Mill Valley 4th In Zone Golf Tournament

PEBBLE BEACH — The Mill Valley Golf Club was tied for fourth place yesterday after the first round of play in the Northern California Golf Association's San Francisco Zone Tournament at Spyglass Hill.

Mill Valley had a net score of 62 on the par-72 course, and trailed Los Altos Golf Club (59), San Mateo G.C. (59) and Sharpe Park of San Francisco (61).

Competition was to continue today. Top three teams qualify for the playoffs in September.

Mill Valley 62 (tied for fourth): Sam Valenti 98-14—84; Pat McNamara, 101-21—80; Joe Roe, 90-12—78; Richard Dalton, 87-14—73.

Peacock Gap 63 (tied for eighth): Bob Seymour 93-14—79; Marty Goulson, 94-15—79; Frank Menco, 96-20—76; Roland Deeder, 95-14—71.

Meadow Club 66 (tied for 15th): Lou Della Valle 83-8—75; Stu Harrison 89-9—80; Lou Gessberger 86-7—79; Ernie Peterson, 87-10—77.

Petaluma Netters

Petaluma High School (3-3) yesterday recorded its second 1974 North Bay League tennis victory over visiting Hogan (Vallejo), 4-3.

Golf

NAGOYA, Japan — Takashi Murakami today fired a seven under par 63 and took a two-stroke lead in the opening round of the $100,000 Chunichi Crowns International Invitation Golf Tournament.

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. — Allen Miller shot a seven-under-par 65 to take a two-stroke lead after the first round of the $90,000 Tallahassee Open.

Tennis

ST. LOUIS — Defending champion Stan Smith yesterday defeated Australian Barry Phillips-Moore 6-4, 7-6 in his second-round singles match and paired with Sausalito's Bob Lutz to win a doubles quarter-final match in the third annual $50,000 Holton Tennis Classic.

DENVER — Arthur Ashe yesterday ousted fellow American Harold Solomon 7-6, 6-0 in a singles match in the World Championship Tennis Green group's Denver meet.

PHILADELPHIA — Olga Morozova of the Soviet Union yesterday beat Betty Stove of The Netherlands 3-6, 6-3, 7-5 to gain a quarterfinal berth in a professional women's tennis tournament.

Tomales' 8 Errors Are Costly

Rich Thompsen and Sam Marsi engaged in a classic pitcher's duel yesterday, but in the end it was defense that proved the difference.

Both hurlers threw one-hitters, but host Tomales High School (2-3) committed eight errors to give Thompsen and his St. Vincent teammates a 4-0 North Central League II baseball victory.

St. Vincent's only hit was a fourth-inning double by Dom Bosque, but the Mustangs capitalized on Tomales errors for four unearned runs off Marsi.

In other local high school baseball action yesterday, Petaluma (1-5) was routed, 15-5, by visiting North Bay League foe Hogan (Vallejo) and the Rancho Cotate at Healdsburg Sonoma County League clash was postponed until May 15.

GOLF NOTES

Tale Of A Birdie At Peacock Gap

A Glenwood golfer got a birdie and a bogey on the same hole.

Don Escallier, a golfer and a hunter, used a driver on the ninth hole April 18 at Peacock Gap and struck a blow against Mother Nature. His tee shot accidentally hit a dove perched on a tree.

When he caught up with his ball, Escallier discovered there were feathers on it. "I looked around and found the bird. It was injured and looked like it was suffering," he said.

So, Escallier ended the dove's misery by choking it. "It was the only humane thing to do," he said.

Escallier took a bogey six, even with the birdie.

TIBURON'S Robert Humphrey Sunday shot a hole-in-one on the 13th at San Geronimo National Golf Club. He used a seven iron on the par three 135-yard hole. George Kovacs, Walt Svenson and Charles Redford witnessed the shot.

Terra Linda Grand Slam Keys Win

Terra Linda High School used a grand slam to beat Drake yesterday, 7-1, in a Marin County Athletic League baseball game in San Anselmo.

The game was highlighted by Greg Watroba's big blast in the fifth inning. Jeff Creamer pitched six and two-thirds innings for the Trojans, giving up only three hits, one walk, while striking out six, for his second win of the MCAL season.

FISH AND GAME

By AL GIDDINGS

Check The Book Before Fishing

Although the general statewide trout season opens tomorrow, it is important that you know streams in certain areas do not open until May 25.

The areas with later openings are Marin, Del Norte, Humboldt, Mendocino and Sonoma counties; the Mad River drainage below Roth Dam in Trinity county; the Eel River drainage in Lake and Trinity counties; the Applegate River drainage in Siskiyou County; and the Klamath River drainage including all tributary streams below Iron Gate and Dwinnell dams in Siskiyou county and below Lewiston Dam in Trinity county.

Saturday in Marin County, the trout limit in all the reservoirs and lakes changes to 10 trout per person, except for Phoenix, Lagunitas, Bon Tempe, Rodeo Lagoon and Stafford where the limit of trout stays at five per person the year around.

It's most important that you have a copy of the 1974 Sport Fishing Regulations. Check the front page map for one of the seven districts you plan to fish. Then locate your area in the district, open the booklet to that district and read the special trout regulations.

Here is a trout forecast by Fish and Game Department personnel:

In the northeast prospects are bright as most streams in Siskiyou, Shasta, Modoc, Lassen, and Tehama counties are expected to be high, but clear and fishable.

Most promising spots are the upper Sacramento River below Lake Siskiyou in Siskiyou and Shasta counties, upper Hat Creek in Shasta County and Deer Creek in Tehama County.

Eagle Lake, in Lassen County, which has been producing catches of trophy size trout, is expected to continue good.

Fishing prospects are poor on Whiskeytown Lake in Shasta county because of turbid water.

Anglers are reminded that with the snowpack in the region some travel in the back country will be hazardous. At the higher elevations, lakes will be either frozen over or inaccessible or both.

Particularly outstanding waters, all reachable by road and with good shore and boat fishing for 10 to 14-inch trout, are Lake Davis in Plumas County; Stampede, Boca and Antelope reservoirs, all near Truckee. Boca was chemically treated last year.

Also highly rated is Lake Almanor where trolling is producing fish running to a pound and a half.

Late season rains should keep most streams along the central coast at levels to provide excellent fishing. Nearly all reservoirs are full, many of them spilling.

Among the better bets is Lake Berryessa where anglers have been catching trout weighing up to four pounds and more.

New waters in the catchable trout planting program are the Niles Canyon section of Alameda Creek in Alameda County, and Sandy Wool Lake in Ed Levin Park near Milpitas, Santa Clara County.

Curtailment or suspension of stocking because of the energy crisis and the unavailability of fish from hatcheries will affect Cleone Lake, Mendocino County; Anderson Creek, Lake County; Upper Arroyo Seco Creek and Upper Nacimiento River, Monterey County, and Lopez Creek and Oceano Lagoon, San Luis Obispo County.

Access should be good. Flood-damaged roads in back country areas are expected to be back in service by opening day.

Open to night fishing are four lakes in the area: Coyote, Santa Clara County; Nacimiento, San Luis Obispo County; San Antonio, Monterey County, and Mendocino, Mendocino County.

Best bets in the southern end of the Sierra appear to be the south and north forks of the Kern River; the main Kern River below Isabella Lake, and Alder, Cedar, Dry Meadow and Erskine creeks. All will be well stocked and water conditions should be ideal.

In the northern and central portions of the area road conditions will be fair with some roads muddy or closed by snow. Access should be good otherwise.

Famed Crowley Lake, stocked last fall with 300,000 subcatchable rainbows and 17,000 Eagle Lake trout, is braced for the usual largest opening day crowd in the state, and Fish and Game fishery biologists think the optimism is justified.

In a change in rules designed to prevent the extremely heavy harvest of fish on the opening weekend — 10,000 anglers made the opening last year — McGee Bay will be closed to fishing for the first two weeks of the season. The bag and possession limit on Crowley remains seven fish.

Terra Linda's Girl Gymnasts Slate Benefit

The Terra Linda High School girls gymnastics team will present its fifth annual fund-raising demonstration Wednesday at 7:30 p.m. in the main gym.

Gymnastics coach Lyn Avila said yesterday "the girls will demonstrate all the Olympic events." Events include: balance beam, floor exercise, uneven bars and vault.

She added that girl gymnasts from Vallecito and Miller Creek schools will be guest performers along with members of the Terra Linda boys' gymnastics team.

Admission price is 50 cents students, 75 cents adults. Proceeds are earmarked for the girls' team equipment and uniforms.

San Rafael Shares Badminton Crown

San Rafael High School grabbed a share of the Marin County Athletic League girls badminton title yesterday with a 3-2 victory over visiting Tamalpais in a season-ending match.

The teams finished as co-champions with 8-2 records. San Rafael's Michelle Fox, avenging her only loss of the year, took an 11-8, 11-6 victory over Anne Haxton in first singles.

BASEBALL ROUNDUP

42 Homers For Aaron?

By UNITED PRESS INTERNATIONAL

Would you believe a 42-homer season in 1974 and a career total of 755 homers for Hank Aaron?

As Tug McGraw of the New York Mets says, believe.

The 40-year old Atlanta Braves' star, who already has surpassed Babe Ruth's former career record of 714 homers, shows no signs of slowing down his home run pace. In fact, if he continues his current pace he'll actually surpass his 40- homer total of 1973.

Aaron hit his fifth homer of the current season to give the Braves a 3-2 victory over the Pittsburgh Pirates last night. It came in the Braves' 19th game of the season—a pace which, if projected over the full season, would give him a total of 42 and a career mark of 755.

Aaron's No. 5 of 1974 and No. 718 of his career was a two-run shot off Jerry Reuss in the seventh inning Thursday night and overcame a 2-1 Pittsburgh lead. It came after Darrell Evans opened the Braves' seventh by drawing a walk and was delivered on Reuss' first pitch to him. Typically, it was a line drive over the left field fence in Atlanta Stadium.

Los Angeles defeated Philadelphia 1-0, the New York Mets beat San Diego 5-2 and San Francisco downed Montreal 8-2 in other National League games. Texas whipped Boston 4-0 and Kansas City topped the New York Yankees 6-1 in the American League games.

Dodgers 1 Phillies 0

Tommy John pitched a four-hitter to become the majors' first five-game winner of the season.

Mets 5 Padres 2

Jerry Koosman pitched a six-hitter for his third straight win.

Rangers 4 Red Sox 0

Jim Bibby pitched a four-hitter and struck out six, raising his season record to 4-2.

Royals 6 Yankees 1

Vada Pinson drove in two runs with a pair of singles and Paul Splittorff and Doug Bird combined in a two-hitter.

Blue, Palmer Pitch Tonight

BALTIMORE (UPI) — Lefty Vida Blue, the superstar still groping for his first 1974 win, faces Cy Young Award winner Jim Palmer tonight as the Oakland A's call on Baltimore for their first clash since last year's American League playoffs.

While they lead the American League's Eastern Division, the Orioles have had their problems so far with the weatherman. Temperatures have hovered in the 40s and 50s and only 6,292 watched the O's last two home games while two others were protested.

Oakland has been hot-and-cold but its 9-7 record leaves the A's only one game out in a tightly packed Western Division race. Reggie Jackson is off to a fine start with a .393 average, seven homers and 21 runs batted in.

The A's were idle yesterday.

Petaluma Tops Hogan In Golf

Petaluma High School's golfers have been turning in some impressive scores lately.

All four Trojans shot 72 or better yesterday as they upped their North Bay League-leading mark to 7-0 with a 283-322 victory over visiting Hogan (Vallejo).

Rancho Cotate (2-2) lost handily yesterday to visiting Sonoma County League foe Cardinal Newman (Santa Rosa), 387-401. Alan Keller led Petaluma with his second consecutive 69 in league matches.

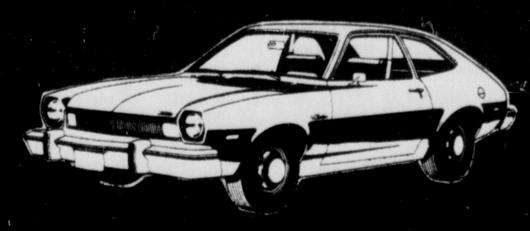

Lacrosse Results

Brine Terra Linda defeated Mt. Tamalpais yesterday, 14-3, in an Ira Markwett Junior League lacrosse game at Mt. Tam's field in Ross.

SUCCESSFUL INVESTING

Investors Seek Facts On Bonds

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. I am interested in Merchant Marine bonds mentioned several weeks ago in your column. Where are these quoted? How do I go about buying them? How much money is needed to invest in them? Is accrued interest paid by the purchaser? Is this reimbursed in the first interest check? — W.H., P.T., H.P., H.H.

A. The particular Merchant Marine bonds discussed in this column were two issued by U.S. Lines. However, Grace Line and Lykes Brothers Steamship also offer AAA-rated government-guaranteed Merchant Marine bonds. All of these are traded over-the-counter and current price quotations must be secured from a brokerage firm. This is also the place to go in order to purchase these securities. Since bonds are usually issued in $1,000 minimums, this amount, plus or minus the current market premium or discount from face value, is the smallest amount you would be able to invest.

Interest which has accrued on a bond up to the time of the transaction is paid by the buyer at purchase. For example: on April 1, you buy a bond paying $80 annually — $40 on the first of January and the balance on the first of July. Since the seller owned the bond for three months of the six-month interest period, he receives half the interest ($20) for that interval. On July 1, you, the new owner, receive a check for the full amount ($40).

Q. We inherited over 100 shares of Atlas Corp. (NYSE) on which we get no dividends. What is your opinion of this stock? — M.C.

Atlas has recently cleared arrears on its preferred shares but no dividend has been paid on the common since 1959. Atlas, a uranium miner and processor, currently generates the bulk of its revenues from its manufacturing and service operations. Nonetheless, it is the company's uranium activities which are the prime attraction for speculators. Trading at $2, the shares may be held for long-term speculation.

QUARTZ CLOCKS

Tiny batteries are installed in new Accuquartz marine navigation clocks at Bulova's plant in Jackson Heights, N.Y. Each battery supplies 14 microwatts of power — less than one four-millionth the amount needed to light a standard 60-watt bulb — to assure 18 months of continuous operation for the clocks. Market Turns Mixed On More Bad News

NEW YORK (UPI) — Stock prices turned mixed after an early gain today, apparently in reaction to a government report the U.S. balance of payments with foreign nations dropped in March and Franklin National Bank's decision to raise its prime rate a half point to 11 per cent.

Trading on the New York Stock Exchange was moderate in light of these developments. Franklin National's move to increase the prime rate—that charged banks to their most creditworthy corporate customers—moved the interest rate to its highest level in history.

This disturbed investors. So did the commerce department report the balance of payments fell in March for the first time in nine months. One encouraging sign, however, was another department report showing that leading economic indicators gained during March.

Glamors had paced the early rise in the market, but began to ease as the session progressed.

Alcoa was the most active issue, off ⅛ at 48 ⅝ on 119,500 shares, including a block of 100,900 shares at 48 ⅜.

Prices were slightly lower in moderate trading on the American Stock Exchange. Hartz Mountain was the most active issue, unchanged at 16 ½ on 21,300 shares.

Silver Prices

NEW YORK (UPI) — Handy and Harman today quoted silver at $5.50 cents per fine ounce, down 24 cents.

Engelhard quoted silver bullion at $5.50 down 24 cents and fabricated silver at $5.56, down 24.2 cents.

News And Food Stand To Open Tomorrow In Former Bus Depot

A news and food stand, which will also serve as an information center, will open tomorrow in Mill Valley, in the old bus depot at Lytton Square.

The Mill Valley Book Depot is owned by Lendon and Cynthia Ganey of San Rafael, who have operated Rafael Book and News next to Rafael Theater in San Rafael for more than three years.

The Mill Valley Book Depot will carry primarily soft cover books and the better literary periodicals, including foreign publications. The sandwich shop, with seating for about 25 customers, will serve salads, sandwiches, soups and coffee, and feature vegetarian food.

"We'll also have local travel maps and information on hiking trails," said Ganey. "We will have a bulletin board where local people can put up notices. We're trying to make this a public information center."

The shop will be open seven days a week from 6 a.m. to 10 p.m. Ben Myron of Fairfax will manage the Mill Valley Book Depot, and Don Taylor, who worked at a Monterey restaurant for many years, will manage the sandwich shop.

"Eventually, we plan to feature Sunday brunches," said Ganey.

Koepke

Boeri

J. C. KOEPKE of Mill Valley has been named vice president of Marcona International, S.A. and Marcona Carriers Ltd., subsidiaries of Marcona Corp., San Francisco.

Koepke serves as general manager, marine operations division, for Marcona and is primarily responsible for the company's ocean transport fleet. Marcona Corp. is an international shipping, mining and resource development firm.

GIULIO P. BOERI of Mill Valley was elected president of the Board of Trade of San Francisco at the 97th annual meeting held Wednesday.

Boeri, manager of credit and collections for The Clorox Co., succeeds retiring president Richard A. Meyerhoff of San Francisco. The Board of Trade of San Francisco is an association of wholesalers, manufacturers and distributors of Northern and Central California.

RED BOY PIZZA opened this week in downtown San Rafael at 1115 Fourth Street, former location of Devan's Jewelers.

Owners Peter H. and Kathleen L. Forstner completely remodeled and refurbished the interior, with tables and tablecloths to serve almost 50 customers.

"We have the only woodfired, brick oven in the Bay Area," said Forstner. "The last one in the area closed about 20 years ago in San Francisco."

The new Red Boy Pizza serves pizza, ravioli, spaghetti, sandwiches, minestrone soup, and beer and wine including imported beer on draft. Operating seven days a week, the shop is open from 11 a.m. to 12 midnight Sunday through Thursday and 11 a.m. to 2 a.m. on Friday and Saturday.

San Rafael's Red Boy Pizza is the largest of the three owned by the Forstners. They opened their first one in San Francisco four and one-half years ago and their second in the Alpha Beta Shopping Center in Larkspur last June.

AUTO PARADE — Don't forget the annual spring Auto Show Sunday at Strawberry Town & Country Village, where the latest model cars, trucks and recreational vehicles will be on parade.

The all-day show (10 a.m. to 5 p.m.) is free to the public, and customers have an opportunity to win prizes including the grand prize of a thousand dollars toward the purchase of any vehicle from a participating dealer. Added attractions include specialty and classic cars, and spring and summer fashion previews in many of the stores at Strawberry Town & Country Village.

HANSEL & GRETEL Home Services, a new firm that will take care of your home, pets and plants while you are away, opened this week in San Anselmo.

"We give you peace of mind while you are away," said Ricky Bryant, who operates Hansel & Gretel from her San Anselmo home. "We will feed your pets, walk them and talk to them. At the same time, we can take care of your indoor plants and leave your home in spic and span order when you return, and your refrigerator stocked with basic needs if you arrive late."

Originally from Holland, Miss Bryant came to the United States in 1958 and worked for eight years as a stewardess for Slick Airways. She also managed an art gallery, worked in a personnel agency as a consultant, and for the past three years has been doing office work and animal care at a veterinary clinic.

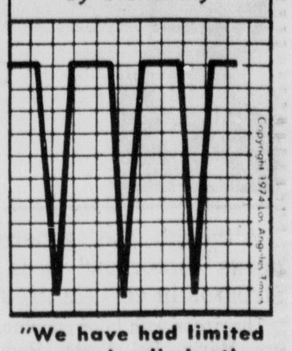

RICHARD C. RAYMOND of Novato has been promoted to assistant manager of the new Napa office of Fidelity Savings and Loan Assoc. He was also named assistant secretary of the association.

Raymond joined Fidelity Savings one year ago and has been a loan officer at the San Rafael office. Before joining Fidelity, he was a real estate appraiser.

DALE FUGER, owner of San Anselmo Auto Body at 640 Sir Francis Drake Boulevard in San Anselmo (next to Chez Pierre restaurant), will be honored next Wednesday, the 25th anniversary of his founding the body shop.

His friends and employees plan to present Fuger with a gift for a quarter century of service to the community. Fuger, active in the auto business for 43 years and also an airplane pilot and champion motorcycle racer in his younger days, opened his San Anselmo shop on May 1, 1949, and has been at the same location since.

DINING OUT AND INNS

By HARRY CRAFT

Marin Dining And Wining

A FAMILY AFFAIR — Pierre Bitterer (right), owner of Chez Pierre in San Anselmo, newest addition to Marin's community of restaurants, prepares flaming dish for his wife, Dottie, who serves as hostess, and his son, Roland, who is the restaurant's chef.

(Photo by Alfred M. Arn)

Chez Pierre In San Anselmo Is Offering Haut Cuisine Francaise

Restaurateurs are as different from each other as a cross section of any class of businessmen.

Often they don't see eye to eye in spite of their common vocational background. They are critical of each other. But they do respect one another's professional ability and they do respect hard work and dedication.

The newly opened Chez Pierre on Spaulding Avenue, San Anselmo, will be watched as closely by restaurant men as by dining-outers. Owner Pierre Bitterer knows it. It doesn't bother him because he would do the same in a reversed situation. And he's dedicated to his particular type of food service.

There are some who believe this is not the right location for haute cuisine Francaise. They say it's hard for strangers to find; that the parking is difficult and they say this and they say that. Pierre doesn't believe it. Judging from his opening nights last week, quite a few people have managed to find it. Pierre hired a parking valet, who keeps narrow Spaulding Avenue clear and accessible. Voila — two complaints are resolved.

So what else? Pierre will probably find the answer. I didn't believe he'd be able to open as quickly as he did. It wasn't easy, but he's been open a week.

What he had is a very pleasant restaurant, seating maybe 80, and lounge, beautifully decorated and with the best view you can find in this area. He and his family with him — wife Dottie as hostess and son Roland as chef.

He offers nine a la carte entrees which translate into English as boneless stuffed squab, stuffed poached sole in wine sauce, baby lobster with chartreuse, roast duckling with peaches, sauteed port chops with Gruyere cheese, veal steak with dill and cucumbers, lamb filet with tarragon and Calvados, pepper steak with green peppercorns folded in a crepe and a filet mignon with mushrooms. The first is $5.85 and the last is $8.85, and the rest are in between. Since nobody orders just an entree, your tab will run anywhere from $9 to $15 per person — more with wine.

But make no mistake — you'll have good food. We found the veal delicious. And for a more moderate expenditure (modest these days) there is a "plat du jour" special at $7.50, which includes soup or salad, dessert and coffee.

IT HAS BEEN SUGGESTED by one reader that in mentioning specific dishes I also give their prices.

I do this occasionally, although I admit a preference to quoting an across-the-board price range, particularly with well known dishes. Comparable restaurants may have comparable entrees, yet the portions may be different, with the prices varying from 5 to 50 cents. And this can go both ways when you check out the entire menu.

A National Restaurant Association survey has found a recent tendency among restaurants toward selective portion control and some operators are finding it possible to reduce the amount of food without reducing quality. This is, of course, a result of the fantastic jump in food costs during the past year or so. I don't like to pit one restaurant's cost accounting methods against antoher's. One may offer veal scallopini at $4.50 and another at $4.75, figuring the markup according to different portions or overhead factors or other variables.

I find that most diners-out choose a restaurant because of its general price range, quality — or because they simply like to go there. And you'd be surprised how many of them order the most expensive item on the menu.

SPEAKING OF PRICES, if you were making the rounds about 35 years ago, you may remember that a good steak at that time was $1.25, maybe $1.50 (not $7, $7.50 or $8) — and that was on the complete dinner.

Eugene Lackenbach, who has Eugene's Country Club Restaurant in San Rafael and will soon check off his 50th anniversary in restaurant management, has dug up some 1939 menus at his own place in Detroit and also of the Detroit Yacht Club, whose food operation he also managed.

Would you believe that a large broiled live lobster, along with a choice of appetizers, soups, salads and desserts — not to mention vegetables and potatoes — went for $1.75? Rack of lamb was one buck and wiener schnitzel was $1.20, both with the same accessories. A special New Year's dinner at $1.25 offered a choice of turkey, prime rib, chicken or frog legs — along with a quarter of a page of side selections.

I have some recollections of those days but not so long ago (14 years maybe) Robert Charles at his Fleur de Lys served a Mother's Day dinner at $4.95 which included a champagne cocktail, soup, salad, choice of chicken with champagne sauce, lobster with cream sauce, veal or beef medallion; also dessert and coffee — and he was considered expensive then. And at about the same time Bob's of Marin offered a broiled lobster tail dinner at $2.25.

NOW OPEN IN SANTA ROSA is the new Lyon's Restaurant at 2131 County Center Drive near the Sonoma County administration complex.

This is quite a sizable place — over an acre with plenty of parking. The 6,000 square-foot building has two main dining rooms, two counter areas, seating for 170, cocktail lounge and bar, private dining room for up to 30 persons, fireplace and bookshelves. It has a staff of 60.

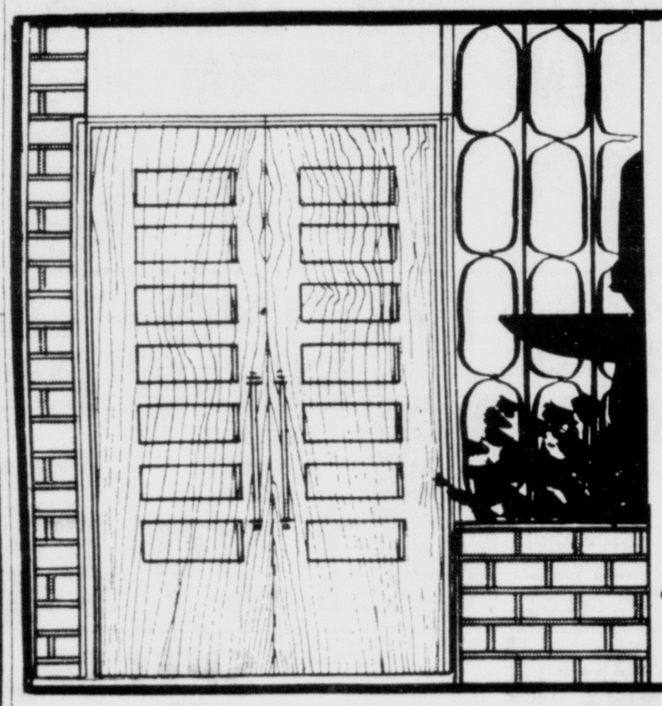

Breakfast, lunch and dinner are served 24 hours a day, with a choice of 65 items on the menu. Each weekday four breakfast specials, two lunch and two dinner specials are offered. Prices are in the same range as at the two Lyon's restaurants in Marin — all the way from $1.25 to $4.25.

COMES NOW THE SEASON of the bay dinner cruises. The Tiburon Champagne Dinner Cruise starts Tuesday and will continue every Thursday night until the end of October.

There will be no Friday night cruises this year and only one Thursday night cruise, leaving Pier 43½ at Fisherman's Wharf, San Francisco at 7 p.m. There will be champagne and dancing aboard one of the Harbor Tours boats and dinner at your choice of the Dock, El Borro, Sam's, Tiburon Tommie's of the Windjammer in Tiburon. Price is $13 for the package.

There will also be a Saturday and Sunday lunch cruise starting next week and everyday June through September. Price is $7.25.

I understand there's an angle to these Tiburon cruises for Marin residents. Leave your car parked in Tiburon, take an early boat to Fisherman's Wharf and come back to dinner with the champagne crowd, returning to your own car in Marin (instead of San Francisco) afterward. Contact Tiburon Champagne Dinner Cruise, 1714 Stockton Street, San Francisco for all details and brochure.

HERE'S ANOTHER — the Jack London Wine and Dine Cruise, which starts its 1974 season next Friday, continuing every Friday night until Nov. 1.

Like the Tiburon dinner cruise, it takes you aboard a Harbor Tours boat at Fisherman's Wharf, departing at 7 p.m. There's free champagne and dancing aboard while you cruise to Jack London Square in Oakland and a choice of six restaurants — Bow and Bell, Sea Wolf, the Castaway, Marco Polo, the Mast and Taverna Athena. After leisurely wining and dining you have time to make the rounds of the square before returning to San Francisco. Package price is $11.

For details and brochure write Jack London Wine and Dine Cruise, Pier 45, San Francisco.

Can't Forget

STONE MOUNTAIN, Ga. (UPI) — When it comes to the Civil War, some southerners have neither forgotten nor forgiven. An example of lingering feelings is found in Stone Mountain State Park where the skunk house in a wildlife exhibit is named "Gen. Sherman's Mansion."

Drama Workshop At Sonoma Sets Play

"Ivina, Princess of Burgundia" will be performed by the Sonoma State College drama workshop at 8 p.m. next Wednesday, Thursday and Saturday, and also at noon Thursday and Friday.

The play, which will be staged in Room 76 of Ives Hall of Music, was written 40 years ago by the Polish playwright Witold Gombrowicz.

A college spokesman described it as "a work of art closely akin to a theater of the absurd wonderland."

Robin Jackson, its director, said it "suspends audience and actors in a surrealistic time warp."

Cast members include Sydney Erskine, Duane Solem, Alan Noll, Karla Populus, Kent Weishaus, Rachel Schiller, Bert Carter, Ralph Wilke, Jan Stouber, Naomi Nobles, Dian Phillips, Alan Goldstock, Kathleen Wolfe and John Wesley Siler.

Encounter Group Film Tuesday

A film on a week-long encounter group will be screened at 5 and 7:30 p.m. Tuesday at the Veterans Memorial Auditorium in Cotati.

Titled, "Here Comes Everybody," it documents the techniques used in group therapy sessions to help people vent repressed feelings of fear, anger, inferiority and anxiety, according to a spokesman.

The program is sponsored by Insight Exchange, a Mill Valley nonprofit educational media group.

One Burglar Very Generous

CHICAGO (UPI) — John Daugherty is a burglar, Chicago police have charged, but apparently a generous one.

He is accused of breaking into a service station Wednesday night and pumping 102 gallons of gasoline into the car tanks of 14 of his friends before closing down for the night.

Daugterty, 21, was charged with one count of burglary.

Kennedy Loses Percentage Points

By GODFREY SPERLING JR.
The Christian Science Monitor News Service

WASHINGTON — A new Monitor survey of Democratic leadership across the United States shows that Sen. Edward M. Kennedy has suffered a dramatic dip in support for the 1976 presidential nomination.

As of now only 38 per cent of the 103 state chairmen and national committeemen who responded to a Monitor questionnaire see Kennedy as the man out front for 1976.

Last November a similar survey, with 98 leaders responding, showed 77 per cent viewing Senator Kennedy as the frontrunner.

Watergate clearly was the factor shaping this downgrading of Kennedy. These Democratic leaders who have changed their minds now are convinced that they need a "Mr. Clean" as a candidate and that because of Chappaquiddick Kennedy no longer should be given consideration.

Said one state committeewoman from the West: "There must be a new face. The problem is for one to emerge in the face of the Kennedy holding tactic. I believe Kennedy is unelectable."

SEN. EDWARD KENNEDY
One says: 'Unelectable'

Said a Midwest national chairman: "Kennedy's blemishes now stand out because of Watergate. I was for him before. But if he is nominated, he will be haunted by Chappaquiddick. He's the wrong man for the times."

In previous Monitor surveys since 1972, including last November's, Kennedy has monopolized almost all of the "frontrunner" votes. Support for others, like Sens. Henry M. Jackson of Washington and Walter F. Mondale of Minnesota was small and inconsequential.

But in the new survey Jackson emerges as a strong runner-up for the nomination, picking up "first choices" among 25 per cent of these leaders.

Following Jackson is Mondale with 17 per cent.

Others receiving 4 per cent or less and in this order are Sen. Birch Bayh of Indiana, Sen. Edmund S. Muskie of Maine, Sen. Lloyd Bentsen of Texas, Arkansas Gov. Dale Bumpers, and Sen. Frank Church of Idaho.

Those with one vote each are Georgia Gov. Jimmy Carter, Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey of Minnesota, Sen. George McGovern of South Dakota, Illinois Gov. Daniel Walker, and Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace.

Other significant elements in the survey:

Forty-six of the leaders said they thought a darkhorse candidate would emerge in 1976. Forty-three said "no" to this question. The remainder did not answer.

Wallace's low standing in this survey is to be contrasted with polls of the Democratic rank-and-file which show him a strong second to Kennedy as its choice for the 1976 presidential nomination.

Mondale showed the most residual strength in the poll; that is, he was the man that most of these leaders said would be their "second choice" if they did not get the one they wanted.

Mondale had 25 per cent of the second choices; Jackson was next with 16 per cent; and Kennedy third with 10 per cent. The remainder of the second choices was scattered among 11 other men, Gov. Reubin Askew of Florida getting the most, 6. He had received no first-choice support.

Among those who see Kennedy's nomination there was a continuous thread of conviction that this would happen.

For example a leader from the East penned in this comment:

In my view there is no way he (Kennedy) can be prevented from being nominated if he chooses to run. I do not think there is any chance for Wallace and very little for Jackson."

Wrote a leader from the Deep South: "Right now it looks as though Kennedy has it locked up."

But typical of those leaders who saw the party looking elsewhere than Kennedy in 1976 was this comment from a key Democrat from the West:

"I believe the voters will look toward a person who has great integrity, honesty, and a moral sense of his obligation to serve the best, highest interests of those who elect the next president of the United States."

Artist To Present Talk, Slide Show

Artist Sas Colby, a maker of banners, body coverings, boxes and masks, will present a free lecture and slide show at 5 p.m. next Friday in Room 1003 of Stevenson Hall at Sonoma State College.

The slides will show her work, as well as costumes from earlier times and other items the artist uses as inspiration.

Poet Will Read At Sonoma State

Marin poet Diane Diprima will read her works at 8 p.m. Wednesday in the quiet lounge at Sonoma State College in Rohnert Park.

She is the author of "The New Handbook of Heaven," "Earthsong," "Revolutionary Letters" and "The Calculus of Variation."

The reading is sponsored by the Rhymers Club and Women's studies program at the college.

Jail Sentence For Stabbing Is Suspended

A Foster City man who complained about the food cooked by a San Anselmo friend, then stabbed her, has escaped a jail term in his guilty plea to misdemeanor assault.

William Jay Thompson, 35, was given 90 days in jail Monday by Superior Court Judge Charles Read Best, but the judge suspended the sentence, placing Thompson on one year's probation.

He also ordered Thompson to pay a $315 fine and reimburse the victim, Rochelle Domenic, for medical bills.

San Anselmo police said Thompson was a dinner guest at Miss Domenic's house Feb. 6 when he complained about bad food, grabbed a knife, and chased her from the home, stabbing her in the back as she fled.

AUTO SHOW '74

AT STRAWBERRY TOWN & COUNTRY VILLAGE

Highway 101, Tiburon-Belvedere Turn-Off, Mill Valley

SUNDAY APRIL 28 10AM-5PM

★A $1000 CHECK WILL BE GIVEN TOWARDS THE PURCHASE OF A CAR FROM ANY OF THE PARTICIPATING DEALERS.

CINDY CHOSE A VEGA

Wide stance and a low center of gravity contribute to the roadability of the Chevy Vega Notchback LX. Disc brakes are wear sensored to make noise to signal you if there's a need for brake lining attention. Cindy Niemeijer went to Campbell-Bishop Chevrolet in Corte Madera to look at the 1974 models, and finally decided on the Vega will substitute as a work car as well as a pleasure car. Cindy, who was recently promoted to assistant manager at the Little Daisy in Strawberry's Town and Country Village, is wearing a blue print, sleeveless dress worn with a tie front jacket in polyester and cotton. The design is by Jody T from the Little Daisy collection.

THE FORD TRADITION

The three-door Pinto Runabout reflects Ford's more than half century of experience in designing and manufacturing small cars that are economical and durable. At Lyons-Ryan Ford in San Rafael, cute Stacy Alvarado, who assists at the Marin Music Centre in the Strawberry Town & Country Village, is anticipating a ride in the Ford Runabout with sun roof. Stacy is modeling a floral print, long dress, influenced by the Islands, at the Polynesian House in the Village.

Big Auto Show Is Sunday

The latest in cars, trucks and recreational vehicles will gather in one giant auto showroom this coming Sunday at Strawberry Town and Country Village in Mill Valley.

It's Marin's annual spring car show, the "Greatest Show On Wheels," sponsored by the Independent-Journal and Strawberry Town & Country Village. The show, open to the public free, will run from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Among the many attractions will be a grand prize of $1,000 in cash toward the purchase of any vehicle from any one of the dealers participating in the Auto Show.

The annual auto extravaganza gives shoppers a chance to view and compare vehicles of all sizes, models and colors in one convenient location. Some classic vehicles and specialty cars such as those that run on diesel and propane will join the parade of 1974 models from all of Marin's leading automobile dealers.

"Many of the collector cars will come from our members of the new car industry in Marin," announced Jim Webb, Auto Show coordinator.

A special preview of spring and summer fashions will be presented by the various shops at Marin Town & Country Village in conjunction with the auto show. Skampper the Squirrel, mascot from Empire Chevrolet, will help entertain the customers.

THE REGAL—SLEEKLY DESIGNED

Nothing was left unconsidered in building the exclusive 1974 Buick Century Regal on show at Don Collins Buick on Francisco Boulevard, San Rafael. Theresa Graham from the Village Sweet Shoppe in the Strawberry Town and Country Village, admired the beautifully tailored lines of this coupe with a 350 cubic-inch, two-barrel, V-8. Theresa's two-piece fashion is as original as the Buick. It's a handscreened design by Bernardo in red, white and blue, balloon print from the collection at the Polynesian House.

Litter Is Destructive As Well

Litter is not only unsightly. It can also be destructive.

Cigarette butts and matches that are still burning, according to the National Automobile Club, serve as good examples. Toss such items in our forests at the end of a warm, dry summer and they can start fires that destroy trees and mercilessly kill animals.

Many people throw objects into our waterways. Let's say a boat strikes such a object. That boat can become involved in an accident and get damaged. And its passengers can be seriously injured or killed.

Other people think nothing of throwing broken glass or sharp objects on beaches. Countless serious injuries have resulted from such misconduct.

Don't you be a litterbug. Throw all waste materials in the proper receptacles. Help keep America beautiful and safe.

Unsafe At Night

To stay safe at night, points out the National Automobile Club, you should drive only with both headlights lit and working properly. Beware of the one-eyed monster.

We've taken Americans a long ways in the last 25 years alone...

Flowers Of Spring Out In Full Glory

With the dreary winter behind them, spring sparks a new zest for life in motorists. And the delicate flowers now in bloom are largely responsible, embellish landscapes with glorious colors.

Already in March, points out the National Automobile Club, numerous areas throughout northern California started becoming showplaces of bright blossoms. And motorists with a real appreciation for their beauty can hardly wait to go where these welcome signs of spring appear at their very best.

Where the flowers are, amateur and professional photographers also are. They demand a wide selection, get it too. And their crowning glory comes when they capture some unusual specimen.

So grab your camera, hop into your car, and head for choice locations that stimulate you with the wonder of blossomtime. If new at photography, you should not try shooting smaller plants in the beginning. You should take pride in planning interesting angles for shooting such larger flowers as sunflower and milkweed.

Finding choice floral locations should be no problem. Choosing which ones to include on your itinerary might very well be. There are so many.

San Francisco's Golden Gate Park makes a fine example. Once just a wasteland of sand dunes, this green oasis puts on a spectacular springtime display of flowers in all their brilliance. Late March the luscious Japanese cherry trees bloom. And late in April the showy rhododendrons of pink, rose-purple, and even bloodred hues will burst upon the fabulous scene.

As for those hills neighboring the Golden Gate, they turn into a section ablaze with blankets and blankets of golden poppies. Spy the sun shining on the bright faces of these flowers and you will feel a miraculous lifting of your spirits.

That's not all Marin County has to offer in the way of captivating blossoms. Delightful quince, plum, and peach trees bloom there in March.

If your favorite color is blue, as is the case with many people, you surely will enjoy views of the azure lupine along the northern California coast.

Sonoma County shows no lack of blossoms. So popular are the prune trees that blossom near Healdsburg in March, according to NAC, that a special spring blossom tour has been established there. And at Easter time, the apple-growing center known as Sebastopol serves as the start of still another blossom tour, this one of the orchards that bear this delicious fruit and surround the community. The tour covers 44 miles.

Head even farther north in late spring and you can see the beautiful dogwood blossoms in Napa County's Pope Valley, the famous redbuds of Lake County, the fine blooms of Azalea State Reserve in Humboldt County, and the wild rhododendrons and azaleas blooming north of Eureka.

Sparking a new zest for life in motorists is the wonder of blossomtime.

Carmel Is Close And A Delight

Do you like to write fiction, paint natural wonders, or sculpt likenesses of interesting people? If so, you probably have often done some wishful thinking about finding a place where you can really get your creative juices flowing.

Back in 1904, points out the National Automobile Club, a young group of writers and artists wandered over to such a place, one with fantastic trees and a superb beach. Everything there suited them perfectly. They decided to stay. And so today's much talked about, charming Carmel on the Monterey Peninsula came into being as an art colony.

That Carmel is easily accessible, is located 128 miles south of San Francisco, gives you all the more reason to schedule a trip there sometime in the near future.

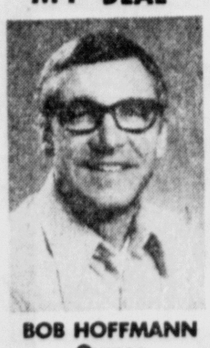

Driving into town is a delight. You go down a picturesque little road, all the while catching glimpses of rustic homes tucked away in the hills.

It takes only a matter of minutes to reach the heart of Carmel. Quaint shops, art galleries, and restaurants have exteriors that seem to be straight out of fairy tales.

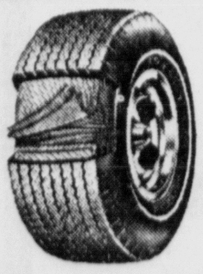

Once you get to the beach itself, combine walking on the sand with wading in the surf, you'll agree with others that breaking away is hard to do.

Now you can go to Santa Cruz or the Russian River or Clear Lake and get back again.

On one tank of gas.*

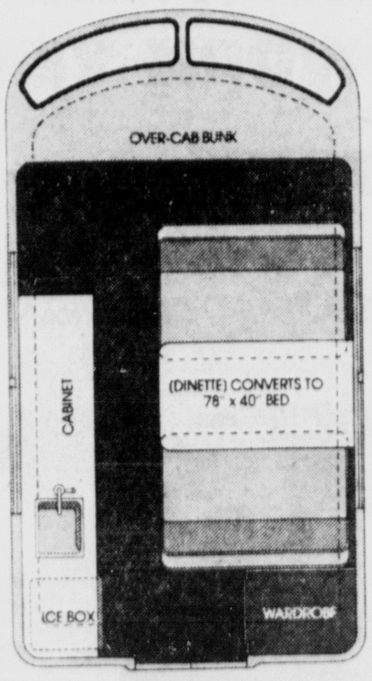

Introducing the Toyota-Chinook Round Tripper.

It takes you just about anywhere within a 120 mile radius and back again! On one 13.7 gal. tank of gas.

That's something you wouldn't expect from a bigger camping vehicle. But this one gets over 19 miles per gallon! (Tests, verified by an independent testing laboratory, were conducted over mountain roads, city streets and freeways in Southern California.)

Yet, you still get the basics you expect in the bigger vehicles. Like a sink. A dinette. An ice box. Carpeting. And a couple of beds.

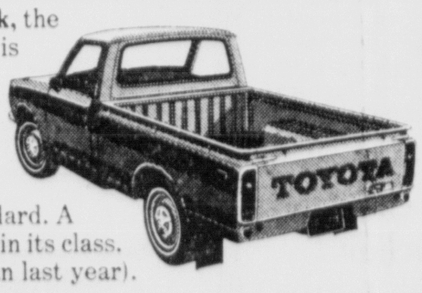

*Distances were measured, according to the AAA, from city hall to city hall by the most direct route. Actual gas mileage, of course, depends on personal driving habits and road conditions.

It's fully integrated, too. Just walk back through the cab and pop up the top for over six feet of headroom.

The Long Bed 2000 Half-Ton truck, the solid foundation the Round Tripper is built on, was chosen "1974 Pickup Truck of the Year" by Pickup, Van and 4-Wheel Drive magazine. Its bed is a foot longer than you'll find on any other small pickup. You get a powerful 1968cc engine, standard. A 4-speed transmission. Biggest tires in its class. Big cab (4 inches more legroom than last year). And much more.

A FAMILY OR BUSINESS WAGON

Theresa Graham from the Village Sweet Shoppe is testing the room in the back of the economy Pinto Wagon at J & B Ford on Paradise Drive, Corte Madera. She doesn't have her measuring tape with her but she agrees there must be 60 cubic feet of cargo capacity. The blue denim, slacks and matching top she is wearing was selected from the fashions at Motherhood Maternity in the Strawberry Town and Country Village. The jacket yoke is embroidered with red thread and is worn over a light and airy top from Motherhood.

COMFORT AND SAFETY

Toyota's top-of-the-line, the six-cylinder Mark II at Dexter Toyota in San Rafael, catches the eye of Jean Culmer, store manager of the Daisybug in Strawberry Town & Country Village. Mark IIs feature fully reclining bucket seats with center console in front. Heavy duty battery and starter plus aluminized muffler are standard; power steering is optional. Jean Culmer is modeling a pantsuit outfit in luscious peach by Leslie J. at the Daisybug.

LUXURY IN ALL ITS FINEST

The Continental Mark IV Lincoln, classically beautiful, sophisticated luxury, legend in its own time — these are a few descriptive words associated with this remarkable American automobile. Here, at Marin Bay Lincoln-Mercury on 475 Francisco Boulevard, San Rafael, Jean Culmer, manager of the Daisybug in the Strawberry Town & Country Village, decided to indulge herself with a luxurious Continental. Jean is modelling a two piece, peach colored outfit selected from the Daisybug. The top is wraparound with billowy sleeves. Leslie J. is the designer-manufacturer.

THE SOUND SILENCER

The "super-quiet" sound package for 1974 is Chrysler-built into the Plymouth Satellite Sebring Plus at Francisco Dodge Center in San Rafael. The sound package includes sound-deadening materials which surround you such as on the car's floor and in the door trim panels, and a quiet exhaust system. Erika Meier, owner of K. Myers Fabrics in Strawberry's Town and Country Village, models a black and white, wool pantsuit made from her store's fabrics, imported and domestic. This outfit is cut from Pendleton wool.

Don't Make Your Auto A Temptation To Thief

All the temptation the thief needed that foggy night was to pass by a flashy car parked on a dimly lit street, a fairly new model with some fancy clothes and expensive luggage on the backseat.

Finding the car's door unlocked and the key in the ignition, he had it made and took quick action. Away he raced with the car to parts unknown.

How not to tempt car thieves, according to the National Automobile Club, should be very much on your mind. That is, if you want to keep what rightfully belongs to you.

Above all, you should guard against the carelessness that leads to so many car thefts.

To do such guarding, here's what it takes:

Do park on well-lighted, busy streets.

Do put all attractive items in your car's trunk.

Do remove the key from the ignition.

Do close all the windows.

Do lock all the doors.

Do limit the period you leave your car parked somewhere or at least check up on it from time to time.

Advantages To Early Boat Starts

Getting an early start in boating means getting numerous advantages.

There's the advantage of uncrowded lakes and the like, of fish becoming active as waters warm up, of photogenic wildlife and blossoming foliage.

Besides all that, points out the National Automobile Club, you can be among the first boatsmen in line for maintenance and tune-up services.

Why not treat yourself and your family to early boating? You will already have shared memorable experiences as other families just sit back and turn their thoughts to this exciting sport.

Not An Obscene Auto Sticker

Driving leisurely around Philadelphia in a small sports car, this woman was stopped by a traffic officer for no apparent reason.

On her bumper, reports the National Automobile Club, was a sticker that read "Eschew Obfuscation."

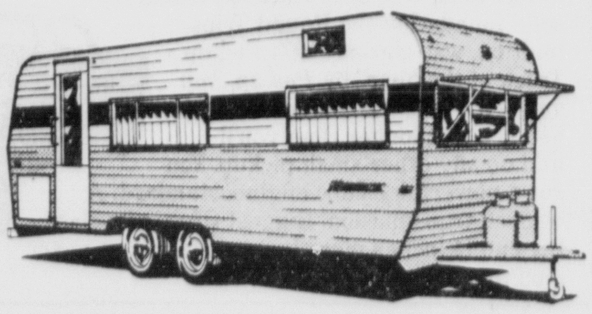

Well, when that sticker caught the eye of the puzzled officer, he didn't hesitate to stop her to check out its meaning. He thought it was perhaps an obscene slogan.

Seceded Once

Rough and Ready in California's Mother Lode country is reported by National Automobile Club to have once seceded from the Union.

50,000 MILES 3 YEARS

MAZDA INTRODUCES A LONGER ENGINE WARRANTY.

After 14 years of development and almost three-quarter of a million cars on the road, the rotary engine has proven to be so dependable, we now warrant the engine for 50,000 miles or 3 years.

That's about three times longer than the average car on the market. The only cars with an equivalent length engine warranty are those built by Rolls Royce.

Mazda also gives you a feature that can't be matched anywhere . . . the rotary engine. The rotary engine makes Mazda smooth, quiet and responsive.

If you're concerned about economy, the Mazda is economical. Better mileage than many small cars you associate with good mileage. A recent mileage test by Motor Trend* showed on the cars tested that the Mazda RX-4 Hardtop, with standard transmission, gets about the same fuel economy as the Gremlin with automatic, better than the Chevy Nova automatic or the Mustang II V-6 stick shift, and far better than the Dodge Dart automatic.

We believe Mazda offers you the best balance between fuel economy, price, size, emission control and performance. Plus quality and proven reliability.

A breakthrough car deserves a breakthrough warranty. Mazda doesn't just talk about reliability, we back it up with an exceptional engine warranty. The warranty is free on all new Mazda RX-2s, RX-3s, and RX-4s sold on or after March 26, 1974. Mazda now offers a non-transferable warranty that the basic engine block and internal parts will be free of defects, with normal use and prescribed maintenance, for 50,000 miles or 3 years, whichever occurs first, or Mazda will fix it free.

Neglect Of Engines Causes Fuel Waste

Motorists' neglect of their car engines is wasting an estimated 3.8 billion gallons of gasoline a year, according to the Car Care Council.

The Council says this gasoline wastage is the result of more than 60 million cars in the U.S. which are operating with engines in need of corrective service.

The average of 101 million cars in the nation uses 769.2 gallons of gasoline annually. The three out of five with engines out of tune waste an average of 8.2 per cent fuel, the Council reports.

In addition to saving fuel, needed engine maintenance would help reduce the amount of pollutants in the air. The same malfunctions that increase fuel consumption also help produce excess harmful emmissions.

Carburetion problems that cause an imbalance of air-fuel mixture both waste gasoline and create excess carbon monoxide. Ignition system malfunctions dump unburned gasoline into the atmosphere and create unnecessary amounts of airborne hydrocarbons.

To generate motorists' help in solving these two serious problems, voluntary Vehicle Emission Check Lanes are being held throughout the country beginning in April. Assorted citizen groups including the Jayces, AAA, the American Lung Association, AT & T Telephone Pioneers and local members of the automotive service industry are the guiding forces in executing the nationwide program.

Motorists are urged to cooperate or to have an engine check on their own, particularly if it has been more than six months since the last one.

An Executive Of Ford Eyes Future

Automotive lifestyles will be at "whole new ball game" 20 years from now, a Ford Motor Co. executive predicted in New York.

Fred G. Secrest, Ford executive vice president - operations staffs, said in a panel presentation for the conference board that the automobile industry will make "sizeable changes" in its products by 1980 and will be "alive and healthy" in 1995 with the public byying new and energy-efficient cars in record numbers.

He added that the auto industry will be strong in 1995 because it will have "adapted to the energy challenge and "developed new technology (although it does not come overnight)."

"There are more than 90 million cars and 21 million trucks on the road today," he said. "Replacing them with more efficient (not just more attractive) new models will result in a healthy growth industry."

He added that "energy conservation still will be key to automobile design and use" in 1995 but that automobile sales will be good because "people still will want the freedom and convenience of personal mobility."

"Increases in car pooling, in the use of public transit and in bicycle riding may be lasting," he said, "but will have only modest impact on car ownership and usage. Higher gasoline prices and the shift toward cars that are smaller, or get better gas mileage, are here to stay."

"The challenge to the car industry," Secrest said, "is to design big cars that will get 20 miles per gallon."

New Systems Likely To Cut Down Skids

Dangerous skids caused by panic braking may be a thing of the past as new systems developed by special equipment manufacturers become more widely available on cars.

Fastest stopping occurs when the brakes do not "lock" the wheels but slow them almost to that point. This is easier said than done because the amount of force needed to lock the wheels varies with such factors as car speed, road surface, tire inflation and tread condition. Many experienced drivers pump the brake pedal rapidly when stopping on slick surfaces to prevent locking the wheels.

Jamming on the brakes hard enough to lock the wheels will cause skids and increases stopping distances by as much as 15 per cent on dry roads and up to 40 per cent on wet surfaces. If the front wheels lock first, or all four wheels lock simultaneously, the car tends to slide straight ahead but will not respond to movements of the steering wheel. The driver need only release the brakes to regain control.

Skids resulting from the rear wheels locking first are more difficult to control, because the rear of the car tends to swing around. If corrective action — releasing the brakes and steering into the skid — is not quickly taken, the car may spin completely around.

One anti-skid system available as optional equipment on some cars incorporates an automatic brake-pumping feature. Speed sensors monitor the rate that individual wheels slow down when the brakes are applied. When a wheel approaches a lock-up condition, valves in the system momentarily reduce the amount of braking pressure to that wheel even though the driver's foot is pressed hard on the pedal. As the wheel starts to pick up speed, the system permits full pressure to be reapplied to the wheel. This cycle is repeated several times per second until the car comes to a stop.

Another device, a proportioning valve which is standard on cars equipped with disc brakes on the front wheels and drum brakes on the rear, does not prevent wheel lockup, but reduces the possibility of the rear wheels locking first and causing directional instability.

The valve provides more braking force to the front than to the rear wheels. This compensates for a temporary weight transfer to the front of the car that occurs during hard braking.

Registered Vehicles

At the end of 1973, reports the National Automobile Club, California had 15,740,584 registered vehicles.

Tire Maintenance Is Important

Do you think tire defects cause most blowouts? If so, you're wrong.

The real culprits, according to the National Automobile Club, are improper tire maintenance and tire damage by such road hazards as chuckholes and rocks.

Good tire maintenance, then, heads the list of what you can do to avoid blowouts. Tires obviously can't inspect themselves. They need your personal attention. If you save the job for your mechanic to do along with rotating your tires, changing your oil, or lubricating your car, your tires can fail you in the interim.

Proper inflation should be considered in those long looks you take at your tires. Drive on underinflated or overinflated tires and you're asking for trouble. But hold it! Check air pressure, make sure that it matches the recommendation in your owner's manual, only when your tires are cool.

How about the level of the tread? Tires with thread worn down to one-sixteenth inch are considered unsafe and are up to 44 times more likely to go flat. And there's a little trick to finding excessive tread wear. Place a Lincoln penny between the grooves. Look for the top of Lincoln's head. If you see it, the tire is worn too thin. Replace all bald tires without delay or endanger yourself, every passenger in your car, and every motorist you pass on the road.

Smart car owners search their tires for cuts, punctures, and other damages every time they climb into their cars. At the least, this procedure should be followed on a regular basis. And, although a unique combination of steel, rubber, chemicals, and synthetic fibers, tires are subject to costly damage by nails, small stones, or bits of glass embedded in the tread. So you better remove such foreign objects.

Much harm can come to the tire striking a pothole, curb, or other object with sufficient force. Often in such cases, front end alignment also goes out of whack. Besides that, many a motorist finds no visible evidence from the outside that his tire suffered nonrepairable damage that can eventually lead to failure.

Here's where your actual driving comes in. Yes, you too can avoid those undersirable aftereffects of forcefully hitting rocks and the like. That is, if you try. Just slow down, advices NAC, on bad roads.

Improper tire maintenance and tire damage by such road hazards as chuckholes cause the greatest percentage of blowouts.

Include A First Aid Kit In Car

Whenever you go by car, you should take along your all-important first aid kit.

Should personal injury result from a traffic accident, reminds the National Automobile Club, your first-aid kit is a natural for helping to save the day.

And your first-aid kit has other valuable uses too. You can discover those uses with a little stretch of the imagination.

Want to make repairs? Adhesive tape comes in handy for that. Want to write an emergency message? Antiseptic like iodine works out well.

With a first-aid kit in your car, you are better prepared for life on the road.

Signal Clearly

Leave other drivers in the dark about your intended maneuvers, warns the National Automobile Club, and you leave yourself wide open for a serious accident. Signal clearly.

Feather River High On List

As far as the wonders of nature go, certain people love mountains or forests the most. A good many others, however, prefer rivers.

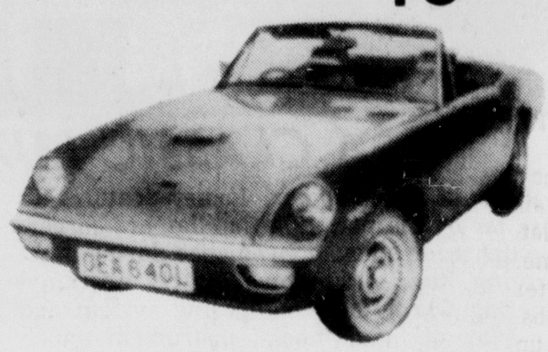

One of the most delightful rivers, according to the National Automobile Club, is California's own Feather River. And the Middle Fork of that river is especially admired and enjoyed.

It stands to reason, then, that this particular fork with a length of 108 miles was included in the National System of Wild and Scenic Rivers in 1968.

SUMMER FUN IN THE BLAZER

The men in Cindy's life would be interested to know that the Chevrolet Blazer she's leaning against at Campbell Bishop Chevrolet in Corte Madera has full-time, 4 wheel drive which eliminates the need for freewheeling hubs. No more getting out to lock or unlock front hubs when moving on or off the highway. New assistant manager at the Little Daisy in Strawberry's Town and Country Village, Cindy Niemeijer is wearing a white cotton, halter top and bluejean shorts with a macrame belt selected from the sportswear collection at Little Daisy. MARKETED IN THE U.S.

The Jensen Healy is one of the most exclusive automobiles built by Europeans and sold on the American market. Little known about the Jensen Healy is that it has a Chrysler engine and transmission allowing for availability of parts and service as compared to other European manufactured autos. Annex Motors in San Rafael indicates the 1974 Jensen will also be available in a convertible model. Standard features include genuine leather seats, AM-FM Stereo radio, and air-conditioning due to the exclusive nature of the Healy. (Photo by Rick Logsdon)

How A Mining Camp Got Unusual Name

In the colorful pages of early California history, unusual incidents involving prospectors with the "get-rich-quick"fever suggested the name for many a new mining camp.

Last Chance was no exception. One version of how this camp in Placer County sprang into existence, points out the National Automobile Club, goes back to 1850.

Motivated by the hunger for riches, a group of hardy men set out to search for gold. Far from civilization, they finally reached a region that looked promising and began digging. Hopes of rich deposits, however, made them stay too long.

Time was running out. With no provisions left, they grew weaker and weaker, came closer to starvation. Fortunately one still had his wits about him. Equally as fortunate, he still had his rifle. Not quite ready to call it quits, he decided to search for game. Bidding farewell to his companions, he remarked, "This is our last chance to make a grubstake."

Fate was on his side, and the others knew it as soon as they saw him with a large deer. And so the revitalized bunch got back to work in all earnestness.

Choose The Gas Your Auto Needs

Miles per gallon of gasoline is an important priority today, but there's another money-saving factory you should consider — using the least expensive gasoline for your make and model car.

You should try the lowest octane fuel your engine will burn without knocking.

The knocking phenomenon — detected as a sharp metallic noise — occurs when the air/fuel mixture burns unevenly inside your car's engine. In addition to causing a loss in power and fuel economy, knocking also can damage expensive engine components.

Octane requirements can vary between individual cars and drivers. An engine that is out of tune, for example, requires a higher octane gasoline than one that is properly maintained.

Driving habits, such as stop and go driving, increases combustion deposit build-up and the octane requirement. Many others factors also can influence the octane requirements of your engine.

The higher the air or engine temperature, the higher octane fuel your car needs. The lower the altitude and the relative humidity, the higher the octane requirement.

Understanding octane ratings can be confusing because different methods of determining the ratings can produce different results. Your owner's amnaul recommends the minimum octane rating of fuel for your particular car. The octane number is listed as Research octane.

Most late-model cars are designed to operate on regular grade fuel, usually specified as 91 octane (Research).

You may find, however, that the owner's manual octane rating for retular gasoline is three or four numbers higher than the regular grade octane rating posted on service station pumps. This is because the octane rating that the Cost of Living Council requires be posted on the pumps is determined differently than the Research method.

The octane rating of gasoline is determined in the laboratory using a specially designed engine.

When the gasoline is tested for engine knocking under mild operating conditions of low engine speed and low fuel/air mixture temperature, the resulting figure is called Research octane. A test run under more severe conditions of higher engine speeds and higher fuel/air mixture temperatures causes the same gasoline to knock sooner and yields a relatively lowoctane rating. This is called Motor octane.

Averaging the gasoline's Research and Motor octane ratings yields the octane number that is posted on the gasoline pumps.

Therefore, don't worry if the octane rating of the gasoline that you buy is a little lower than that recommended for your car — unless your engine starts to knock. In that case, just switch to a slightly higher octane fuel until the knocking stops.

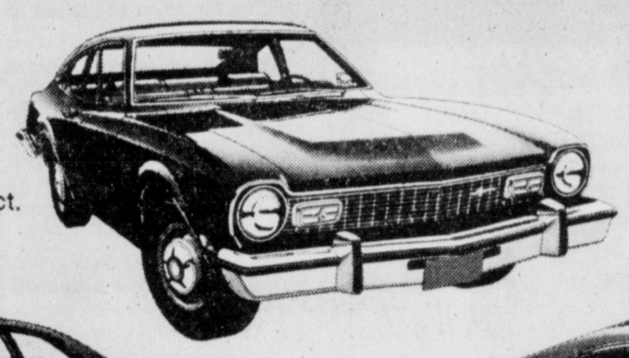

Avoid Monday Morning Blues

Does Monday morning look blue to you?

If the alarm goes off some Monday morning and you delay getting up for a few minutes here and a few minutes there, points out the National Automobile Club, you might try to make up for lost time while behind the wheel and never reach your office at all. A traffic accident might see to that.

Monday morning can look blue to you. No matter what morning it is, however, you should avoid rushing your driving to avoid rushing into a fatal accident.

The 1974 Mazda Rotary Pick-up is now on display at Marin Mazda.

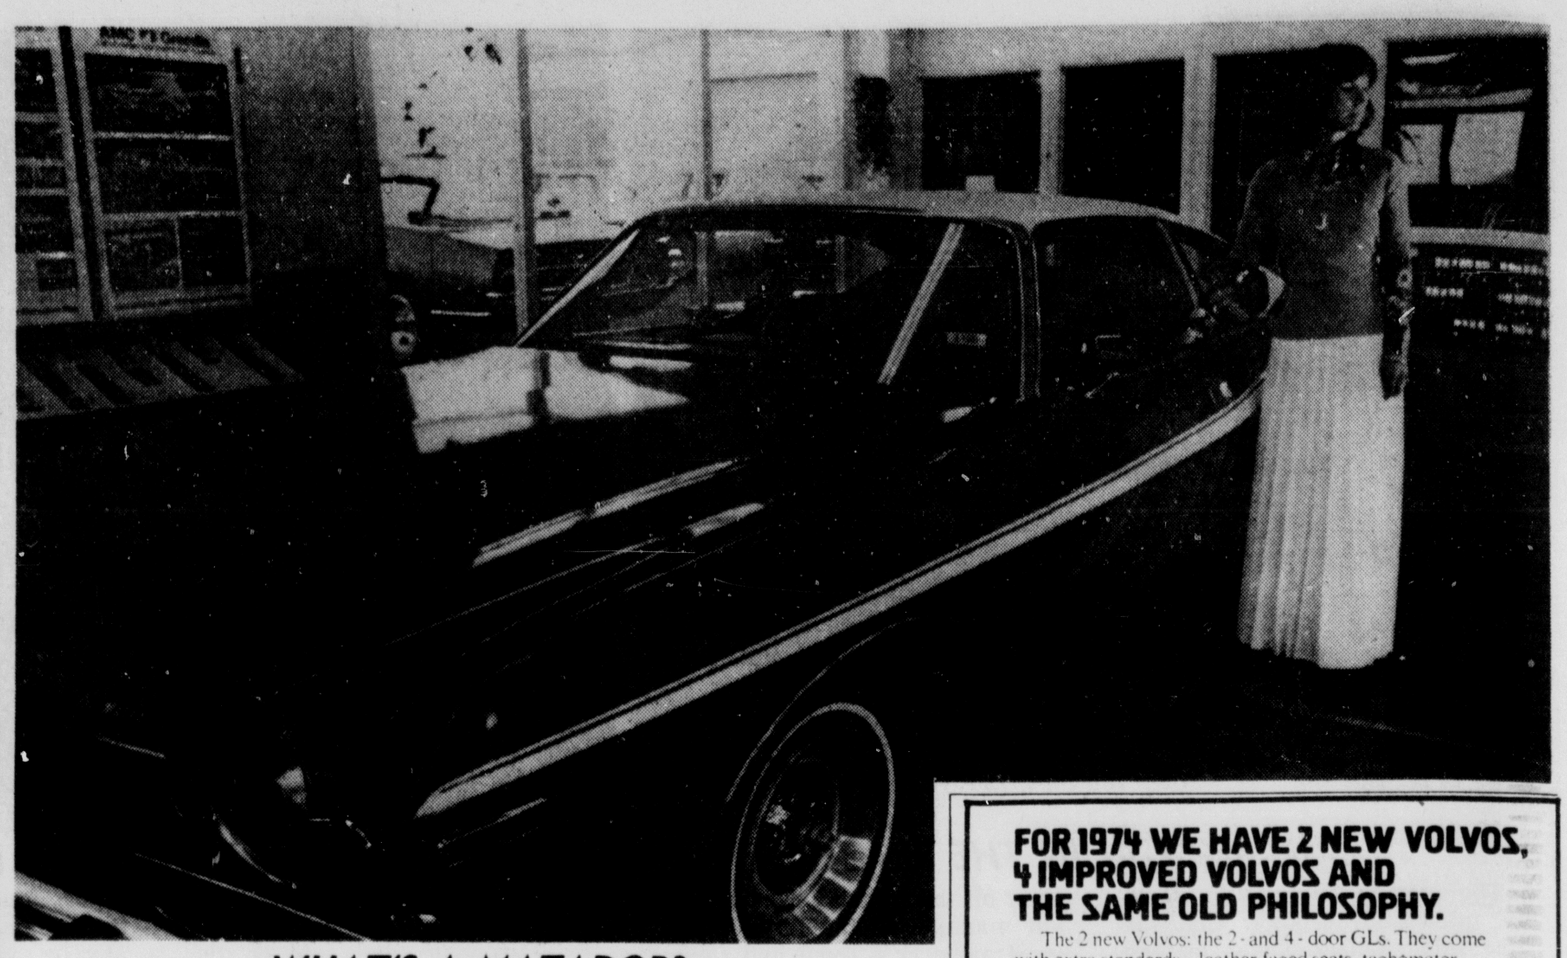

Announcing the first sports machine that can really take it. The Mazda Sport Truck is the first vehicle to combine the best things about a sports car (fun and handling) with the best things about a truck (room and convenience). The Sport Truck is built to out-handle, out-deliver and out-style any pickup truck made. WHAT'S A MATADOR?

The new, midsized car that people are aware of is the Matador X, a hardtop coupe built by American Motors Corp. On the showroom floor at Jay Hollis AMC Jeep in San Rafael, the Matador boasts a distinctive blacked out grille, slot-styled wheels, three-spoke sports steering wheel, a 304 V-8 and automatic transmission — all standard. Jean Culmer, new manager of the Daisybug in Strawberry's Town and Country Village, catches the photographer's eye wearing a long, white pleated skirt with a sporty sweater pulled over a flower splashed blouse, all selected from the Daisybug collection.

The Chuckawalla Lizard Not Known For Bravery

Chances are that in an encounter between a chuckawalla lizard and a human, the reptile will be the more frightened of the two.

Largest nonpoisonous lizard in the desert, points out the National Automobile Club, the chuckawalla behaves in a predictable manner when alarmed. Being a rock dweller, he searches around for the most likely crevice in which to hide.

After making his choice, this harmless lizard does something amazing. He inflates his body, which in a mature specimen can have a length of some 16 inches, until its bulk has increased by about 60 per cent.

And try as you might, you probably won't be able to dislodge the chuckawalla once his inflated body becomes securely wedged between the rocks.

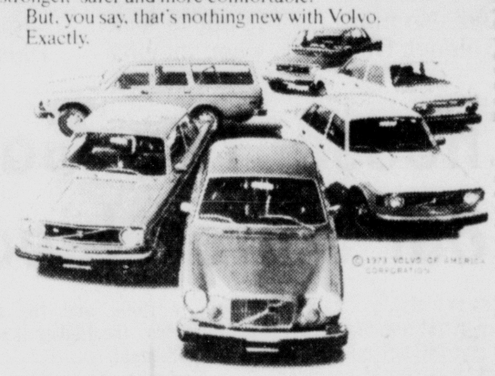

This lizard has other interesting characteristics. Like the chameleon, the chuckawalla can change his colors. Background hues, temperature, and his temper are the deciding factors.

Cadillac '74

See for yourself what makes it America's Number One Luxury Car.

We know it's not enough just telling you Cadillac is first in the luxury class. That in the last model year, more people chose Cadillac than any other luxury car—by the widest margin ever. Or that Cadillac traditionally leads all U.S. car makes in both resale value and owner loyalty. To really appreciate Cadillac leadership, you've got to see the new '74 Cadillacs for yourself. To leisurely take in the crisp, new styling that extends to all nine basic models, including the three you see here. The classic Fleetwood Brougham. The magnificent new version of America's only luxury convertible—Eldorado. The newly styled Coupe deVille, this year highlighted by a new private quarter window. Styling excellence that carries as well to Cadillac's new special edition cars. It's all there for you to enjoy at the show. We hope you'll come. And then afterwards, we hope you'll visit your authorized Cadillac dealer to sample the beauty of Number One in action. Cadillac 1974.

MAKE TRACKS FOR THE NEW 74's FROM LINCOLN-MERCURY.

Marquis Brougham
Today a great ride is just not enough. So we designed the '74 Marquis to be more economical to maintain. Gave it steel-belted radials, standard. And Marquis does not require premium gas.

Montego MX Brougham
This personal-size Mercury is designed to ride like a big car. On an extra-wide stance and the same type suspension system as Lincoln-Mercury's most expensive luxury car. But with the economy of a mid-size car.

Comet with Custom Option
Who says gas economy comes only in plain little cars? Even though Comet's stingy on gas, it's generous on luxury. Because this Comet's got a little Cougar in it. Now you don't have to give up luxury to get gas economy.

Continental Mark IV
The Mark IV continues to be the most distinctive car of this decade. And offers a host of luxury features as standard equipment: AM/FM/MPX stereo radio, six-way power seats, Sure-Track anti-skid braking, plus new sophisticated insulation for an incredibly quiet interior.

Lincoln Continental
The smooth, comfortable ride and ease of handling of the Continentals continue to be one of the great achievements of the luxury car class. And all Continentals ride on steel-belted radial tires. Judge your car by our car.

Make tracks for Lincoln-Mercury's exhibit at the show. There's a complete line of great riding cars at the sign of the cat.

Including Mercury Monterey, the medium-priced car with the famous Mercury ride. And Capri, the sexy European.

See the whole new family of wagons, too. The kind only Mercury could build.

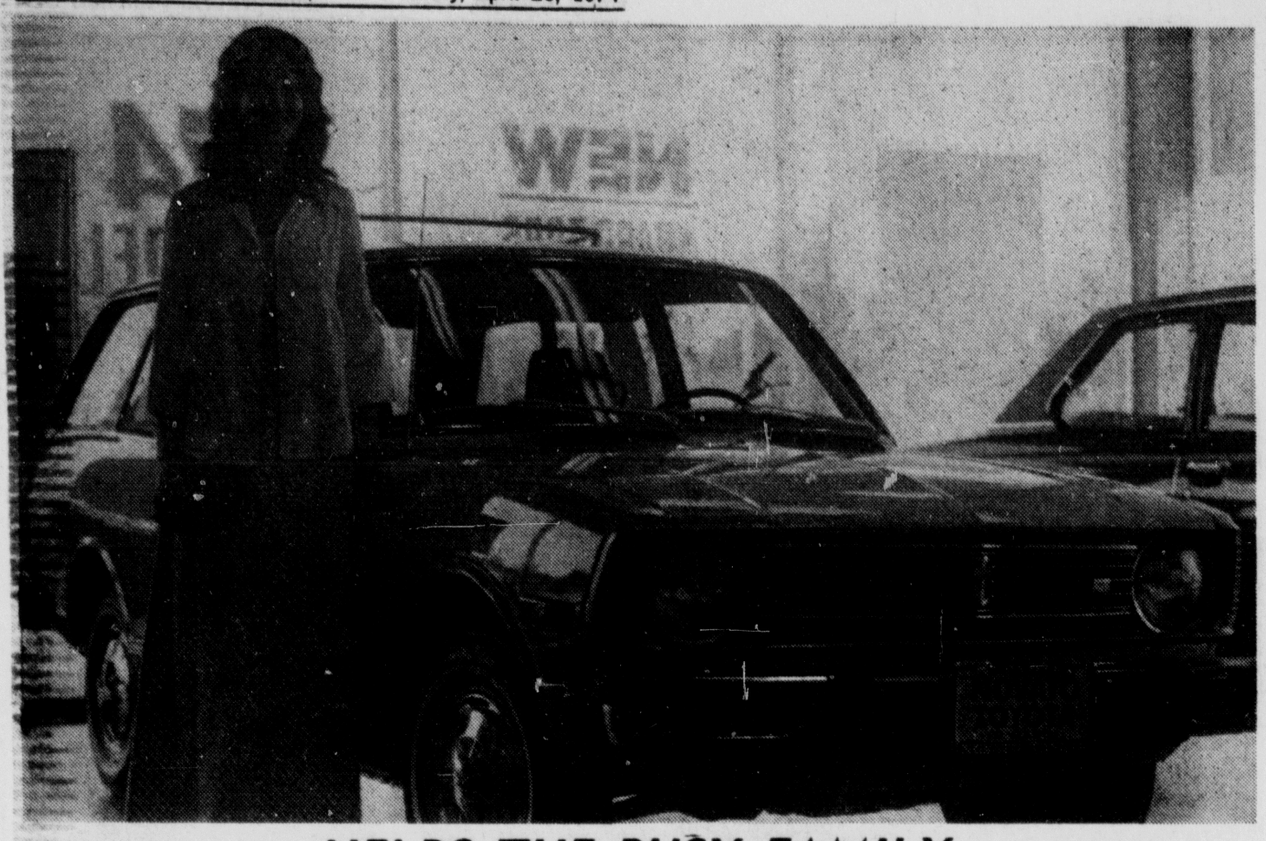

It all happens here at the show. And at your Lincoln-Mercury dealer.

COLLEGIAN STUDENT LIKES SUBARU

Alive and vigorous, control that's equal to the tightest curves and most challenging routes, dependability, agility and a lively response are several of the characteristics of the Subaru GL Coupe. At Subaru Motors in Mill Valley Shelley Klinepier feels the Subaru presents a driving challenge to her that she is ready to take on. She is modeling a sporty jacket in the western style of faded-looking, green cotton by Modern Junior. Her shirt is short sleeved, 100 per cent nylon by Gotham. She selected her style at Littlechix in the Strawberry Town and Country Village.

LIKES THE SPORTY LOOK

Patricia Bloom admires the Datsun 260-Z at Annex Motors in San Rafael. While at Annex she learned that the 260-Z has a bigger 2.6 liter engine, up some 200cc from 1973, a fully independent suspension system and radial tires in addition to rack and pinion steering. She also learned that the Datsun 260-Z has won three national SCCA Championships. Aside from all the technical information, Pat just simply enjoys the low-slung, handsome design of the Datsun. Pat, who assists at James Sears of Marin in the Strawberry Town and Country Village, chose the Great Gatsby look of pants and jacket by John Meyer in polyester-silk from the Sears collection.

High performance cars, the BMW 3-liter Series, Bavaria and BMW 3.0S prove that luxury today is no longer enough. Since 1916 Bavarian Motor Works have built their automobiles to lead the way in higher standards of safety, performance, and interior comfort design. In addition, a triple-hemispherical, swirl action combustion chamber permits more complete burning of the fuel-air mixture, which means greater fuel mileage. At Mill Valley Imports on Miller Avenue in Mill Valley Shelley Klinepier, active model for Littlechix in Strawberry Town and Country Village, wears a navy blue, brushed cotton pantsuit with an attractive flower design at yoke and pants. The jacket is semifitted and red nylon shirt is by Gotham.

1974 Pontiac Grand Prix.
The latest greatest! New classic styling. Sporty handling and performance. New luxurious interiors. Obviously, we're out to make you dissatisfied with whatever you're driving.

1974 Pontiac Formula Firebird.
Part engineering. Part soul. Exciting new front end with blacked-out grille. Sporty hood scoops. 350 V-8 and floor-shifted 3-speed. Dual exhausts. This one's for people who take the fun of driving seriously.

1974 Pontiac Luxury LeMans.
The name says it all. Comfortable luxurious interior. New formal window (with or without available vinyl top). Pontiac V-8 performance. Smooth Wide-Track ride. All the luxury you want without buying more car than you need.

1974 Pontiac Grand Am.
The great handling of fine imports combined with great Pontiac innovation. Like a squeezable nose. And special bucket seats. That's foreign intrigue . . . American ingenuity.

1974 Pontiac Bonneville.
It's a little more car. With a distinctive new chrome grille. Fantastic new visibility. Handsome new tweed and Morrokide interior trims. Pontiac's 400 V-8. A great Wide-Track ride. For people who still enjoy driving.

Options Let You Outfit Car Just As You Want It

The motor vehicle industry goes to great lengths to assure that — when you buy a new car — there is something available to suit everyone's basic needs, taste and pocketbook. One glance at the "optional equipment" section of any new car brochure illustrates the point.

If you prefer just a basic car for plain economical transportation, you can select an automobile with only the basic necessities. If, on the other hand, you want extra comfort and convenience, or, you enjoy operating a lot of gadgets, car manufacturers make available a wide variety of optional equipment. Features such as automatic speed control, automatic temperature control, "instant" window defoggers and tilting steering wheels fit into the comfort and convenience classification.

You can add a touch of luxury by selecting special upholstery like crushed velvet or natural leather, not to mention special colors and decor groups.

If you want to go even further and modify your standard automobile with specialized "custom" equipment beyond that offered by your car dealer, you'll find a wealth of items available at a variety of automotive stores to help you create a truly personalized car in apperance and/or performance.

You may want to add a distinctive look to your car by selecting a set of custom wheels. Wire and mag (racing type) wheels impart a sporty flair to your car, and are produced in standard and wide sizes that permit the use of wide tires for additional traction and an "action look."

If you're performance minded, you'll find a wide selection of sophisticated ignition components and specialized engine parts. Items such as high energy ignition systems can further reduce exhaust emissions, and components like dual exhaust systems can help improve your fuel economy. Various suspension options such as heavy-duty sway bars and adjustable shock absorbers also can be installed which will personalize a car's handling characteristics to satisfy a driver's individual requirements.

The list of optional equipment is constantly changing in response to consumer demand. Many items that were optional or simply not available 20 years ago, have become standard equipment on some models as demand has increased. With some of today's options expected to become standard equipment on future models, think how exciting tomorrow's options might be.

Overheating Can Lead To Problems

The glow of a temperature light or a climbing temperature gauge needle on your car's dashboard are warnings that should be heeded.

An overheated engine can result in more serious problems than an annoying delay. Abnormally high temperatures can destroy the lubricating film on vital engine components and cause excessive wear, scoring, valve burning and even lock-up moving parts. Overheating can also cause hot spots inside the engine which can cause knocking, which, in turn, can result in damaged engine parts.

Excessive heat generally results from insufficient lubrication, late ignition timing, straining the engine and leaking valves reuiring excessive use of fuel to produce enough power to handle the load.

Failure to dissipate heat can be caused by a loss of coolant, reduction of effective radiation surface, reduction of cooling air stream, or restriction of coolant circulation.

ONLY 2,000 MADE A YEAR

In addition to the sporty lines of the Saab Sonnett III, it is the only sportscar in America with front wheel drive. The Sonnett has been tested by the Environmental Protection Agency and noted for meeting pollution standards already set for 1975. Cindy Niemeijer approves of the dashing lines on the Sonnett at Paradise Motors in Corte Madera. She is assistant manager at the Little Daisy in Strawberry's Town and Country Village and is modeling an outfit selected from long skirts and summery tops at the Little Daisy.

If you're going to the Auto Show, get there early.

How? Simple.

With a display of the new and exciting that we think only Chevy can put on. Because it's Chevy-wide.

Only when we run out of floor space will you run out of new things to see.

Like Caprice for '74: The luxury Chevrolet that comes equipped with most of the comforts that make driving pleasurable.

Chevelle: A smart new Malibu Classic plus a sporty new Laguna Type S-3 with a resilient nose and wraparound stripes.

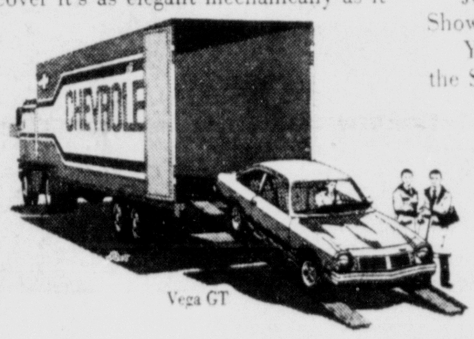

Monte Carlo: You'd think its looks were everything, until you drive it and discover it's as elegant mechanically as it is in appearance.

Camaro: The way it looks is the way it it goes.

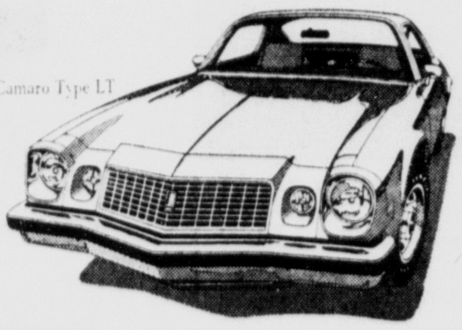

Vega: That's the economy car below that doesn't look like one.

Just look for the big Chevy signs at the Show and walk that way.

NICKNAMED THE 'LITTLE LIMOUSINE'

Two friends from the Strawberry Town and Country Village get together at Scripture Oldsmobile in San Rafael to model for the Polynesian House. Stacy Alvarado (left) from Marin Music Center is wearing a breezy, pink floral, island inspired dress, and Theresa Graham (right) from the Polynesian House is modeling a black and white floral print by Solo of San Francisco. The car of their choice is Oldsmobile Cutlass Supreme — better known as the "little limousine."

. . . EVERY INCH A CHAMPION

The Champion Motorhome is one of the models at Marin Recreational Vehicle Center in San Rafael that will give vacation pleasure to many of Marin's residents this summer and on through the years. Some suggested uses are for camping, fishing, hunting, weekending, sightseeing and group parties or sports events — see if you can think of more. A GO ANYWHERE CAR

Sitting on the showroom floor at Annex Motors in San Rafael is the 145 Volvo, a spacious cargo wagon with power-assisted steering. With the back seat down there's room for a six-foot sofa and two chairs. Or, there's room for luggage in addition to good road manueverability on the road.

Poor Windshield Wipers Dangerous

A car's windshield is no place for foreign substances, as many an injured peephole pilot can tell you.

Squinting through a peephole in the windshield, warns the National Automobile Club, amounts to a grave seeing deficiency. And this you can't afford if you want to fight hazards that arise on the road. Anything less than maximum seeing ability can land you in a serious crash.

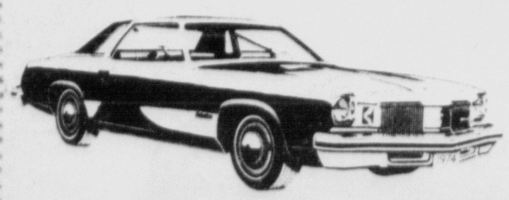

Time Is Ideal To See Valley

Now is the perfect time to visit the Puyallup Valley beneath the slopes of Mount Rainier in the state of Washington.

Starting in mid-March, points out the National Automobile Club, the valley displays field after field of golden daffodils. Tulips and other bulb flowers add colorful variety.

It's understandable that people often refer to this delightful valley as "the birthplace of spring."

Mazda's rotary engine licensed by NSU-WANKEL

50,000 MILES 3 YEARS.

MAZDA INTRODUCES A LONGER ENGINE WARRANTY.

After 14 years of development and almost three-quarter of a million cars on the road, the rotary engine has proven to be so dependable, we now warrant the engine for 50,000 miles or 3 years.

Mazda also offers a unique driving experience. The rotary engine is smooth, quiet, responsive and economical. Recent mileage tests by *Motor Trend showed on the cars tested that the Mazda RX-4 Hardtop, with standard transmission, gets about the same fuel economy as the Gremlin with automatic, better than the Chevy Nova with automatic or the Mustang II V-6 stick shift, and far better than the Dodge Dart automatic.

This warranty is free with all new rotary-engine Mazdas—sold on or after March 26, 1974. Mazda now offers a non-transferable warranty that the basic engine block and internal parts will be free of defects, with normal use and prescribed maintenance, for 50,000 miles or 3 years, whichever occurs first, or Mazda will fix it free.

Cooling System Tips For Summer

The average car's cooling system — often a source of trouble when the weather warms up — deserves "extra special attention this year," an auto maintenance expert cautions. If it's out of whack, it can add substantially to already inflated gasoline costs besides causing a host of other problems.

"Many motorists make the mistake of removing the cooling system thermostat for summer driving," says George E. Wilson, vice president of C.I.T. Service Leasing Corporation, which leases thousands of cars and trucks to companies operating automotive fleets.

"Admittedly, defective thermostats are a frequent cause of engine overheating, but a thermostat in good working order is just as necessary in summer as in winter.

"Without a thermostat, the engine takes too long to warm up, even on the hottest day. This delays the flow of lubricating oil to vital moving parts, causing needless engine wear and wasting gasoline."

Wilson cites five other sources of cooling-system trouble that should be looked into:

When an engine overheats at turnpike speeds but not in slow traffic, have your radiator hoses checked, especially the lower one. A hose that feels spongy and soft may interfere with coolant circulation.

Loose fan-belt tension is another common heat-producer. Loose belts slip, reducing the cooling action of the water pump as well as the fan.

A proper flow of engine oil is responsible for 40 per cent of the cooling job needed to prevent overheating. If the oil level is low, if oil pressure is weak or if oil passages are clogged, the engine will run hot.

If fast-rising engine temperatures have you baffled, don't overlook the fuel pump. If pressure is weak, the lean gasoline mixture that results will cause the engine to run abnormally hot.

Finally, when the engine suddenly overheats after you've stopped for gas, see if the radiator pressure cap is loose. The gas station attendant may have failed to put it back on tight after checking the water.

They Don't Make 'em Like They Used To

They don't make cars like they used to, and that's good news for today's motorists.

Comparing the maintenance requirements of one car manufacturer's 1974 model to his 1954 model illustrates how much cars have been improved.

To follow the maintenance recommended in the owner's manual over 50,000 miles (five years), the 1954 model maintenance schedule called for 49 trips to the service shop. For the same 50,000 miles, the manual for the 1974 model recommends only eight visits.

Engineering improvements have greatly reduced maintenance needs over the past two decades. The 1954 manual, for example, recommended 671 service adjustments and inspections over 50,000 miles. The manual provided with the 1974 model recommends 105. That's 566 fewer items.

In 1954, a complete chassis lubrication was scheduled every 1,000 miles; an oil change every 2,000 miles; and brake adjustments and major engine tuning every 5,000 miles.

For the manufacturer's current model, chassis lubrication isn't scheduled until 36,000 miles; oil change is at 6,000; major engine tuning at 24,000 miles, and brakes adjust themselves.

The reduced maintenance schedule is even more impressive when you consider how much the "engineering content" of the car has increased. This particular '74 model, for example, has power steering and power brakes as standard equipment. They weren't even offered as options on the '54 model.

Other engineering advances that have contributed to the reduced maintenance schedules include the introduction of alternators and electronic ignition and the development of engines, axles, wheel bearings, distributors, universal joints, suspension and steering joints that require either less periodic lubrication or none at all.

On top of that, today's owner receives a 12-month/12,000-mile warranty which compares with the 90-day/4,000-mile warranty that covered the 1954 model.

Taking a look further back into history, the Model T, still a fond memory for many people, needed an oil change every 750 miles, required a 16-point chassis lube every 100 miles and even called for daily engine lubrication.

In addition, an early handbook for the car described an "absolutely essential" tool kit for owners planning a trip. It included a hammer, cold chisel, oil can, files, screwdriver, wire and monkey wrench.

Borax Date

Aaron Winters, according to the National Automobile Club, discovered borax in California's Death Valley in 1880.

Fuel Crisis In The U.S. Isn't Ended

The lifting of the recent oil embargo, more gasoline stations pumping fuel longer hours, Sunday gasoline sales and the disappearance of long gas lines have given many motorists the feeling that the gas shortage is behind us, and the days of unlimited carefree driving are just around the corner.

Unfortunately, such is not the case.

Oil experts indicate that the U.S. still faces major long-term energy problems. Our country is still dependent on oil imports — both crude and refined — to meet our demands.

The current situation regarding the availability of oil is unstable because the oil producing countries have lifted the embargo on what they call a trial or temporary basis, and a firm price structure for oil has not been formulated.

While many motorists have faced hardships the past few months, excellent cooperation, generally, by motorists practicing fuel conserving measures helped prevent the fuel shortage from becoming critical nationwide.

Car pools, gas-saving driving habits and regular maintenance to keep cars performing at peak efficiency all helped to reduce the consumption of fuel by about 15 per cent from anticipated levels, according to industry sources. The fuel shortage, by the way, made many motorists realize how dependent they really are on the automobile for essential needs.

As we approach the traditionally heavy driving season, the time of vacation trips, graduations, weddings, etc., plus other energy-consuming leisure time activities such as boating, fuel supplies are expected to be about the same as last summer. But in the meantime we have added about four million cars on our nation's highways.

Based on the best available facts, there are about 10,000 more licensed drivers in the U.S. every day and about 8,000 more cars in use per day, therefore, consumption requirements continue to increase.

In order to have fuel for the things you want to do this summer, fuel conservation measures that you followed during the fuel crisis are still necessary.

Heat Is Tire's Worst Enemy

How many times have you heard that heat destroys car tires?

It's true. Heat induced by friction, according to the National Automobile Club, is a tire's worst enemy.

That heat, however, can be reduced. Just keep your tires properly inflated.

Engine Can Be Used As Brake

Often happening at the most inopportune moments, tire blowouts can make drivers really sweat if they put on the brakes.

Trying to stop a car in this way, cautions the National Automobile Club, is the wrong way under the circumstances. It only multiplies a driver's headaches, greatly increases the difficulty in safely steering his car.

On the other hand, the wise move is to let the engine lessen the difficulty. It is that good a brake.

PROPANE AUTOS RUN CLEANER

Standing beside the 1974 Datsun 710 are Nancy McLean (left) and Sheila Bartolozzi, (right), both from the Golden Strawberry Beauty Salon in Strawberry's Town and Country Village. The girls are modeling special fashions selected from the Golden Strawberry Boutique. The Datsun 710 was converted to run on both propane and gasoline by Automotive Fuel Specialities, Inc. of San Anselmo. They report that their engine is more economical since propane is selling at 34 cents a gallon, maintenance costs are reduced by 30 per cent and engine life is increased 200 per cent on propane.

Ignition System Current Provides A Heavy Jolt

If you drive a car powered by an eight-cylinder engine, for every mile you drive, a jolt of about 20,000 volts of electric current shoots through your car's spark plug wires and spark plugs 10,000 times every mile. This current creates a spark that jumps across a gap in your car's spark plugs and ignites the fuel inside the cylinders of the engine.

This electricity originates from you car's battery, but in order to boost the relatively docile 12 volts produced by the battery into the considerably higher voltage required, it is routed through a transformer or can-shaped ignition coil.

The coil consists of a core around which is wrapped two sets of wire windings. In conventional ignition systems, current from the battery flows through the first set of windings, creating a magnetic field.

The current also flows through a switch — called points — which is located inside the distributor. The points are opened and closed by a cam that rotates inside the distributor.

Buick invites you to a very personal showing.

Riviera.
This year's Buick display offers one of the broadest ranges of personal cars in the business. Like the 1974 Buick Riviera, on the right. It's been redesigned this year. To offer classic good looks. Not to mention luxurious riding comfort. And great road handling. Standard features include a 455-cubic-inch V-8 engine and Turbo Hydra-matic 400 transmission. Real leather upholstery is an available option. It's Buick's ultimate personal luxury car.

Electra Limited.
Then there's the Electra Limited on the left. Electra is more than the most luxurious Buick we build. It's America's second-best selling luxury car. It has an extensive list of standard equipment and refinements. (Crushed velour upholstery is standard.) And an equally long list of available options. Like that sporty padded vinyl Landau top. And Electra luxury is extended to the riding and handling—so that the 1974 Buick Electra feels as good as it looks.

LeSabre Luxus.
Next, look at the 1974 LeSabre Luxus Hardtop Coupe, on the right. And, although LeSabre is our lowest priced full-sized car, it still offers the standard features you expect from Buick. Included is a 350-cubic-inch V-8, variable-ratio power steering, power front disc brakes, and our super-smooth Turbo Hydra-matic transmission. Combine these niceties with LeSabre's reasonable price, and you have one of the finest automotive values on the market.

Century Regal.
After that, spend some time with the Century Regal 4-door Sedan, above. It's a refined version of the Regal Coupe, which made such a great hit in 1973. It literally opens the doors of the sporty car to the man with a family. Now, people who want the convenience of four doors can have it—along with Century Regal's impressive styling, typically great Buick ride, and elegantly appointed interior. And its price is well within the reach of the young buyers Century Regal seems to attract.

Apollo.
Now take a look at what Buick has done to improve the Apollo Hatchback Coupe for 1974. We introduced it in mid-1973 as the small car you move up to. This year, you'll notice we've added some exciting features in both interior and exterior trim. And new options like bucket seats and steel-belted radial tires. If you're looking for small-car maneuverability and economy without giving up performance and personal comfort, you don't have to look any further.

Opel.
Last but not least, take a look at the 1974 Opel Manta. One look and you'll know why Opel is Germany's largest selling car. And in that nation where driving is a passion, great road handling is very much in demand. Steel road wheels are standard. Not to mention superb engineering. Manta carries a 1.9 litre 4-cylinder cam-in-head engine and 4-speed fully synchronized transmission. Also standard.

Control Is Vital For Driving Car

The most important aspect of driving on either a race track or highway is to have control of the vehicle at all times. That's the opinion of leading professional driver Mark Donohue, who admits it is often very difficult to know what is good control and what is the maximum capability of the car.

Racing drivers, Donohue says, are paid to learn the various characteristics of the cars they drive. They spend considerable time learning each car's handling characteristics, often working long hours with technicians to make adjustments to suit the track and his style of driving.

The average motorist, of course, does not have the opportunity under normal highway conditions to realize the maximum maneuvering potential that is built into his family automobile. In avoidance situations he is more prone to jam on his brakes and lock his wheels than to try and steer around an obstacle such as an accident.

Donohue says studies show that the average driver uses only 25% of the evasive capability of his car. He says that these drivers, no matter how competent, will almost never make an extreme evasive maneuver to avoid an accident, especially if they have not previously experienced that particular maneuver.

Jamming on the brakes and locking the wheels, Donohue says, causes the driver to lose all steering capability of his car. It is, in fact, out of control. In some emergency situations, there isn't even enough time to apply the brakes and avoid an accident because the car is traveling too fast or the obstacle is too close.

Donohue feels that the solution lies in education, although drivers with 10 or more years of driving experience might have difficulty in breaking old habits to use new driving techniques.

The place to start, says Donohue, is on a small scale with the new driver who can more readily adapt to this different concept of avoiding accidents.

Snow Country Travel Tips

Once you have your car parts restored to good working order for a spring trip in snow country, you shouldn't stop just there.

Prior to your departure date, according to the National Automobile Club, is the right time to make a checklist of equipment that can come in very handy under troublesome conditions.

Taking along in your car such equipment as a good bumper jack, a short shovel, flares, a tow chain, and an extra can of oil can reward you well with getting you out of many a difficulty in snow country.

Reasons Behind Hunting Seasons

There are very good reasons for establishing hunting seasons openings and closings in California.

If hunters shoot too early in the fall, reminds the National Automobile Club, they put the young born during the year under much stress and strain.

Marin Car Count Per Household

Marin County, whose ratio of cars per household keeps climbing, now averages 1.89 automobiles per household.

A report from the California Department of Motor Vehicles shows 145,674 automobile registrations in Marin County for 1973. With the total number of households estimated at 71,700, this gives an incidence of autos per household which is an all-time record for the county.

Marin vehicle registrations for 1973 were 145,674 autos, 18,049 trucks, 11,234 trailers, and 6,722 motorcycles for a grand total of 181,679 vehicles.

San Diego Park: All-Year Attraction

Although some California tourist attractions close for the winter, San Diego's Mission Bay Park stays open.

An average of 350 sunny days a year and an annual temperature mean of 71 degrees, according to the National Automobile Club, make Mission Bay Park a very popular all-year aquatic playground.
